

HOME IS WHERE THE HEART IS

Emma Dodd

What is it that makes our home
a special place to be?
Let's think about this place called home
and maybe we will see.

Home is where I can be me
and where you can be you.
Home is spending time together,
just us two.

When we go adventuring,
whether far or near,
home is where we come back to.
Home is always here.

Home is where we find
all the things we love the best.

Home is where we play.

Home is where we rest.

Home is safe and cosy.
When there is a storm . . .

outside it's wet and windy,
inside it's dry and warm.

A whimsical illustration of a cat jumping in a yard at night. The cat is grey and white, captured mid-jump with its tail high. A shadow of the cat is cast on the grass. In the background, there is a wooden fence, a dark bush, and a house with a window. The window is lit from within, and a black silhouette of a cat is visible looking out. A path of light leads from the window to the grass. The sky is dark blue with a crescent moon and many small stars.

Home's an extra special space
you hold within your heart,

to keep you very close to me
when we must be apart.

It's more than just a building,
it's more than just a place.
Home is where you know that you will see my smiling face.

So this I will remember my whole life through.
Home is where the heart is . . .

...and my heart is here with you.
