

A lift-the-flap book

HELLO,
MRS BEAR!

Sam Boughton

Welcome to the forest!
The trees here are home
to LOTS of animals.

Say hello to Deer!
His antlers fall off and grow back every year.

Deer live together in groups called HERDS.

Male Female Baby

Males use their antlers to fight over females.

Hello
Mr Deer!

HERBIVORE

(That means he only eats plants.)

This is the Fox family.

These wild animals live in forests but you sometimes see them in towns, too!

OMNIVORE

(That means they eat meat and plants.)

They have a bushy tail called a BRUSH!

And here are the Rabbits! Watch out rabbits, those foxes look hungry...

Rabbits use their BIG EARS to listen for hunters!

HERBIVORE

They raise their tail to warn of danger!

The rabbits live in an underground WARREN.

Say hello to the Beaver family.
They use logs and sticks to build their home called a lodge.

Beavers teach their babies how to build, too.

Beavers also build DAMS to block rivers
and make lakes.

They have LONG sharp teeth for chewing through trees!

Hello
Mr Beaver!

HERBIVORE

As it gets dark the Mice come out.
They are looking for a tasty snack!

OMNIVORE

Mice use their whiskers to find their way in the dark.

Look out! Here comes Owl. He's looking for his favourite dinner... Mouse!

CARNIVORE

(This means he only eats meat.)

Owls hunt by SOUND rather than sight.

They grab prey
in their long,
SHARP talons.
