

THE ODD
ONE OUT

a spotting book

Britta Teckentrup

B I
G
P
I
C
T
U
R
E
B
O
O
K

A pod of seals bark,
calling out for their dinner.
Who gets the first fish?
Can you spot the winner?

"Me next! It is mine!"
each seal loudly cries,
but which one's already
chewing its prize?

A creep of fine tortoises
slowly pass by.
Watching the birds,
they look up at the sky.

Most of them smile,
but one's frightened instead.
Which one is scared
and has hidden its head?

A wobble of ostriches
stand tall and proud,
forming a handsome
and feathery crowd.

As these fine birds
stop to gather around,
which of them pecks
at a seed on the ground?

A sleuth of plump pandas
have put on a show,
wobbling their bellies
as white as the snow.

Jumping and jigging
to entertain you,
which of the pandas
has lost its bamboo?

