Bessie's Bees

An uplifting story about starting nursery with a bubbly neurodiverse child at its centre.

- Bringing debut, neurodiverse author George Kirk to the Templar picture book list with a story featuring a main character with ADHD - and Bessie will be back in 2026 in Bessie's Bathtime!
- While there has been an increase in positive representations and neurodiverse voices elsewhere in children's books, this is yet to be seen in the picture book space. Templar can be one of the first to champion neurodiverse voices and stories.
- Brilliantly brought to life by Ana Gómez, illustrator of How to Make a Story and How to Catch a Rainbow published by OUP, with her approachable, accessible child characters and clever visual representations.

Jane Foster's Baby's First Stories: 0-3 months

A series that grows with your baby

- Written in consultation with Early Years Expert, Lizzie Noble, each book perfectly suits your baby's needs at every stage of their first year
- Fills a gap in the market: parents are told to read to their baby every day, but black and white books usually have little text. Reading aloud soothes babies from birth, promotes baby-carer bonding, builds children's language skills, and increases the chances that parents will continue to read to babies as they grow older
- Perfect for parents who use the Wonder Weeks App, read Your Baby Week by Week, or use milestone cards to mark big moments
- 4 books in the series, all featuring the same animal characters: 0-3 months; 3-6 months; 6-9 months; 9-12 months

Bronte Tempestra and the Lightning Steeds

A fun-filled fantasy quest starring an unforgettable new hero: BRONTE TEMPESTRA!

- Highly illustrated throughout, the fantasy world of Everdale is brought to life with black and white artwork on nearly every page!
- Featuring knights and princesses - but not like you've ever seen them before. This is a highly original and fun spin on the familiar tropes.
- The first book in a bold new series - look out for more of Bronte's adventures, coming soon!
- Set in the fantasy world of Everdale, this is a fresh and highly original story with a contemporary feel.

Bronte Tempestra and the Lightning Steeds

Ellie!

Have you heard the news? It's HUGE!
Bigger than the biggest speed-shed!
Bigger than a giant night turnip!

Sir Sebastian's is letting girls join!
FANTASTIC!

Can you believe it? My parents will let me go right? RIGHT?

Please, please, please write back! Use Pine Post instead of Snail's Mail because I need to talk to you now!

B x

WAAAAH!!! B, that's perfect!
I'm sure they'll let you go! They know how much you've always wanted to be a knight, and it's not as if you're likely to be queen with six big brothers in line for the throne ahead of you!
We all saw how perfect you were as Sir Pen Pine in the school play last year! Let me know what they say.

Are you having a fun summer
so far?

Summer Holiday Diary, Day 19

Super stormy day, even for the Storm Kingdom! The hailstones were big enough to play smash-ball with, and Boris and I got soaked catching them! Mum wasn't too impressed at the state of us. She threatened to take me dress shopping tomorrow. But I told her that I couldn't because Dale has been making new lightning bolt-sticks, and we were planning to catch analog bolts. (I'm not sure she thought that was a good excuse, and then the day after there's a jousting display and I know she wouldn't make me miss that. Hope the knights don't get blown off their battle horses!

Ellie!

Guess what?! Mum and Dad have said they'll think about it! EEEK!

Yeah, having lots of fun! My brothers took me storm-skiing the other day - the rain is like a waterfall down the banks at the moment! And they've promised to make me some wind-wings so we can go gliding too. Tonight we're going to sit on the castle roof and see if we can spot the lightning steeds in the clouds! Wish you were here - maybe you could visit?

B x

Summer Holiday Diary, Day 22

Last night I stayed up REALLY late with my brothers watching for lightning steeds. We had lots of fun, but no luck spotting them - or the thunder trolls. Bolt says he saw the steeds once years ago, but I think he's just making that up. Flash says that you're more likely to see them when they come to ground, and that's super rare. But they do leave scorch marks behind and Dad says he's seen them before! I'm so jealous - I'd LOVE to see even their hoof-prints! Maybe one day! We'll keep looking though - we might spot a flash of black and orange in the sky eventually. I'm not so bothered that we didn't see the thunder trolls.
Not with the noise they make!

Bronte Tempestra and the Ice Warriors

It's time for the princess to rescue the knights! Join Bronte for a fun-filled fantasy quest.

- Highly illustrated throughout with engaging integrated artwork
- Knights and princesses like you've ever seen them before! This is a highly original and fun spin on familiar characters.
- Set in the fantasy world of Everdale, Bronte Tempestra's adventures are contemporary in feel, full of humour and action.
- The second book in the Bronte Tempestra series with more exciting adventures coming soon!

Bronte Tempestra and the Ice Warriors

Bronte. 'How did he get them, do you think?' Bronte blushed and stared at the ground.

Only weeks ago, when she had first started at Sir Sebastian's School for Squires, Bronte had uncovered a dastardly scheme in the old forest, where a scientist named Ackley had been mutating all the woodland animals into monsters. He'd hoped to attack the two schools for royalty in the Realm of Education – the Palace for Obedient and Outstanding Princesses (POOP) and the School for Independent and Courageous Kings (SICK) – as his first step to reclaiming the throne of the Oak Kingdom.

The headmaster, Sir Blake, had allowed it to happen, and then retired in disgrace. His replacement, Sir Calliphus, had decided to keep the whole situation a secret for the sake of the school's reputation, and so he'd instructed Bronte never to speak of what had happened. The only other people who knew were Bronte's best friends, Tonkins and Ella, and her favourite teacher, Lady Fenzel. Oh, and Lord Erol of the First Battalion of Griffins.

Sir Calliphus had exploded Pig's new dazzling tuks away with a sweep of his arm, muttering, 'That sometimes happens.'

Langton clearly didn't believe him, however. He'd already tried to coax the truth from Bronte several times. She wished she could tell him about how Pig had been mutated, and that although the changes had been reversed, the diamond tuks had stayed. She felt certain Langton could be trusted. But she didn't want to get into trouble with Sir Calliphus.

Langton sighed. 'I'll be fating his pen today, then. Could you help me muck out?'

Bronte hesitated. She really needed to finish that essay, but she enjoyed helping Langton. 'Can I change first?' she asked with a smile.

'If you want, but you'll only get dirty again. Oh, and you'd better go and tell Chef what's happened,' Langton said rather apologetically. 'Warn him only the cabbages have survived.'

Great, Bronte thought as she traipsed back towards her treehouse. Cabbages for tea. Not even Pig had wanted to eat them!

New Arrivals

After Bronte had changed and visited the kitchens (Chef was not happy about the cabbage situation), she headed back to the boar pens.

She was trying not to worry about her essay, or the family tree project she had to finish. Having only started Sir Sebastian's earlier that term, Bronte was still making up for lost time, and if she didn't pass her exams at the end of the school year, she wouldn't be able to move up from Year Four to Year Five. Her parents would probably make her go back to POOP if that happened and that was not an option. She still had a lot of homework to do and there was only a week left before the break for winter festivities.

Everyone else seemed so excited to go home, and while Bronte was looking forward to seeing her family, part of her wished she could stay at Sir Sebastian's. It had taken her a while to settle in, and now that she had, she didn't want to leave.

Langton was hard at work repairing the broken fence of Pig's pen, and smiled at Bronte as she arrived.

'Where's Blue?' Bronte asked, looking around for her icekitten who had abandoned her so unceremoniously.

'Oh, he was here a minute ago,' Langton replied, pausing briefly in his work. 'He's been wandering off a lot recently,' Bronte said with a sigh. 'I have no idea where he keeps going.'

'Maybe he's exploring the secret tunnels beneath the school,' Langton said with a grin. 'The what?'

'I'm only teasing,' Langton said. 'It's just a story my old dad used to tell me. He worked here before me, and his father before him. Used to tell all sorts of made-up legends and myths about this place.'

'Such as?' Bronte asked, fascinated. She loved stories!

'Let's see if I can remember,' Langton said, scratching his head. 'Oh yes, that long before the school was built, back when this land was still part of the old Tree Kingdoms, whole villages lived below the ground in tunnels supported by the tree roots. The story goes that the first headmaster ordered they be left there and kept secret, so he could hide in them if the school was ever under attack!'

'Why would a knight want to hide?' Bronte asked, before remembering how reluctant the knights seemed to be to face danger of any kind.

'My favourite part of the story was about the glow-crawlers. Strange creatures who lived beneath the school and had a reputation for being very slow.'

'Oh, wouldn't it be wonderful if they were real!' Bronte sighed, and Langton chuckled.

'Well, if they are, I've never seen them. Don't worry about Blue – he'll turn up again soon.'

But there was no sign of the icekitten while Bronte worked. It was only after she'd finished scrubbing out the boar pens and was tipping her final load of poop onto the muck heap that

14 f

Bronte caught sight of a familiar flash of blue. She left the wheelbarrow and went to investigate.

At the edge of the field, where the muck heap hit the hedge, she found her icekitten with his head in a hole and bottom in the air!

'Blue! What are you doing?' Bronte asked. 'You'd better not have been rolling in poop or I'll have to bath you before you come anywhere near my bed.'

One Hundred and One Dalmatians (Disney Animated Classics)

Disney One Hundred and One Dalmatians

This story begins in London, not so very long ago.

At that time, Pongo the dog lived with his pet human, Roger, in a flat just off Regent's Park.

It was clear to Pongo that Roger needed someone. All Roger did, Pongo thought, was waste money. And those were some about money – something Roger knew absolutely nothing about it.

Pongo knew Roger was intelligent enough, in his human way, and rather handsome. He could see no reason why his pet human didn't do more to find someone, and he was determined to do his best to help him. He had a rough idea of what to look for...

So, one beautiful spring day, Pongo went out of his sitting room window, surveying the parkland and watching for a match. No one seemed quite right for Roger – until, suddenly, Pongo spotted a beautiful Dalmatian and her human.

In a flash, Pongo purred over to the clock, crossed around the minute hand and it pointed to after five, picked up his hat and purred at the door, barking loudly.

"After five already," said Roger, glancing up from his piano "Fancy that!"

He looked over at his dog. "All right, Pongo," said Roger, standing up. "All right, boy."

Roger got on Pongo's head and Pongo shot down the stairs, across the street and into the park, leaving Roger behind him.

Pongo knew he'd never find another pair like the Dalmatian and her pet, not even if he looked for a hundred years.

They're looking for the park, he realized. A perfect meeting place, if I could only arrange it.

But Roger never stopped work 'till after five o'clock, and by then, it would be too late...

"Come on, you old crumbly," said Roger. "We're going home."

But Pongo refused to give up.

He shot after the lady and wound his lead around her and Roger's legs.

"I beg your pardon," Roger said to the lady. "I'm so sorry."

"Oh, only Good heavens," the lady replied. "Oh all the..."

And then they both slipped over... into the pond.

"Pongo, boy, take it easy," said Roger as Pongo pulled him down the path. "What's all the hurry?"

Pongo crossed over a little bridge between the two. Then, suddenly, he spotted the Dalmatian and her person on a bench overlooking the pond.

Pongo knew it was all up to him now. To attract attention, he grabbed hold of Roger's hat and placed it on the bench, right next to the lady.

Pongo thought things were going great. Roger and the lady seemed to have noticed one another. But then, for some strange reason, the lady and the pretty Dalmatian left!

"Oh, my new spring suit and my new hat," said the lady, drenched.

"I'm terribly sorry," said Roger. "Please, let me help you."

"Please, just go away," the lady replied. "You've done enough."

She reached into her handbag for her handkerchief, only to find it was sodden.

.. 14 ..

"Oh! I say, here, take mine," said Roger, reaching into his pocket, only to find his handkerchief was equally sodden.

And then they both started to laugh. Pongo looked on delightedly.
