Around the kitchen table, they formed a cunning plan.
It would be the most brilliant robbery of all time.

Soon they would have their own fishy feast!

All they needed was...

a penguin.

One dark night, they put their cunning plan into action.

Back home, the cats tried to tell the penguin the next step in their plan.

They didn't speak Penguin very well...

but that didn't worry them for long.

The next day, they set off on the fishing trip.
