From Shore to Ocean Floor

From sandy beaches to mysterious, inky depths, this beautiful book is the story of ocean exploration.

- Sequel to Balloon to the Moon, winner of the 12-16 category in the British Book Design and Production Awards
- A wonderful combination of mythology, science and history that takes readers on a narrative journey through one of the world's most fascinating stories of exploration
- Gill Arbuthnott is a former secondary school science teacher.
- Made in consultation with the Maritime Museum.

From Shore to Ocean Floor

Imagine standing on a shore and looking out to sea. Even on the wildest day, the ocean is huge and mysterious. Think out and think in of the waves, under the sea and on the shore, what is happening out there? If the sea were a giant, it would be a very, very old friend. It would be a friend who has been there since the beginning of time, and it would be a friend who has been there since the end of time.

The sea is a vast, mysterious place. It is a place of wonder and awe. It is a place where the world is born and the world ends. It is a place where the world is born and the world ends.

From the first time a person stepped onto a beach, the sea has been a part of our lives. It has been a source of food, a source of transport, and a source of inspiration. It has been a source of food, a source of transport, and a source of inspiration.

And today, as we look out at the sea, we are still in awe of its power and its beauty. We are still in awe of its power and its beauty. We are still in awe of its power and its beauty.
