

When You've Got To Go!

John Townsend & Carolyn Scrace

The perfect toilet training book for little monsters

The
MONSTER SQUAD

As soon as Zork was big enough,
He didn't want his potty.

Yeti scribbled down a note
For Zork to keep on track:

When you need to use the toilet,
Here's one rule to obey:

Close the door before you start.
That's the polite and proper way!

Gently push and close the door.
You're in your private zone.
No one's going to barge right in.
They'll knock to make themselves known!

When Curly was a little lad
He had a silly habit:
He never touched the toilet's flush -

He didn't want to grab it!

So Yeti told him every day,

In toilets, whether home or on a trip,
don't rush it.
Make sure that when your job is done,
You take your time and flush it!

Here's Rocky with some good advice
From when things once went wrong:

I went outside to play for hours
And left it far too long!

The toilet felt too far away
from me,

And I was deep in play.

And so a little accident
Spoiled my happy day

