SNOW

When I woke up
this morning, it was snowing!

I couldn't wait to go to the park.

All I needed to do
was dress,

We had to get outside in the SNOW...

wash, put my shoes on,

and get Grandad.

... before anyone else.

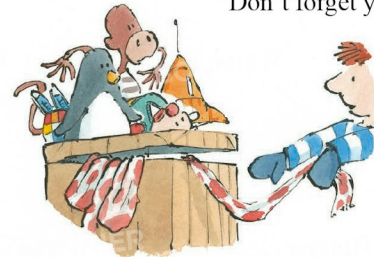

I was ready to go,
but Granddad wasn't.

I said, "Don't forget the snow!"

And he said,
"Don't forget your scarf."

So we weren't quick enough to be first.

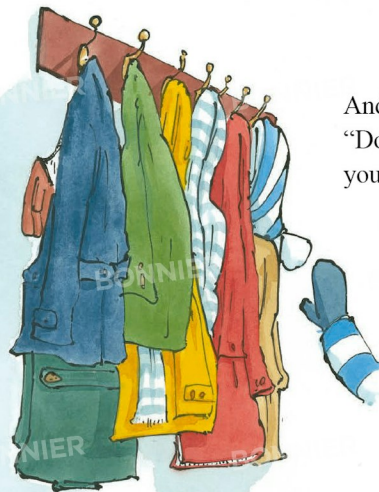

Grandad was taking ages.
So I shouted,

“All the others will get there first, Grandad –
DON'T FORGET
THE SNOW!”

And Grandad said, “Don't forget
your hat!”

So we weren't quick enough to go with my friends.

Grandad was taking absolutely ages.
So I shouted,

“HURRY UP, GRANDAD!”

And he said,
“It’s okay, we’re not going to miss the fun.”

But we were! I told him all the cats and dogs were out there.

Grandpa laughed and said the whole zoo was probably out there.

And then I saw something...

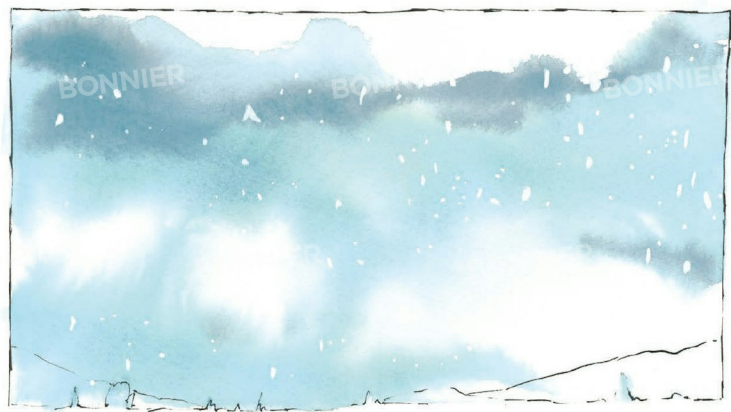

I did!

Finally, Grandad was ready.

We were off to the park.

Where I could have fun with everyone at last.

We played all the games you can play in the snow.

Grandad won the snowball fight by six slushings to four.

So I think he had fun too.

Back at home,
Grandad and I agreed some things are definitely worth waiting for.

I hope it snows
again tomorrow.
