When Mummy works from home

Paul Schofield & Anna Terreros-Martin

Mummy has to go to work,
But it's from home today.
So I'll be right here, in the house,
And never far away.

It looks like you're all having fun.
I wish I could join in.
At least between my calls I get
To see that cheeky grin.

Sometimes I can't stop to talk.
There's just too much to do!
But you're my inspiration
And I do all this for you.

When I hear you crying
I just want to hold you tight.
But if I can't, I know you're safe,
And that you'll be alright.

When Nan and Grandad care for you
I don't feel any stress.
(And it helps that while you're sleeping
They can clean up all your mess!)

When it's sunny, you go out to play.
I can't hear any noise!
I thought I wanted quiet...
But I miss your little voice.

I take pride in my work,
And it can take me far and wide.
But it's best when I work from home,
With you here by my side.

Even when I've finished working
There still might be a call.
But then, when I've hung up again,
You know I'll give my all.

Work may be my 'something',
But I want you to know,
Little one, you're everything,
And I'll always love you so.
