DINO EGG HUNT

AN EGG-CELLENT
LIFT-THE-FLAP STORY
Based on the book by JONNY DUDDLE

It was a perfect spring day, and Cretacia was bustling with lots of busy dinos . . .

But four little dinos just couldn't decide on what to do!

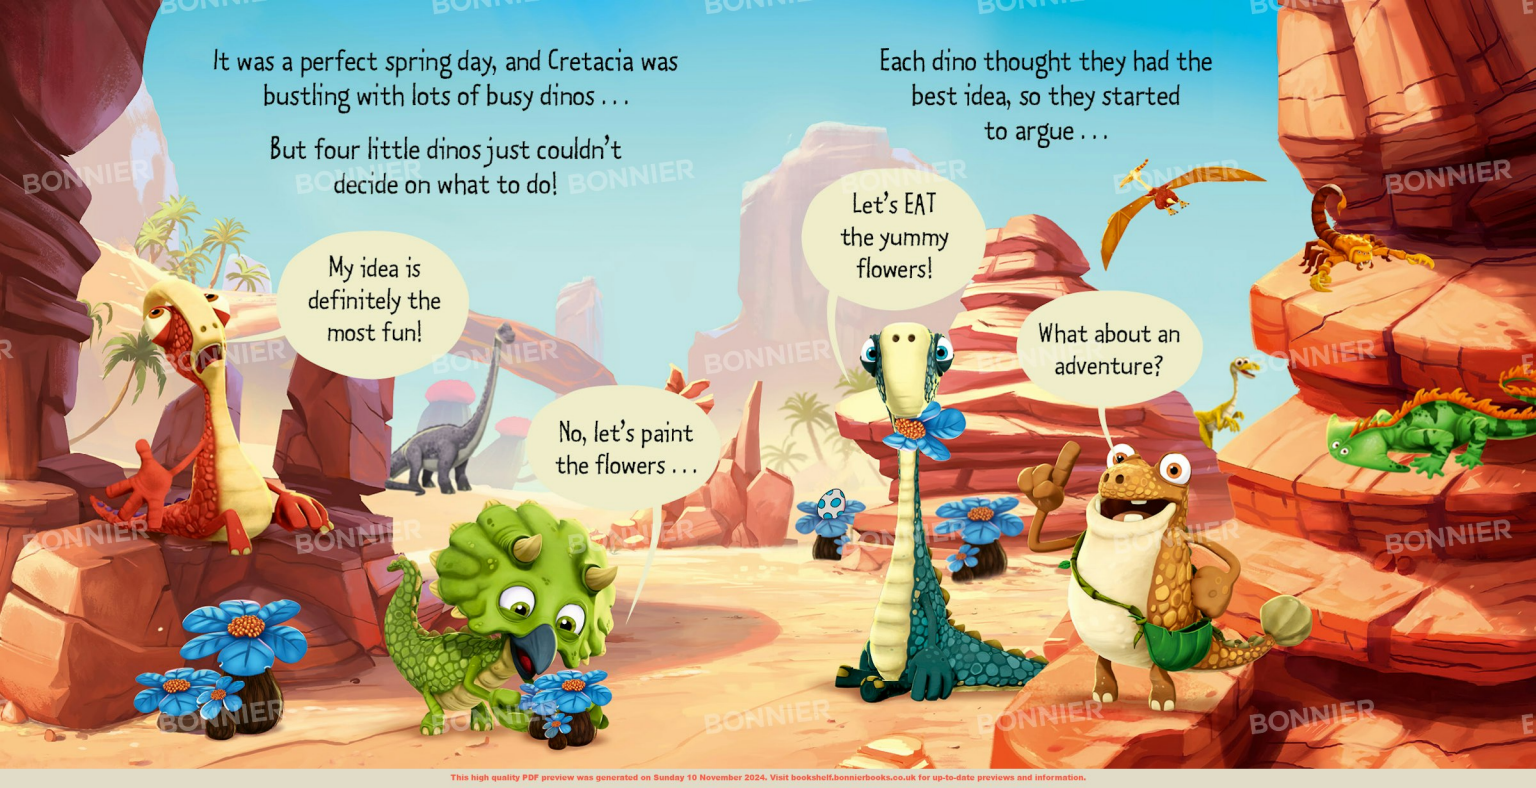

Each dino thought they had the best idea, so they started to argue . . .

My idea is definitely the most fun!

No, let's paint the flowers . . .

Let's EAT the yummy flowers!

What about an adventure?

Luckily, Trey and his friends arrived just in time to stop their squabbling. Trey had a VERY special quest to keep the little dinos busy.

“You must work together to find four hidden eggs,” Trey said. “If you find them all before sunset, you’ll get a CRACKING prize!”

Get ready . . .
Set . . . GO!

Would you like a hint? Search all four corners of Cretacia!

With no time to lose,
the friends set off
into the jungle.

Where shall we look first?

This will be so much fun!

Let's get that prize!

Suddenly, Mazu had an idea! She led the friends into a quiet clearing.

“If you were an egg, where would you be?”
Mazu asked the group.

Err, I'm not an egg so I don't know!

I know –
IN A NEST!

Soon after they set off again, there was a loud RUMBLE. It was Bill's tummy!

Mazu knew exactly what to do! She led the way to the tree where delicious peaches grew..

RUMBLE
RUMBLE

Trey knew you'd get hungry Bill, so maybe he hid the egg here . . .

“... right next to
the perfect snack!”
Mazu said, chuckling.

You found it!

I knew it!

YUMMY!

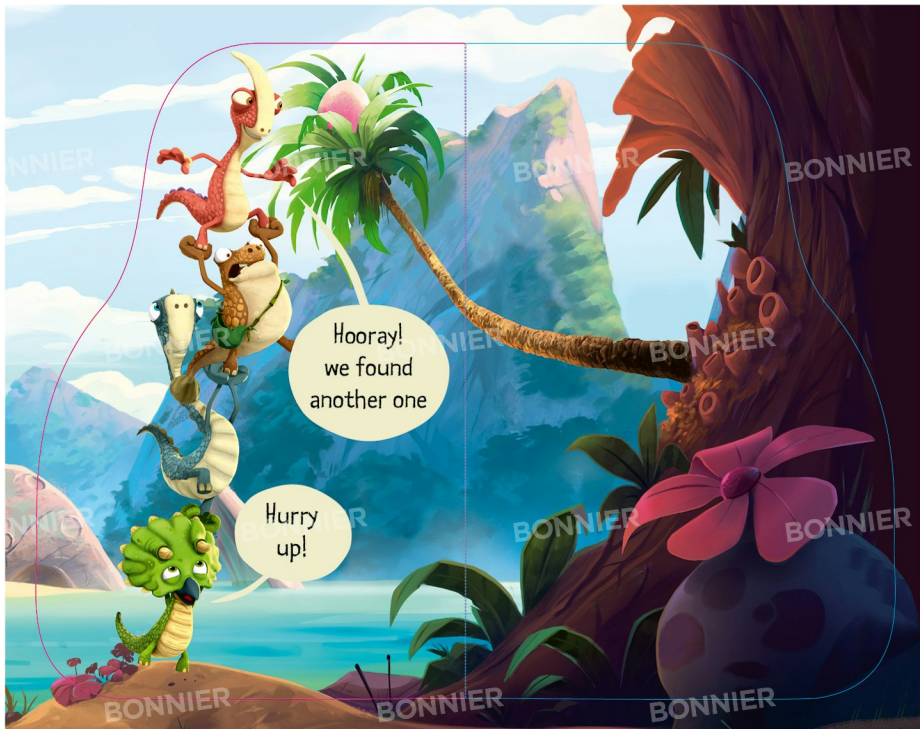

On their hunt for the third egg,
the dinos arrived at the lake.

“If I was a big dino like Trey, I would hide an egg up high up in a tree.”
Rocky thought.

On the beach, they spotted a coconut tree that looked like the PERFECT hiding place
but none of the little dinos could reach!

I know what we can do!

Time was running out. It was nearly sunset and the friends still had one more egg to find.

But Giganto didn't hear them and started to stomp away. And that's when they spotted it . . .

Maybe we could ask Giganto?

Giganto, have you seen our last egg?

The egg was attached to Giganto's tail!
Before they could stop him, Giganto gave his tail a HUGE swish . . .

... Bill leapt up and caught the egg as it flew through the air!

That was lucky!

ROAAAARRRRRR!

What an EGG-citing day!

As the dinos headed back to the den,
they spotted a trail of tiny eggs.

Where are these eggs taking us?

So the four friends followed the eggs and found . . .

CONGRATULATIONS!
You found all the eggs!

Teamwork makes the dream work!

... a delicious picnic for the BEST
dino egg hunters in Cretacia!
