ALL AT ONCE, I SAW TWO FIGURES:
ONE A LITTLE MAN WHO WAS STUMPING ALONG
EASTWARD AT A GOOD WALK, AND THE OTHER
A GIRL OF MAYBE EIGHT OR TEN WHO WAS RUNNING
AS HARD AS SHE WAS ABLE DOWN ANOTHER STREET
TOWARDS HIM, UNAWARE OF HIS PRESENCE...

WELL, SIR, THE TWO RAN INTO ONE ANOTHER
NATURALLY ENOUGH AT THE CORNER; AND THEN CAME THE HORRIBLE PART OF THE THING; FOR THE
MAN TRAMPLED CALMLY OVER THE CHILD'S BODY

SIR DANVERS CAREW,
MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT

A YOUNG WOMAN SERVANT

POLICE INSPECTOR NEWCOMEN

MR HYDE'S HOUSEKEEPER

MR GABRIEL UTTERSON IS A LAWYER. HE LIVES ALONE AND LEADS A QUIET LIFE. TO STRANGERS HE SEEMS SOLEMN AND DULL. BUT HIS FRIENDS RESPECT AND TRUST HIM. HE IS WISE AND UNDERSTANDING, AND HAS A KIND HEART.

MR UTTERSON WORKS HARD FROM MONDAY TO SATURDAY, BUT ON SUNDAYS HE GOES FOR LONG WALKS WITH HIS COUSIN, THE WEALTHY, LIVELY BUSINESSMAN MR RICHARD ENFIELD. ALTHOUGH THEY ARE SO DIFFERENT, THEY HAVE BEEN GREAT FRIENDS SINCE CHILDHOOD.

A SMALL, QUIET STREET IN LONDON

OFTEN THEY WALK IN SILENCE, BUT TODAY MR ENFIELD HAS A TALE TO TELL.

1. excursions: journeys for pleasure.
2. romantic notions.

MR ENFIELD BEGINS HIS TALE:

I begin to long for the sight of a policeman.

IT WAS VERY LATE ONE NIGHT. MR ENFIELD WAS WALKING HOME THROUGH DARK, SILENT STREETS. THE WHOLE CITY SEEMED DESERTED. WAS NOBODY ELSE AWAKE?

SUDDENLY TWO FIGURES APPEARED AT A STREET CORNER

APPROACHING FROM DIFFERENT DIRECTIONS, THEY COULD NOT SEE ONE ANOTHER.

THEY COLLIDED... THE GIRL FELL... THE MAN TRAMPLED OVER HER... AND CALMLY WALKED AWAY!

OUTRAGED BY WHAT HE HAD SEEN, ENFIELD CHASED THE ATTACKER. HE SOON CAUGHT HIM, BUT THE MAN SEEMED COMPLETELY UNCONCERNED BY WHAT HE HAD DONE.

AN ANGRY CROWD GATHERED ROUND THE TERRIFIED GIRL. SHE WAS BADLY SHAKEN, BUT STILL BREATHING. A DOCTOR ARRIVED, AND SAID THAT SHE'D SURVIVE. EVEN THE DOCTOR LOOKED ANGRY ENOUGH TO KILL THE MAN.

TOGETHER, ENFIELD AND THE DOCTOR CONFRONTED THE ATTACKER. THEY THREATENED TO DISGRACE HIM UNLESS HE OFFERED MONEY TO THE POOR GIRL'S FAMILY.

SULLEN AND SNEERING, THE ATTACKER AGREED TO PAY. HE WAS NOT SORRY – HE ONLY WANTED TO AVOID BAD PUBLICITY.

NEXT, THE ATTACKER LED THEM TO A SHABBY DOOR IN AN OLD OUTHOUSE, OPENED IT, THEN DISAPPEARED INSIDE. WAS THIS A TRICK? HAD HE ESCAPED THEM?

IT WAS THE SAME DOOR THAT THE TWO FRIENDS ARE LOOKING AT NOW!

THE ATTACKER RETURNED WITH A CHEQUE<sup>2</sup> FOR £100.<sup>3</sup> HOW COULD THE STRANGER HAVE GOT HOLD OF THIS MASSIVE SUM? WAS THE CHEQUE FORGED, OR STOLEN?

THE ATTACKER SAID HE WOULD PROVE THAT THE CHEQUE WAS NOT A FORGERY. HE WOULD WAIT WITH MR ENFIELD UNTIL THE BANK WAS OPEN. THEN THEY WOULD SEE!

AS HE HAD PROMISED, THE ATTACKER WALKED TO THE BANK WITH MR ENFIELD, THE DOCTOR AND THE INJURED GIRL'S FATHER.

TOGETHER, THEY HANDED THE CHEQUE TO A BANK CLERK. HE LOOKED AT IT VERY CAREFULLY, AND EXAMINED THE SIGNATURE.

LISTENING TO THE STORY, MR UTTERSON SHAKES HIS HEAD AND FROWNS. WHAT WAS WORRYING HIM?

1. Halloa: a call used by huntsmen when chasing a fox.

1. apocryphal: not true. 2. cheque: a printed form giving one person permission to take money out of another person's bank account. It is only valid if it has been signed by the account holder. 3. £100: worth about £2,000 today.

AS THE FRIENDS CONTINUE THEIR WALK, MR ENFIELD HAS MORE TO SAY. MR ENFIELD WAS CLEARLY EVIL, BUT THE CHEQUE WAS SIGNED BY ANOTHER: A WELL-KNOWN AND RESPECTED MAN, FAMOUS FOR DOING GOOD.

WHY WOULD SUCH A RESPECTABLE MAN SIGN A CHEQUE FOR THIS LITTLE GIRL'S ATTACKER? MR ENFIELD CAN THINK OF ONLY ONE EXPLANATION, AND IT IS A SINISTER ONE...

MR ENFIELD SUPPOSES THAT THE ATTACKER KNOWS SOME FOOLISH, SHAMEFUL SECRET FROM THE OTHER MAN'S PAST. NOW HE'S FORCING HIM TO PAY TO KEEP THAT SECRET HIDDEN.

MR UTTERSON WANTS TO KNOW MORE. DOES THE GOOD MAN LIVE IN THE OLD OUTHOUSE WITH THE SHABBY DOOR? THAT'S NOT VERY LIKELY! MR ENFIELD AGREES. IN FACT, HE'S DISCOVERED THAT THE GOOD MAN LIVES IN A QUIET, RESPECTABLE SQUARE.<sup>2</sup>

AS THE FRIENDS WALK ON, ENFIELD DESCRIBES THE BUILDING WITH THE DOOR. IT'S NOT A PROPER HOUSE, BUT IT HAS A ROOM WITH THREE BIG WINDOWS, AND A CHIMNEY THAT'S OFTEN SMOKING. SO SOMEONE MUST USE IT!

BUT MR ENFIELD HAS MADE A RULE FOR HIMSELF: NEVER ASK QUESTIONS! YOU NEVER KNOW WHAT ANSWERS YOU MIGHT FIND. OLD, BITTER QUARRELS MIGHT BE STARTED UP AGAIN, OR FORGOTTEN SINS MADE PUBLIC.

MR UTTERSON FROWNS, THEN SUDDENLY ASKS THE ATTACKER'S NAME, AND WHAT HE LOOKED LIKE. TO ENFIELD'S ASTONISHMENT, MR UTTERSON SEEMS TO RECOGNISE THE MAN'S NAME. HOW CAN THIS BE?

1. Paying through the nose: being forced to pay too much.
2. square: a group of fine houses built around a private garden.

1. the other party; the man who signed the cheque.

LATER THAT EVENING...

MR UTTERSON FINISHES HIS SIMPLE, SOLITARY MEAL AND GOES TO HIS OFFICE. HE OPENS THE SAFE WHERE HE KEEPS IMPORTANT PAPERS, AND TAKES OUT JUST ONE DOCUMENT.

IT'S A WILL! MADE SOME TIME AGO BY ONE OF HIS OLDEST FRIENDS.

Madness!

'All my possessions are to pass into the hands of my friend Edward Hyde.'

MR UTTERSON REMEMBERS PROTESTING WHEN HIS GOOD FRIEND DR JEKYLL ASKED HIM TO PREPARE THE WILL. IN FACT, HE REFUSED TO WRITE IT. DR JEKYLL HAD TO WRITE IT HIMSELF.

MR UTTERSON HAS KEPT THE WILL SAFE. BUT EVERY TIME HE SEES IT HE FEELS ANXIOUS AND UNHAPPY.

A fiend! It was already bad enough when the name was but a name.<sup>1</sup>

1. will: a legal document giving instructions for passing on a person's money and possessions after their death.
2. when the name was but a name: when I know nothing about Hyde except his name.

I thought it was madness...

...now I begin to fear it is disgrace!

MR UTTERSON NEEDS ADVICE - URGENTLY.

HE GOES TO SEE HIS FRIEND, THE DOCTOR AND SCIENTIST HASTIE LANYON. DR LANYON WENT TO SCHOOL WITH MR UTTERSON AND DR JEKYLL. SURELY HE'LL KNOW WHAT TO DO?

You and I must be the two oldest friends that Henry Jekyll has?

He began to go wrong, wrong in mind... Such unscientific balderdash!<sup>1</sup>

BUT LANYON AND JEKYLL HAVE QUARRELLED OVER A QUESTION OF SCIENCE. THEY HAVE NOT SPOKEN FOR MORE THAN TEN YEARS.

1. balderdash: nonsense.

Did you ever come across Hyde?

No. Never heard of him.

BACK HOME, MR UTTERSON CANNOT SLEEP. ALL THE STRANGE THINGS HE'S SEEN AND HEARD COME BACK TO HIM LIKE NIGHTMARES...

...THE EMPTY, ECHOING STREETS...

...THE ATTACKER STOMPING ALONG...

...THE LITTLE GIRL, ALL ALONE...

...THE CRUSHING ATTACK...

...THE GIRL'S SCREAM!

HE IMAGINES THE ATTACKER CREEPING UP ON DR JEKYLL.

HE GETS CLOSER AND CLOSER...

...LOOMS LARGER AND LARGER...

...AND SEEMS TO DISSOLVE BEFORE UTTERSON'S EYES!

AT LAST, AS DAWN BREAKS, MR UTTERSON FALLS ASLEEP, TROUBLED AND EXHAUSTED.

LATER THAT MORNING

MORNING

NIGHT

MR UTTERSON DECIDES THAT HE MUST TRACK DOWN MR HYDE AND DISCOVER WHAT KIND OF PERSON HE REALLY IS. THEN, PERHAPS, HE'LL UNDERSTAND WHY HENRY JEKYLL IS SO GENEROUS TO HIM. UTTERSON WAITS ALL DAY BY THE MYSTERIOUS DOOR.

AT LAST HIS PATIENCE IS REWARDED. A SMALL, UNPLEASANT-LOOKING MAN APPROACHES AND UNLOCKS THE SHABBY DOOR.

Mr Hyde, I think?

That is my name. What do you want?

Will you let me see your face?

The man seems hardly human!

O Jekyll, if ever I read Satan's signature upon a face, it is on that of your new friend!

Now I shall know you again. It may be useful.

It is well we have met; and you should have my address.

QUICK AS A FLASH, HYDE OPENS THE DOOR, STEPS IN AND SLAMS IT SHUT BEHIND HIM. ALONE IN THE STREET, MR UTTERSON STANDS SHOCKED AND SHAKING. HE, TOO, HAS SEEN SOMETHING DEVILISH AND DISGUSTING IN MR HYDE.

Good evening, sir!

Is Dr Jekyll at home, Pooler?

UTTERSON DOES NOT GO HOME. INSTEAD, HE GOES TO THE SQUARE OF HANDSOME OLD HOUSES WHERE DR JEKYLL LIVES. ALTHOUGH IT'S LATE, THE LAMPS ARE STILL BURNING BRIGHTLY. MR UTTERSON KNOCKS AT THE FRONT DOOR. POOLE, THE BUTLER, LETS HIM IN.

AS HE WAITS BY THE FIRE, MR UTTERSON SUDDENLY FEELS A SENSE OF MENACE IN DR JEKYLL'S COMFORTABLE HOUSE.

POOLE RETURNS.

Dr Jekyll has gone out, sir.

Poor Harry Jekyll - he is in deep waters!

We all have orders to obey him.

AS MR UTTERSON LEAVES, HE ASKS POOLE WHETHER HE HAS EVER SEEN MR HYDE. YES, HE HAS - AND HE ADDS SOME STARTLING INFORMATION.

Things cannot continue as they are!

TWO WEEKS LATER, DR JEKYLL INVITES SOME OLD FRIENDS TO HIS HOME.

I have been wanting to speak to you. You know that will of yours?

MR UTTERSON IS THE LAST TO LEAVE.

An excellent fellow, but hidebound,<sup>1</sup> ignorant!

You know I never approved of it. I have been learning something of young Hyde.

DR JEKYLL TURNS DEATHLY PALE.

You do not understand. My position is very strange.

DR JEKYLL LOOKS ANNOYED. THE WILL CLEARLY WORRIES HIM. HE TRIES TO CHANGE THE SUBJECT: HE TALKS ABOUT THEIR FRIEND DR HASTIE LANYON.

BUT MR UTTERSON IS DETERMINED TO HELP HIS FRIEND JEKYLL IF HE CAN. SO HE CONTINUES TO TALK ABOUT THE WILL.

Help Hyde for my sake, when I am no longer here!

DR JEKYLL SAYS HE IS SORRY, BUT HE CANNOT CHANGE THE WILL. HE WON'T EXPLAIN WHY. BUT HE DECLARES THAT HYDE IS NOT AS BAD AS UTTERSON FEARS, AND PROMISES THAT HE CAN GET RID OF HYDE ANY TIME HE CHOOSES. THEN HE MAKES AN URGENT PLEA.

Well... I promise!

RELUCTANTLY, MR UTTERSON AGREES, BUT HE IS PUZZLED - AND FEARFUL. WHAT CAN THESE DESPERATE WORDS MEAN? WHAT TERRIBLE FUTURE LIES AHEAD FOR DR JEKYLL AND THE MYSTERIOUS MR HYDE?

1. hidebound: not interested in new ideas.

ONE YEAR LATER

IT'S A FINE NIGHT. THE LANE BY THE RIVER IS PEACEFUL.

A SERVANT GIRL GAZES DREAMILY OUT OF HER WINDOW.

SHE SEES TWO MEN. ONE OLD AND DIGNIFIED, THE OTHER YOUNGER AND VERY SHORT.

THE TWO MEN MEET.

THE SERVANT DOES NOT RECOGNISE THE OLD MAN, BUT HE IS HANDSOME, WELL-DRESSED AND CHARMING. HE BOWS TO THE YOUNG MAN, AND SPEAKS TO HIM POLITELY.

THE YOUNG MAN IS NOT THE OLD MAN, BUT HE IS HANDSOME, WELL-DRESSED AND CHARMING. HE BOWS TO THE YOUNG MAN, AND SPEAKS TO HIM POLITELY.

WITHOUT WARNING, HYDE ATTACKS THE OLDER MAN.

THWACK!

CRUNCH!

THE SERVANT FAINTS WITH HORROR.

AS SOON AS SHE REVIVES, SHE HURRIES TO CALL THE POLICE. THEY FIND THE OLD MAN, CRUSHED AND BLEEDING IN THE GUTTER. IS HE STILL BREATHING? NO, HE'S DEAD! HYDE HAS MURDERED HIM. IN HIS POCKET, THE POLICE FIND A LETTER ADDRESSED TO UTTERSON.

This may be very serious.

INSPECTOR NEWCOMEN TAKES THE LETTER TO MR UTTERSON STRAIGHT AWAY. HE DRESSES QUICKLY AND GOES WITH THE POLICE TO IDENTIFY THE BODY.

AT THE POLICE STATION

Good God!

This is Sir Danvers Carew.

THE POLICE HAVE FOUND HALF OF THE MURDER WEAPON - DR JEKYL'S WALKING STICK! HYDE MUST HAVE STOLEN IT.

He was in very late. He is often absent.

UTTERSON TAKES THE POLICE TO THE ADDRESS THAT HYDE GAVE HIM. THEY SEARCH HYDE'S ROOMS AND QUESTION HIS HOUSEKEEPER. HYDE IS NOT THERE - BUT THEY FIND THE OTHER HALF OF THE BROKEN WALKING STICK.

Ah! He is in trouble!

LATER THE SAME DAY

MR UTTERSON CALLS AT DR JEKYLL'S HOUSE. POOLE, THE BUTLER, LEADS HIM TO THE DOCTOR'S PRIVATE LABORATORY, IN AN OLD OUTBUILDING BEHIND THE HOUSE. MR UTTERSON HAS NEVER BEEN HERE BEFORE. IT IS DINGY, DUSTY AND FULL OF MYSTERIOUS FLASKS AND TEST-TUBES. DR JEKYLL IS HIDDEN BY THE FIRE, LOOKING VERY ILL.

You have heard the news?<sup>1</sup>

They were crying<sup>2</sup> it in the street.

I want to know...

You have not been mad enough to hide this fellow?

I swear to God I will never set eyes on him again. It is all at an end. He will never more be heard of.

AS A LAWYER, UTTERSON HAS A DUTY TO HELP CATCH THE MURDERER. BUT HE IS ALSO VERY LOYAL TO HIS FINE OLD FRIEND, DR JEKYLL. HE QUESTIONS THE DOCTOR CAREFULLY. HAS HE BEEN SHELTERING THE MURDEROUS MR HYDE?

If it came to a trial, your name might appear.

Advise me!

Shall I keep this?

MR UTTERSON IS VERY WORRIED BY DR JEKYLL'S WILD, FEVERISH WAY OF TALKING. HE WARNS HIM, STERNLY, NEVER TO SEE HYDE AGAIN.

DR JEKYLL PROMISES, OVER AND OVER AGAIN. THEN HE HANDS MR UTTERSON A LETTER WHICH HAS JUST ARRIVED. SHOULD HE SHOW IT TO THE POLICE? IT IS SIGNED 'EDWARD HYDE'.

THE LETTER THANKS JEKYLL FOR HIS HELP IN THE PAST, AND SAYS THAT HYDE HAS FOUND A SURE WAY TO ESCAPE - AND STAY AWAY.

I knew it! He meant to murder you.

AS UTTERSON LEAVES, HE QUESTIONS POOLE ABOUT THE DAY'S POST.

Nothing - only circulars.<sup>1</sup>

It is an odd hand.

DR JEKYLL STILL DOES NOT WANT TO TALK ABOUT THE WILL, BUT HE FINALLY ADMITS THAT HYDE FORCED HIM TO MAKE IT.

BACK IN HIS OFFICE, MR UTTERSON TAKES A CLOSER LOOK AT THE LETTER. HE SHOWS IT TO MR GUEST, HIS HEAD CLERK, WHO IS AN EXPERT ON HANDWRITING.

A rather singular resemblance.<sup>2</sup>

The two hands are in many points identical.

What! Henry Jekyll forge for a murderer!

A SERVANT BRINGS A NOTE FROM DR JEKYLL. IT'S NOTHING URGENT, JUST AN INVITATION TO DINNER LATER IN THE WEEK.

GUEST ASKS TO LOOK AT THE INVITATION. HE PLACES IT NEXT TO THE LETTER, AND COMPARES THEM. MR UTTERSON CAN HARDLY BEAR TO THINK WHAT GUEST MIGHT DISCOVER!

1. the news; the murder of Sir Danvers Carew. 2. crying; shouting. Newspaper sellers used to shout out the headlines in the street.

1. circulars; advertisements; 'junk mail'. 2. singular resemblance; unusual likeness.

ALL LONDON IS GRIPPED BY NEWS OF THE SHOCKING CRIME. A HUGE REWARD IS OFFERED FOR INFORMATION.

So callous and violent!

Thousands of pounds in reward!

BUT DR JEKYLL IS NOWHERE TO BE FOUND. HIS DISAPPEARANCE HAS LED TO ONE GOOD THING: DR JEKYLL SEEMS MUCH HAPPIER, AND IS BUSY HELPING THE SICK AND POOR.

NOW DR JEKYLL SEES MUCH MORE OF HIS FRIENDS. HE IS KINDLY, LIVELY, WELCOMING. HE HAS EVEN FORGOTTEN HIS OLD QUARREL WITH DR HASTIE LANYON. THE TWO OF THEM DINE WITH MR UTTERSON. IT'S JUST LIKE THE GOOD OLD DAYS!

A FEW DAYS LATER

The Doctor is confined to the house.<sup>2</sup>

UTTERSON IS TOLD THAT DR JEKYLL IS NOT WELL.

A WEEK LATER

The Doctor is seeing no-one.

I have had a shock, and I shall never recover.

EVEN WORSE, WHEN MR UTTERSON CALLS ON DR LANYON TO ASK HIS ADVICE, HE FINDS THAT LANYON IS DYING!

It is a question of weeks.

Jekyll is ill too. Have you seen him?

WHAT DREADFUL THING CAN HAVE HAPPENED TO MR UTTERSON'S TWO OLD FRIENDS?

I wish to see or hear no more of Doctor Jekyll.

Can't I do anything?

Nothing.

AS SOON AS HE GETS HOME, MR UTTERSON SITS DOWN AND WRITES TO DR JEKYLL. HE MUST SEE HIM! HE HAS TO KNOW: WHY HAVE THE TWO DOCTORS QUARRELLED SO DISASTROUSLY? AND WHY WON'T DR JEKYLL SEE ANYONE?

'If I am the chief of sinners, I am the chief of sufferers also.'

AT LAST JEKYLL REPLIES.

'I have brought on myself a punishment and a danger that I cannot name.'

DR JEKYLL'S REPLY IS BAFFLING. MR UTTERSON IS STILL PUZZLING OVER IT WHEN HE HEARS THE DREADFUL NEWS THAT DR LANYON HAS DIED. MR UTTERSON MOURNS THE PASSING OF HIS TRUSTY OLD FRIEND.

SOON AFTER DR LANYON FELL ILL, HE GAVE MR UTTERSON A SEALED ENVELOPE. FEARFUL OF WHAT IT MIGHT REVEAL, MR UTTERSON NOW OPENS IT.

MR UTTERSON ALREADY KNEW THIS, BUT HAD NOT TOLD ANYONE. NOW HE THINKS IT IS TIME TO SHARE HIS WORRIES.

UTTERSON AND ENFIELD LOOK ON, APPALLED. THEY CANNOT HELP POOR DR JEKYLL. SLOWLY, GRIMLY, THEY CONTINUE THEIR WALK IN SILENCE. AT LAST MR UTTERSON SPEAKS. HIS WORDS REVEAL HIS DESPERATION.

ONE EVENING, NOT LONG AFTERWARDS

MR UTTERSON IS ASTONISHED TO RECEIVE A VISIT FROM POOLE, DR JEKYLL'S BUTLER. POOLE LOOKS WORRIED AND FLUSTERED. WHAT CAN BE THE MATTER?

DR JEKYLL HAS BEEN BEHAVING VERY STRANGELY. HE'S BEEN SHUT UP IN HIS LABORATORY FOR OVER A WEEK. POOLE IS AT HIS WITS' END.

AT FIRST THERE IS SILENCE. BUT THEN POOLE AND MR UTTERSON HEAR A FAINT, FEEBLE VOICE. IT SEEMS TO BE COMING FROM SOME FAR CORNER OF THE LABORATORY.

MR UTTERSON DOESN'T RECOGNISE THE VOICE. CAN THAT REALLY BE HIS OLD FRIEND, HENRY JEKYLL? IF SO, SOMETHING'S WRONG!

POOLE THINKS THAT DR JEKYLL WAS MURDERED ABOUT A WEEK AGO. THE MURDERER IS STILL THERE, GLOATING OVER DR JEKYLL'S BODY AND PRETENDING TO BE HIM!

MR UTTERSON IS DOUBTFUL WHY WOULD A MURDERER RISK STAYING SO CLOSE TO THE SCENE OF THE CRIME? POOLE THINKS HE KNOWS WHY.

EVERY DAY THE IMPOSTOR SENDS POOLE OUT TO BUY RARE CHEMICALS. HE IS OBVIOUSLY DESPERATE FOR SOME MYSTERIOUS POTION.

STRANGELY, THE NOTES ORDERING CHEMICALS HAVE ALL BEEN IN DR JEKYLL'S HANDWRITING. BUT ONCE POOLE GLIMPSED A SINISTER SHAPE SCURRYING INTO THE LABORATORY.

MR UTTERSON MUST FIND OUT WHAT IS GOING ON IN THE LABORATORY. HE ASKS POOLE AND THE OTHER SERVANTS TO HELP HIM. THEY ARE ALL TERRIFIED, BUT THEY WILL DO THEIR BEST.

1. gone to his account; gone to be judged by God - that is, dead.

1. Blessphemies: offensive, unholy words or sayings.

BACK HOME IN HIS OFFICE, MR UTTERSON PUTS DR JEKYLL'S DOCUMENTS TO ONE SIDE. NOW THAT JEKYLL HAS VANISHED, IT IS TIME TO READ THE SEALED LETTER FROM THE LATE DR LANYON. THE LETTER HAS A TERRIBLE TALE TO TELL...

A FEW MONTHS EARLIER

A registered envelope?

DR LANYON - THEN STRONG AND HEALTHY - WAS BUSY IN HIS STUDY WHEN A SERVANT BROUGHT HIM AN URGENT MESSAGE THAT HAD JUST ARRIVED.

DR LANYON FOLLOWED THE INSTRUCTIONS CAREFULLY AND CARRIED THE DRAWER BACK TO HIS HOUSE.

'You are one of my oldest friends. If you fail<sup>2</sup> me tonight, I am lost!'

IT WAS FROM DR JEKYLL DR LANYON WAS VERY SURPRISED. IT CONTAINED DETAILED INSTRUCTIONS.

'I WANT YOU TO TAKE A CAB AND DRIVE STRAIGHT TO MY HOUSE.'

'POOLE HAS HIS ORDERS.'

HE EXAMINED THE CONTENTS, THEN SAT WAITING...

...FOR A MIDNIGHT KNOCK AT THE DOOR.

KNOCK! KNOCK!

HE LET THE CALLER IN...

Are you come from Dr Jekyll?

'YOU WILL FIND HIM WAITING WITH A LOCKSMITH.'

'OPEN THE GLAZED PRESS.'<sup>3</sup>

'DRAW' OUT THE FOURTH DRAWER FROM THE TOP...<sup>4</sup>

...AND LED HIM TO THE STUDY.

Have you got it? Have you got it?

Aaaaahhhh!

THE REPULSIVE CALLER - IT WAS HYDE. ALTHOUGH DR LANYON DID NOT KNOW HIM - WAS ODDLY DRESSED IN ELEGANT CLOTHES THAT WERE FAR TOO BIG FOR HIM. HE WAS OBVIOUSLY DESPERATE TO HAVE THE THINGS IN THE DRAWER.

1. phial: small glass bottle for drugs or chemicals.

THE REPULSIVE MAN ASKED DR LANYON FOR A MEASURING GLASS, THEN TOOK SOME WHITE POWDER AND RED LIQUID FROM THE DRAWER AND MIXED THEM TOGETHER.

THE MIXTURE FIZZED AND BUBBLED.

IT TURNED DEEP PURPLE...

...AND FINALLY BRIGHT GREEN.

SMILING BROADLY, HYDE TURNED TO DR LANYON.

And now new knowledge and power shall be laid open to you!

Sir, you speak enigmas.<sup>1</sup>

Behold!

HYDE GASPED, STAGGERED AND CLUNG ON TO THE TABLE, STARING WITH WILD EYES AND PANTING, OPEN-MOUTHED.

1. enigmas: riddles, mysteries.

THEN HIS FACE SEEMED TO SWELL...

...THE FEATURES SEEMED TO MELT AND CHANGE...

...AND THERE BEFORE DR LANYON STOOD HENRY JEKYLL!

O God!
O God!

LANYON SAT SHAKING, SICKENED AND APPALLED, AS DR JEKYLL BEGAN TO EXPLAIN. EVERY WORD SEEMED LIKE A DEADLY BLOW, DESTROYING HIS MIND, HIS SOUL, HIS REASON! HIS WHOLE WORLD COLLAPSED AROUND HIM, LEAVING ONLY HORROR, HORROR, HORROR.

My life is shaken to its roots. I must die!

'I saw what I saw, I heard what I heard, and my soul sickened at it.'

DR LANYON COULD NOT BRING HIMSELF TO WRITE DOWN ALL THE FOUL SECRETS DR JEKYLL TOLD HIM. BUT HE DID RECORD, IN HIS LETTER TO MR UTTERSON, THAT DR JEKYLL CONFESSED TO BEING EDWARD HYDE - THE MURDERER OF SIR DANVERS CAREW!

MR UTTERSON CAN HARDLY BELIEVE WHAT DR LANYON HAS WRITTEN. HOW CAN JEKYLL AND HYDE BE THE SAME PERSON?

WITH TREMBLING HANDS HE OPENS THE SEALED LETTER THAT HE FOUND BESIDE DR JEKYLL'S NEW WILL. WILL THIS EXPLAIN THE MYSTERY? FRANTICALLY, HE READS ON...

THE LETTER TELLS HENRY JEKYLL'S LIFE STORY.

'I WAS BORN TO A RICH, RESPECTABLE FAMILY. AS A YOUNG MAN I WAS INTELLIGENT, HARDWORKING, KEEN TO WIN PRAISE AND FAME. A BRIGHT FUTURE LAY AHEAD FOR ME.'

'ALONE AT NIGHT AND AT CROWDED SCIENTIFIC LECTURES, I STUDIED HARD TO CURE SICKNESS AND EASE SUFFERING.'

'MY ONLY FAULT WAS A LIGHT-HEARTED LOVE OF PLEASURE. I ENJOYED HAVING FUN! I NEVER BROKE THE LAW OR HARMED ANYONE.'

'BUT, EVEN SO, I FELT DEEPLY ASHAMED. I WAS PROUD, AND WANTED TO APPEAR PURE AND NOBLE. SO I KEPT MY PLEASURES SECRET, AND BEGAN TO FEEL EXTREMELY GUILTY ABOUT THEM.'

Man is not truly one, but truly two!

'I CAME TO THINK THAT THERE WERE TWO SIDES TO HUMAN NATURE: THE GOOD AND THE EVIL.'

It is the curse of mankind!

'THE GOOD SIDE AND THE BAD SIDE ARE TIGHTLY JOINED TOGETHER. IF ONLY THEY COULD BE PARTED!'

'ONE DAY, IN MY LABORATORY, I CREATED AN EXCITING - AND DANGEROUS - NEW POTION. IT WAS DESIGNED TO SEPARATE THE GOOD AND BAD PARTS IN EACH PERSON.'

'I DRANK IT IN ONE GULP! TERRIBLE PAINS FOLLOWED: A GRINDING IN MY BONES, DREADFUL SICKNESS, AND NAMELESS TERROR.'

Welcome! This, too, is myself!

'AS I GAZED INTO THE MIRROR, I REALISED THAT I HAD BECOME TWO PEOPLE: GOOD DR JEKYLL, AND SHAMELESS MR HYDE. JEKYLL HAD HIS MEDICAL TRAINING TO GUIDE HIS THOUGHTS AND ACTIONS. BUT HYDE WAS PURE EVIL - AND COMPLETELY OUT OF CONTROL!'

'SOON THE PAIN PASSED, AND DELIGHTFUL NEW SENSATIONS GRIPPED ME. BUT I FOUND I WAS ALSO MUCH SMALLER...

...AND MOST UNPLEASANT TO LOOK AT! MY WHOLE FACE AND BODY HAD BECOME CRUEL AND UGLY, JUST LIKE THE EVIL SOUL WITHIN.'

'DAY WAS FAST APPROACHING. I DARED NOT BE SEEN IN MY CHANGED SHAPE. SO I MIXED SOME MORE OF THE POTION, DRANK IT QUICKLY, AND TURNED BACK INTO SOLEMN, SERIOUS DR HENRY JEKYLL.'

'BEFORE LONG, A TERRIBLE PLAN TOOK SHAPE IN MY MIND. WHENEVER I WANTED TO HAVE FUN WITHOUT FEELING GUILTY...

...I JUST HAD TO DRINK A GLASS OF THE POTION AND TURN INTO MR HYDE. HE COULD DO WHAT HE LIKED, WITHOUT GUILT OR REGRET.'

'AS MR HYDE, I RENTED ROOMS IN A PART OF LONDON FAMOUS FOR ITS WILD NIGHTLIFE. MANY CRIMINALS LIVED THERE, TOO. THE LANDLADY ASKED NO QUESTIONS!'

'AS DR JEKYLL, I TOLD ALL MY SERVANTS TO WELCOME AND OBEY MR HYDE IF EVER HE CAME TO MY HOME. I TESTED THEM ONCE OR TWICE, BY APPEARING AS MR HYDE.'

'NEXT I CAME TO SEE YOU, UTTERSON, MY LAWYER FRIEND, AND MADE THE WILL THAT YOU HATED.'

'NOW HYDE WAS FREE TO DO WHATEVER HE LIKED - AND NO-ONE WOULD EVER SUSPECT HENRY JEKYLL!'

'BEFORE, MY PLEASURES HAD BEEN SILLY BUT HARMLESS. NOW THEY BECAME CRUEL AND VICIOUS. I WAS SAVAGE AND DANGEROUS, LIKE A WILD BEAST.'

'I DELIGHTED IN VIOLENCE AND SUFFERING.'

'I TRAMPLED DOWN INNOCENT VICTIMS, JUST FOR THE COLD THRILL IT GAVE ME!'

'BUT ONE MORNING - HORROR!'

'I HAD GONE TO BED HENRY JEKYLL...'

'...AND AWAKENED EDWARD HYDE!'

'MY BLOOD TURNED TO ICE.'

'AS QUICKLY AND QUIETLY AS I COULD, I CREEPT TO MY LABORATORY AND MIXED MYSELF A STRONG DOSE OF THE POTION.'

'IT WORKED! WITHIN MINUTES, I WAS DRESSED AND READY TO GO DOWNSTAIRS AND EAT BREAKFAST AS MY OTHER SELF, DR JEKYLL.'

'THAT NIGHT WAS A WARNING TO ME! I WAS LOSING HOLD OF MY GOOD SELF AND BEING TAKEN OVER ENTIRELY BY MY BAD SELF. WHAT IF DR JEKYLL TURNED INTO THE MONSTROUS MR HYDE FOREVER?'

'OF COURSE, I CHOSE TO BE JEKYLL. FOR TWO WHOLE MONTHS I SAID MY PRAYERS, DID GOOD DEEDS AND LIVED A QUIET, HARDWORKING LIFE. BUT I MISSED THE FREEDOM, THE PLEASURE - AND THE DANGEROUS EXCITEMENT - OF HYDE'S EVIL ADVENTURES.'

'THE LONGING GREW SO GREAT THAT I COULD NOT RESIST IT. ONE FATEFUL NIGHT I SWALLOWED ANOTHER DOSE OF THE POTION, STRAIGHT AWAY, I WAS TRANSFORMED.'

'YOU KNOW HOW I MET AND ATTACKED SIR DANVERS CAREW, THEN HURRIED AWAY TO MY LODGINGS.'

'THERE, I QUICKLY DRANK SOME OF THE POTION TO ESCAPE FROM HYDE'S BLOODSTAINED BODY.'

'WITH ENORMOUS RELIEF, I CHANGED BACK INTO RESPECTABLE DR JEKYLL. I WAS SAFE! THE POLICE COULD NEVER FIND ME.'

'BUT ONE FINE DAY I WENT FOR A STROLL IN THE PARK. STILL DR JEKYLL I SAT DOWN TO ENJOY THE SUNSHINE. BUT A SHUDDER CAME OVER ME, THEN SICKNESS, THEN GRINDING PAIN...

'...AND I FOUND MYSELF TURNING INTO MR HYDE! NOW I WAS A HATEFUL MURDERER, HUNTED THROUGHOUT LONDON. IF THEY CAUGHT ME, I'D BE HANGED - AND MY POTION WAS AT DR JEKYLL'S HOME.'

'I HID IN A HOTEL ROOM UNTIL IT WAS DARK, AND SENT URGENT LETTERS TO POOLE AND DR LANYON.'

'AT MIDNIGHT I CALLED AT DR LANYON'S HOUSE. HE HAD KINDLY FETCHED MY POTION IN THE DRAWER, SO I WAS SAFE AGAIN.'

'THE POTION SEEMED TO BE LOSING ITS STRENGTH.'

'AGAIN AND AGAIN...'

'...I TURNED INTO MR HYDE!'

'IT WAS A NIGHTMARE!'

'AS I GREW WEAKER, HYDE BECAME STRONGER. HELPLESSLY, I CHANGED INTO HIS HORRID SHAPE SEVERAL TIMES A DAY.'

'HYDE SENSED MY FEAR AND TORMENTED ME, SMASHING AND BURNING MY MOST TREASURED POSSESSIONS.'

'HE WAS PRIMITIVE, SAVAGE, LESS THAN HUMAN. HE WAS DUST AND SLIME, WITHOUT FEELINGS. HE BELONGED TO AN EARLIER, UNDEVELOPED ERA IN MANKIND'S HISTORY - BUT HE WAS ALSO ALIVE IN ME!'

'This is the true hour of my death.'

'NOW I HAVE RUN OUT OF CHEMICALS TO MIX MY POTION. I KEEP SENDING POOLE FOR MORE, BUT THEY DO NOT WORK. MY FIRST MIXTURE MUST HAVE HAD SOME IMPURITY IN IT WHICH GAVE IT ITS SPECIAL POWER.'

'SO I AM TRAPPED. SOON I WILL BE TRANSFORMED INTO HYDE YET AGAIN, AND I HAVE NO POTION LEFT TO TURN ME BACK AGAIN. WILL HYDE BE CAUGHT AND HANGED FOR MURDER, OR WILL HE HAVE THE COURAGE TO END THIS MISERY BY KILLING HIMSELF?'

Robert Louis Stevenson was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, on 13 November 1850. He was the only son of Thomas Stevenson and his wife Margaret Isabella Balfour. Both families were wealthy, well educated and deeply respectable. Robert's mother suffered from tuberculosis, and it is unclear whether she passed the disease on to him, or whether he suffered from another lung disorder. Either way, he was often too ill to attend school, and so lay in bed, reading or composing poems and stories of his own.

UNIVERSITY

Aged 17, he enrolled at Edinburgh University. His father wanted him to study engineering, but Robert wasn't keen; he wanted to be a writer. As a compromise he studied law, but spent all his spare time writing. During holidays he travelled to France to meet other young artists and writers. He was often ill, but always lively-minded, unconventional and determined.

MARRIAGE

Robert qualified as a lawyer in 1875, but never worked in the profession. His first book, about a canoeing expedition in France, was published in 1878, and he spent the rest of his life as a writer. In France, Robert also met the woman who would later become his wife: Fanny Van de Grift Osbourne, an American. They were a strange couple, but passionately in love. She was everything he was not: loud, healthy and vibrant. Robert's family were not happy, because Fanny was 11 years older than Robert, and was already married. In 1880, after Fanny's divorce, Robert travelled to America to marry her. Robert's family were appalled, but the couple were happy together.

FIRST NOVEL

In 1881 Robert and Fanny travelled to Scotland with Fanny's son, Lloyd Osbourne. They made peace with Robert's family, and visited the Highlands with them. But the cold and rain worsened Robert's health, so they soon left in search of milder weather. They went to Switzerland, France and the south of England, then back to America. All the time, Robert wrote - he produced travel books, poems and short stories.

Then, in 1883, he published his first long novel. Its title was Treasure Island. During the next six years Robert wrote four more novels. These included his most famous work, The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde. This brilliant fantasy thriller was an instant bestseller and made him famous throughout Britain and America.

DETERIORATING HEALTH

By 1887 Robert's health was getting worse, so he and Fanny returned to America with his mother (his father had died). Then with Fanny's children they set sail across the Pacific Ocean.

SAMOA

After a long voyage they settled on the island of Samoa. They built a house and made friends with the islanders, who called Robert 'Tusitala' ('Teller of Tales'). Robert was fascinated by the islands and their rich heritage of songs and stories. He collected information for a huge history of the Pacific, campaigned to stop Europeans ill-treating local people, and wrote poems and stories about the island. Robert also wrote novels set in faraway Scotland. The last of these, Weir of Hermiston, which he never finished, was probably his best piece of writing.

Sadly, even the warm Pacific climate could not cure Robert's illness, and he died suddenly on 3 December 1894; he was just 44 years old. He was buried on the top of Mount Vaea, above his home in Samoa, and lines from his own poem 'Requiem' were carved on his tomb:

*'UNDER THE WIDE AND STARRY SKY,
DIG THE GRAVE AND LET ME LIE.
GLAD DID I LIVE AND GLADLY DIE,
AND I LAID ME DOWN WITH A WILL.'*

Robert Louis Stevenson wrote The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde for an urgent reason – to make money. He had been working as a professional writer since he was 21 years old, and his books had won praise. But in 1885, aged 35, he still relied on gifts of money from his father to survive – and, as well as himself, he had a wife and a lively young stepson to support. So he was delighted when, in 1885, his editor at Longman, the powerful London publishing company, asked him to write a ‘shilling shocker’ (a cheap, exciting story) to sell at Christmas.

CHRISTMAS HORROR

The Christmas holiday was a time when many 19th-century readers liked to relax by their cosy family firesides with an easy-to-read story that would give them a safe-but-shocking thrill. Publishing horror tales at Christmas had been a favourite British tradition ever since the great success of Charles Dickens’s ghost story A Christmas Carol, which first appeared in 1843. Long before then, the British reading public had enjoyed full-length horror novels such as The Castle of Otranto by Horace Walpole (published on Christmas Eve, 1764), The Mysteries of Udolpho by Anne Radcliffe (1794) and Frankenstein by Mary Shelley (1818). Stevenson himself had published earlier ‘shilling shockers’ for Christmas: The Body Snatcher in 1884 and Olalla (A Vampire Tale) in 1885.

FICTION FOR THE MASSES

By the time Stevenson’s Christmas stories were published, new printing and picture technology, such as rotary presses and steel engraving, made it quick, cheap and easy to print reading matter in large quantities. This meant that books were now more affordable in Britain than they had ever been before. More British people were able to read, too. Since the 1870s, primary education had been compulsory. This meant that ordinary people, as well as the wealthy, were taught to read and write, and a new mass market for cheap books, illustrated magazines and newspapers was created.

A PUBLISHING SENSATION

In fact, there were so many books planned for Christmas 1885 that the publishers held back Jekyll and Hyde until early the next year, 1886. It became an overnight sensation, selling 40,000 copies in just six weeks. Even Queen Victoria herself was said to have read it eagerly. Since then, Stevenson’s ‘shilling shocker’ has been enjoyed, in different formats, by millions of people all round the world. The names of his two main characters, Jekyll and Hyde, have passed into the English language as a shorthand way of describing anyone, or anything, that has a double nature, with good and bad sides.

Stevenson claimed that the idea for the story came to him in a dream. His wife Fanny woke him up before the dream was over, fearing that he was being tormented by a terrifying nightmare. Angrily, Stevenson complained, ‘I was dreaming a fine bogie [monster] tale.’ The original title was Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde – without a ‘the’ at the beginning – which makes it sound like a sensational newspaper headline.

FACT AND FICTION

What inspired Stevenson to write Jekyll and Hyde? Years after Stevenson died, his family still claimed that the story came to him in a dream. This may be true, but scholars have also suggested that real-life events and discoveries may have excited Stevenson’s imagination. Many of these were connected with Edinburgh, the capital city of Scotland. Stevenson spent the first half of his life there, and studied at Edinburgh’s famous university, which had (and still has) a world-class medical school. Stevenson’s family were respectable Edinburgh citizens, but he rebelled against the city’s strict – and sometimes hypocritical – way of life.

Other ideas that may have inspired Stevenson included the new theory of evolution (the word was first used in 1852) and controversial theories about criminal behaviour. The theory of evolution suggested that humanity had gradually evolved (changed) from primitive, unthinking, uncontrolled animals to thoughtful, self-controlled people – an idea which many people found shocking and ridiculous. Some 19th-century scientists believed that traces of savage ‘primitive’ human nature still survived inside the most ‘civilised’ humans.

Other scientists looked for medical reasons to explain why people behaved badly. They suggested that some habits or pleasures weakened a human’s sense of good and bad. Others thought that criminals were a ‘lower’, less developed type of humanity and could be recognised by physical features such as the shape of the skull.

DR JEKYLL’S NAME

Although Jekyll is an unusual name, it is a real English surname. The most famous Jekyll in real life was the gardener Gertrude Jekyll (1843–1932); Stevenson was a friend of her brother, the Reverend Walter Jekyll. The name should really be pronounced ‘JEE-kill’, not ‘JECK-ill’.

1765-1850

The polite, clean, elegant New Town district of Edinburgh is built for rich, respectable people to live in. (Stevenson's family moved there in 1857.) Poor people had to go on living in Edinburgh's rough, dirty, unhealthy Old Town.

1788

Execution of William 'Deacon' Brodie, an Edinburgh woodworker who behaved very well during the day but committed robberies at night. As a young man, Stevenson heard many stories about Brodie's 'double life'. Some Edinburgh people claimed that Brodie had survived and still lurked about the city.

1793

Death of Dr John Hunter, a famous Edinburgh surgeon and pioneer of anatomy (the study of how the body works). Hunter kept a famous collection of preserved body parts, which Stevenson visited.

1822

British writer Thomas de Quincey publishes Confessions of an English Opium Eater, about his damaging drug addiction.

1824

Scotts writer James Hogg publishes a horror story, Memoirs and Confessions of a Justified Sinner. Set in and around Edinburgh, it tells a tale from two different points of view: the story of a calm, sensible Editor, and a wild, perhaps mad, Sinner. Hogg also includes a religious theme that Stevenson knew well: the strict Christian (Protestant) teaching that some people are damned, whatever they do, and will end their lives in Hell.

1829

Execution of William Burke, an Irish labourer who lived in Edinburgh. With his partner in crime, William Hare, Burke killed between 16 and 30 Edinburgh citizens. He sold the bodies to a respectable Edinburgh doctor, Robert Knox, who cut them up to study them. Hare was pardoned and moved to London, where he died as a beggar in 1859. Knox was never put on trial - though he probably knew how the bodies were obtained - and died, famous, in 1862.

1835

British investigator James Pritchard publishes A Treatise on Insanity and Other Disorders Affecting the Mind.

1837

German-Estonian scientist Karl von Baer observes that the embryos (unborn young) of different species look similar. This leads some scholars to ask, 'What makes humans develop into thinking, responsible creatures?'

1842

A way of classifying different humans according to the size and shape of their skull is suggested by Swedish scientist Anders Retzius.

1871

Charles Darwin publishes The Descent of Man. It suggests that humans evolved from apes.

1873 AND 1874

British investigator Henry Maudsley publishes two books about mental illness and crime.

1879

Russian psychologist Ivan Pavlov performs experiments on dogs to investigate the causes of different kinds of behaviour.

1880s

Scientists in Europe discover the bacteria (germs) that cause many serious diseases, and often deform (badly change) human bodies.

1883

The word 'eugenics' is invented to describe the very controversial theory that humanity can be 'improved' by careful breeding.

1886

German doctor Richard von Krafft-Ebing publishes the results of his investigations into abnormal behaviour. He believes this is often caused by diseases of the mind or body.

Since 1887, the year after Stevenson's story was published, the tale of Jekyll and Hyde has inspired hundreds of stage plays, films and TV shows in Europe and the USA. They range from children's cartoons, such as The Case of the Stuttering Pig (Looney Tunes, 1937) and Hyde and Hare (featuring Bugs Bunny, 1955), to comedy versions like The Nutty Professor (1963), and a musical, After You, Mr Hyde (1968). The character of Dr Jekyll/Mr Hyde has also starred in violent horror movies, often together with other disturbing creatures, such as Frankenstein's monster.

Few films or TV programmes follow Robert Louis Stevenson's original text closely; many – like the children's TV series Julia Jekyll and Harriet Hyde (BBC, 1995) – simply tell a tale of transformation brought about by drinking a magic potion. Many versions add new female characters to create 'love interest'. This trend began with the first stage play, Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde, written by Thomas Russell Sullivan and produced in Boston, USA in 1887.

However, the following treatments of the Jekyll and Hyde story have won praise from critics as entertainments in their own right, and/or have proved popular with audiences:

1920
Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde, Paramount-Artcraft, USA. A silent, black-and-white film starring John Barrymore as a spider-like Hyde. According to cinema legend, Barrymore did the transformation scene without any special make-up.

1931
Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde, Paramount, USA. A silent, black-and-white film directed by Rouben Mamoulian. Now valued as a classic. Stars Fredric March as a hairy, ape-like Mr Hyde (see page 45).

1941
Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde, Paramount, USA. A 'talkie', in black and white, starring celebrity actors Spencer Tracy, Lana Turner and Ingrid Bergman. The film is also famous for its dramatic, atmospheric music.

1955
The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde, CBS, USA. Part of the TV series Climax! Black and white. Close to Stevenson's original story.

1959
Experiment in Evil (US title), France, directed for TV by famous filmmaker Jean Renoir. Set in Paris, starring French actor Jean-Louis Barrault.

1960
The Two Faces of Dr Jekyll, Hammer Horror, UK. With many lurid scenes.

1968
The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde, CBC, USA/Canada. A TV mini-series starring Jack Palance. Nominated for an Emmy Award for Outstanding Dramatic Programmes.

1971
Dr Jekyll and Sister Hyde, EMI/Hammer, UK. In this version Dr Jekyll is transformed into a woman.

1990
Jekyll and Hyde, London Weekend Television, UK. A two-part TV film starring Michael Caine. Made in the great British costume-drama tradition.

1994
Mary Reilly, Tristar, USA. The Jekyll and Hyde Story as seen by Dr Jekyll's housemaid. Starring Julia Roberts and John Malkovich. With computer-generated special effects.

1995
Dr Jekyll and Ms Hyde, Savoy Pictures, USA. A comedy version involving strange potions and sinister plots in a chemical factory that makes perfumes.

2007
Jekyll, BBC, UK. A six-part TV series starring James Nesbitt. A continuation of Stevenson's story, set in the present day and involving a descendant of the original Dr Jekyll.
