

Predatory Natures

AN ATMOSPHERIC NATURE HORROR NOVEL, PERFECT FOR FANS OF HOUSE OF HOLLOW

- Perfectly timed for the rise of aesthetic nature horror - with the pacing of a thriller, a deadly gothic aesthetic and an aspirational luxury setting, ideal for YA readers
- Featuring characters in their late teens and early 20s, of university age and above, this has crossover appeal.
- Drawing on dark folklore and Welsh mythology to underpin the deadly plants that strike at their victims.
- The luxury train setting and locked-room mystery are reminiscent of classic murder-mysteries like Murder on the Orient Express. The true villain behind the murders is not revealed until the very end of the novel, in a dramatic climax.
