The Princess and the Frog (Disney Modern Classics)

Tiana explained how a story in Charlotte's book said that if they made a wish on the Evening Star, that wish would come true.

Tiana's mother and father encouraged her to wish, but her father said that wishing could only take her so far. Tiana also needed to work hard to make that wish come true. James made Tiana promise that no matter how hard she worked, she would never lose sight of what was important.

Once she was alone, Tiana rushed to the window to make her wish.

"Please, please, Please!" Tiana wished, closing her eyes. She clutched the picture to her chest as the star twinkled silently. When Tiana opened her eyes, she found she wasn't alone, as on the windowsill there sat a frog.

Illustrating young Tiana, adult Tiana and frog Tiana all provided different challenges for the artists. Mark Heres / ROUGH ANIMATION (Tiana) / RUSS EDMONOS / ROUGH ANIMATION (FROG) / JOSE TIRINDAD / STORY SKEICH DISNEY THE PRINCESS AND THE FROG

The frog croaked, and Tiana screamed and ran from the room.

Tiana wished hard, and as she grew up, she worked hard, too. But after fourteen years of working and saving every penny she could, her wish had not come true. Meanwhile, Tiana's father died during the war, but even though he wasn't there beside her, Tiana never gave up on their dream.

Tiana wishes on a star to bring her and her father's dream to life. LISA KEENE / DIGITAL
