Rocky raced ahead of his friends, charging after the dino tracks.
But he was so busy looking down . . .

That he ran right into Patchy!

Before he could reply to Rocky's question, Patchy ran away into the trees.

"What was that about?" asked Mazu.

"I'm not sure! Let's keep going," Rocky exclaimed.

As the friends followed the footprints further into the jungle, they heard a small whimper. Tiny tiptoed towards the sound and suddenly ...

Dilo, it's only me!

A terrified Dilo leapt out!

OH NO, SPINO!

"What's this 'Spino' thing everyone's so afraid of?" Mazu wondered out loud.

"I'll tell you!" Archie squawked from the treetops.

Spino is a Spinosaurus – the biggest, scariest dino alive!

"That's impossible," Rocky laughed. "Giganto's the biggest."

"I'm warning you," Archie screeched, as an almighty STOMP shook the ground, "STAY AWAY!"

STOMP! STOMP! STOMP!

The sound grew louder.

"Shouldn't we listen to Archie and stay away?" asked Bill.

"Wow!" Mazu gasped, flicking through her dinopedia.

"I've never seen that dinosaur before!"

"I never want to see one again!" said Bill. "Can we go?"

But Rocky, Tiny and Mazu had other plans. They wanted to search for Spino!

The dinos began to look for Spino, following where his tail went.
“He’s over there!” Mazu exclaimed, spotting its pointy, green tip.
“But how can we get his attention?” asked Tiny.

Mazu loaded her moss launcher and flung a tasty snack in Spino’s direction. It was flying straight towards him . . .

WHOOOOOSH!!!

Until Giganto lunged forward and swallowed it instead!

“That was Spino’s snack!” Rocky shouted, crossly.
“Now we’ll have to find another way to befriend Spino.”
