- Construct your very own 60 cm tall fairy tale castle!
- More than 50 press-out pieces with simple visual instructions.
- 9 press-out characters to create your own Cinderella story.
- Castle opens to reveal what's inside.

Disney Princess: Cinderella's Castle

Meanwhile in the castle, the King was worried. He wanted his son to get married, but the Prince wanted to wait for his one true love. The King decided to have a ball and invite all of the young women in the kingdom.

The invitations were delivered that very day. As their mother read the invitation aloud, Anastasia and Drizella jumped with excitement. Cinderella asked if she could go, too. "You may go," said her stepmother sternly, "if you finish all your chores and find something suitable to wear."

Cinderella ran to her room and found her mother's old dress. She could fit it up for the ball! But Cinderella's stepmother kept giving her more and more work to do around the house. Cinderella wasn't going to have time to finish her dress. When at last her chores were done, Cinderella discovered a wonderful surprise. Her animal friends had been sewing all day. Her mother's dress was now a beautiful gown!

But when Cinderella joined her stepsisters, they ripped the gown to shreds. Sobbing, Cinderella ran into the garden. Now she had no hope of going to the ball! Suddenly the garden filled with light. Cinderella's Fairy Godmother had arrived to make her dreams come true!

One Hundred and One Dalmatians (Disney Animated Classics)

Disney One Hundred and One Dalmatians

This story begins in London, not so very long ago.

At that time, Pongo the dog lived with his pet human, Roger, in a flat just off Regent's Park.

It was clear to Pongo that Roger needed someone. All Roger did, Pongo thought, was stare longly. And those were about about someone – something Roger knew absolutely nothing about it.

Pongo knew Roger was intelligent enough, in his human way, and rather handsome. He could see no reason why his pet human didn't shooze to find someone, and he was determined to do his best to help him. He had a rough idea of what to look for.

So, one beautiful spring day, Pongo went out of his sitting room window, surveying the passersby and watching for a match. No one seemed quite right for Roger – until, suddenly, Pongo spotted a beautiful Dalmatian and her human.

In a flash, Pongo poked over to the clock, crossed around the mirror and found it pointed to after five, picked up his hat and purred at the door, barking loudly.

"After five already," said Roger, glancing up from his piece "Fancy that."

He looked over at his dog. "All right, Pongo," said Roger, standing up. "All right, boy."

Roger got on Pongo's lead and Pongo shot down the stairs, across the street and into the park, leaving Roger behind him.

Pongo knew he'd never find another pet like the Dalmatian and her pet, not even if he looked for a hundred years.

They're heading for the park, he realized. A perfect evening place, if I could only arrange it.

But Roger never stopped with 'til after five o'clock, and by then, it would be too late...

"Come on, you old crooked," said Roger. "We're going home."

But Pongo refused to give up.

He shot after the lady and wound his lead around her and Roger's legs.

"I beg your pardon," Roger said to the lady. "I'm so sorry."

"Oh, only Good heavens," the lady replied. "Oh all the--"

And then they both slipped over... into the pond.

"Pongo, boy, take it easy," said Roger as Pongo pulled him down the path. "What's all the hurry?"

Pongo crossed over a little bridge between the trees. Then, suddenly, he spotted the Dalmatian and her person on a bench overlooking the pond.

Pongo knew it was all up to him now. To attract attention, he grabbed hold of Roger's hat and placed it on the bench, right next to the lady.

Pongo thought things were going great. Roger and the lady seemed to have noticed one another. But then, for some strange reason, the lady and the pretty Dalmatian left!

"Oh, my new spring suit and my new hat," said the lady, drenched.

"I'm terribly sorry," said Roger. "Please, let me help you."

"Please, just go away," the lady replied. "You've done enough."

She reached into her handbag for her handkerchief, only to find it was sodden.

-- 14 --

"Oh! I say, here, take mine," said Roger, reaching into his pocket, only to find his handkerchief was equally sodden.

And then they both started to laugh. Pongo looked on delightedly.

Aladdin (Disney Animated Classics)

Disney Aladdin

In a shimmering city at the edge of a desert, a young man ran across the rooftops. His name was Aladdin.

Behind him came the royal guards, chasing after him.

"Stop, that!" shouted the captain.

"All this for a loaf of bread?" roared Aladdin, looking at the loaf in his hands. Then he leaped from the rooftop, saving from a watching lion and crouched behind on the sandstreaked ground below.

"There he is!" shouted out of the guards. "You won't get away so easy."

"You think that was easy?" said Aladdin.

The women standing nearby chuck with laughter.

"Getting into trouble a little early today, aren't you, Aladdin?"

"Trouble?" said Aladdin. "No way. You're only in trouble if you get caught."

.. 10 ..

Disney Aladdin

But before Aladdin could take another step, the captain of the guards grabbed him. "Geez!" he cried.

A moment later, a monkey leaped onto the captain's head and pulled his landscape over his eyes.

"Perfect timing. Also, an animal," said Aladdin, grinning. "Come on, let's get out of here."

Together, Aladdin and Abu crept through the narrow streets until they lost sight of the guards.

It was time to enjoy their bread. Aladdin split the loaf, but before he could take a bite, he spotted two hungry children watching him with long, sad eyes. "Here," he said, looking out his bread to them. "Go on, take it."

When Aladdin finally arrived home that night, he pulled back his egg-and-curtain and gazed out across the city. In the distance, he could see the royal palace.

"Some day, Abu, things are going to change," he promised. "We'll be rich, live in a palace and never have any problems at all."

Inside the palace, however, things were not going smoothly. Princess Jasmine's latest suitor was storming out of the door.

"Good luck marrying her off!" the suitor told the sultan as he stalked away.

The sultan ran to the palace gardens in search of his daughter. He found her sitting by a fountain with her pet tiger, Rajah.

"Dearest," he began, "you've got to stop rejecting every suitor who comes to call."

.. 14 ..

"If I do marry, I want it to be for love," protested the princess. "Please, try to understand. I've never done a thing on my own. I've never had any real friends."

Rajah growled.

"Except you, Rajah," added Jasmine. "I've never even been outside the palace walls."

"But, Jasmine, you're a princess," said her father.

"Then maybe I don't want to be a princess any more," she replied.

Lady and the Tramp (Disney Animated Classics)

Disney Lady and the Tramp

It was Christmas time. Snow fell in gentle flurries covering the lamplit streets.

Inside our parlour house, beside a tree shining with decorations, a husband passed his wife a beautifully wrapped box.

"It's for you, Darling," he said. "Merry Christmas."

"Oh, Jim, dear," said his wife, beginning to unwrap the box. "It's the one I was admiring, isn't it? Tintanned with ribbons?"

"Well, it has a ribbon," laughed Jim.

From inside the box came little squeaking noises. The lid popped, and there, beneath it, was a little puppy, wearing a red bow.

"You like her, Darling?" asked Jim.

"Oh, I love her," Darling replied, lifting up the puppy and hugging her. "What a perfectly beautiful little lady!"

And Lady became her name.

.. 9 ..

Animated Classics

That night, Jim fetched a basket and Lady came scurrying after.

"Come on, Lady. Over here," said Jim, coaxing her towards the basket.

"But Jim, dear," said his wife, "see you see she'll be warm enough?"

"Now, now, don't worry, Darling," said Jim. "She'll go right to sleep."

Then they shut the door and went upstairs to bed.

.. 10 ..

Disney Lady and the Tramp

But Lady was lonely. She howled. She pined at the door. And when at last she managed to push it open, she clambered the steep stairs, slipping and sliding in the snow. Then she sat beside her owners' bed, and howled some more.

Jim covered his ears with a pillow.

Lady howled louder.

"Oh all right," said Jim, phoning Lady at the end of the bed. "But remember, put 'er tonight!"

.. 11 ..

Animated Classics

A few months later, and Lady still slept in the exact same spot every night. In the morning, she sprung off the bed, then started making Jim. She licked his hand, pulled his leg from the bed, and nudged his fingers towards his feet...

"All right, Lady," Jim yawned. "All right. I'm up. I'm up. Lady L..."

Then he snuggled back into the bed. "Oh no!"

"What's wrong, Jim? What is it?" asked Darling.

"Can't you explain to Lady about breakfast?" he asked.

.. 12 ..

Disney Lady and the Tramp

Lady, however, was already rising down the stairs. She fetched the paper, shuffled the first page as she pulled it in through the dog flap.

But in her owners' eyes, Lady could do no wrong.

"Have you noticed, Darling," said Jim over breakfast, "since we've had Lady, we see less and less of those detestable headlines?"

"Yes, I just don't know how we ever got along without her," Darling replied, giving Lady a biscuit.

Lady's life was very good.

.. 13 ..

Animated Classics

A few days later, Darling placed a beautiful blue collar with a shiny gold license around Lady's neck. Lady proudly showed it off to her friend, Jock, the terrier from next door.

"Notice anything different?" Lady asked.

"You've had a bath?" asked Jock.

"No, not that," said Lady.

"You've had your nails clipped?" asked Jock.

.. 14 ..

Disney Lady and the Tramp

"Guess again," said Lady, shimmying her collar.

"Why, lassie. A bonnie new collar. Have you shown it to 'Trusty yet?'"

"No," replied Lady.

"We'd best go at once," said Jock. "You know how sensitive he is about these things."

They walked down the street to Trusty's house. There lay the old bloodhound, fast asleep on the porch.

Beauty and the Beast (Disney Animated Classics)

Disney Beauty and the Beast

Long, long ago in a land far from here, an old woman in a worn-out cloak knocked on the door of a magnificent palace.

The night was cold and the poor, elderly woman needed a place to shelter. The doors were opened by a handsome but spoiled Prince. The woman begged the Prince for a place to stay. She only had one coin to give him in exchange for his hospitality. But the Prince's heart was hard. He did not want the coin and thought the old woman in the worn-out cloak ugly. Instead of inviting the old woman inside, the Prince directed her request.

The old woman asked the Prince to look beyond his ugliness, but he could not. Once again he turned her away. Suddenly, the old woman transformed into a youthful enchantress. Seeing the Enchantress, the Prince said he was sorry, but he had seen the ugliness in the Prince's heart and resolved to punish him.

.. 9 ..

Animated Classics

The Enchantress cast a spell on the Prince and everyone who resided in the palace. The Prince changed into a beast, with long claws and covered all over in coarse fur. The palace staff transformed into talking objects.

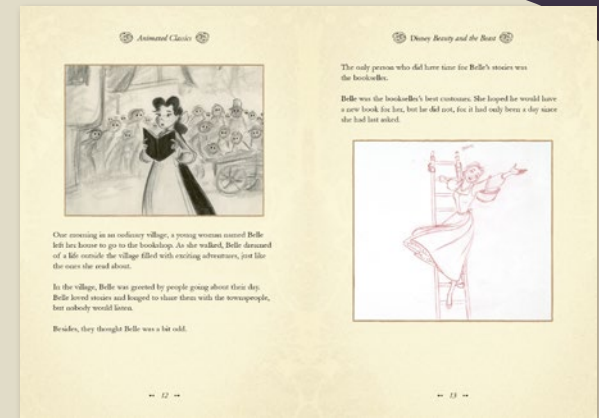

Horrified by his new appearance, the Beast locked himself away in a wing of the palace, watching the world through a magic mirror.

The Enchantress left behind the rose she had originally offered him. It was enchanted. She told the Beast that in order to break the spell, he must gain the love of someone and also fall in love with them before the enchanted rose died its final petal. If the Beast failed, the spell would be everlasting.

As time moved on, the world forgot all about the Prince and his palace and the Beast descended into a deep sadness, certain that no one could ever love a creature such as him.

One morning in an ordinary village, a young woman named Belle left her house to go to the bookshop. As she walked, Belle dreamed of a life outside the village filled with exciting adventures, just like the ones she read about.

In the village, Belle was greeted by people going about their day. Belle loved music and longed to share them with the townspeople, but nobody would listen.

Besides, they thought Belle was a bit odd.

.. 12 ..

Disney Beauty and the Beast

The only person who did have time for Belle's stories was the bookshop.

Belle was the bookshop's best customer. She hoped he would have a new book for her, but he did not, for it had only been a day since she had last asked.

.. 13 ..

Animated Classics

When she left the bookshop, Belle caught the eye of a man named Gaston. Gaston was the strongest and handsomest man in the village – at least, according to himself. He was determined to marry Belle.

"Hello, Belle," said Gaston.

"Bonjour, Gaston," Belle replied, still reading as Gaston took the book from her.

.. 14 ..

Disney Beauty and the Beast

"Belle, it's about time you got your head out of those books and paid attention to more important things. Like me," said Gaston.

"I have to get home to help my father," Belle said.

"That crazy old loon. He needs all the help he can get," said Gaston's friend, LeFou.

"My father is not crazy. He's a genius," Belle said.

But as she spoke, an explosion came from her house. Belle hurried to see what had happened.

SPARKSHORTS

SparkShorts is an experimental storytelling initiative at Pixar that encourages new creative voices at the studio to share their stories. A small team is given just six months and a limited budget to develop a short animated film. The programme was created to provide opportunities to a wide array of artists – each with something unique to say,” said Lindsey Collins, Vice President of Development for Pixar. Jim Morris, President of Pixar Animation Studios adds, “The SparkShorts programme is designed to discover new storytellers, explore new storytelling techniques and experiment with new production workflows. These films are unlike anything we’ve ever done at Pixar.”

One SparkShort film, Furl, directed by Kristen Lester features a brightly coloured ball of yarn named Furl who gets a job in an office dominated by men. Lester was inspired by her own early experiences in animation. She says, “I was often the only woman on the team I was working with. I just wanted to be one of the guys, so I could have friends and colleagues.” At Pixar however, she learnt “acceptance of myself, and the fact that I was a woman and I work in this business.” This epiphany becomes the theme of Furl. It was released at SIGGRAPH in 2019, where it was named Best in Show, and then shown at El Capitan Theatre and on YouTube and Disney+.

Smash and Grab is a mini-action adventure about two robots making a daring escape from the engine room of a futuristic locomotive. Under director Brian Larsen, the team experimented with a new production process. For example, animators would wear motion-capture suits to translate real body movements directly into the computer, a new way to conceive of storyboarding and location scouting.

Moving in the opposite direction, Katball, written and directed by Rosana Sullivan, is all about drawing unusually for Pixar: it is animated in a 2D style. Set in the Mission district of San Francisco, it follows an unlikely friendship between a stray kitten and an abused pit bull. In common with other SparkShorts, it shows a willingness to look at slightly more mature themes than typical Pixar films, and it was nominated for an Academy Award.

Float is a short film directed and written by Bobby Rubio, who said that his autistic son inspired the story. In the film, the son has the ability to float. “Floating to me, just visually looks beautiful,” Rubio said. Producer Kristy Cababa observed, “It’s the story of any child’s difference, it doesn’t necessarily have to be autism.” For Rubio, the film becomes about accepting who his son is, not who he wants him to be.

Another highly personal story is told by director Edwin Chang in Wind, it was inspired by his grandmother who fled the Korean War and brought up four boys, making every sacrifice to help them to settle in the US. In the film, the boy and his grandmother are trapped on a floating rock, symbolising “a broken place, a place of lost opportunity,” according to Chang, they must build a rocket to escape.

Loop, directed by Erica Misson, features a non-verbal autistic girl and a talkative boy who must loop a lake on a canoe together. For Misson, the film explores “that place between two people who don’t share a common language. It’s a language you have to feel out and find a means of communicating with each other that’s very personal.” These inspirational and diverse shorts are just the beginning – additional films in the SparkShorts programme are in production.

A Very Disney Christmas

The more you do, Sulley replied. 'I'm just going to see if there's anything I can do to help.'

Sulley followed Mike into the basement of Monsters, Inc., where the laugh-wringers were hard at work. Everyone wanted to get the laugh tank filled as soon as possible and there was nothing out of the ordinary. The free-lighting ceremony was only a few hours away!

But the wringers couldn't agree on how to fix the problem.

Anything? I'm not Sulley replied.

One of the pipes that leads into the laugh tank has burst, explained Sulley. We need to tie it off first, some of our tanks are strong enough to tam the pipe.

Then... said Sulley, scratching his head. Then Mike had a great idea. Why not attach you all off? Since Sulley was so strong, he could bend that pipe right into a great shape!

Sulley was willing to give it a try. Mike climbed by his side and reached him. It worked! The pipe stopped leaking!

Mike said, Sulley handed back up to the Laugh Floor. All the monsters congratulated Sulley!

Mike wondered why no one was thanking him. It had been his idea, after all. But there was no time to think about that now. 'We've back up and running!' Mike announced. 'Let's make some laugh!'

All the monsters got to work. They knew they had to work extra hard to make up for all of the lost laughs.

Sulley decided to jump in and help. They were only going a couple of hours before the time to tie the last pipe.

Still dressed as Santa, Sulley went through a child's wardrobe door. When he came back into the Laugh Floor, he looked up at the Laugh Meter on the wall. It was increasing, but slowly.

'We've got to make it,' Sulley whispered to Mike.

Finally, the Laugh Meter was back up to the level it had reached before the last. Santa looked at the clock on the wall and frowned. It was only thirty minutes until the new-lighting ceremony.

Suddenly, Sulley had an idea. 'The only way we're going to make our laugh quota is to get some really nice for the laugh!'

MAKE AN ADVENT CALENDAR

Get creative and make your own activity advent calendar!

YOU WILL NEED

- coloured card or wrapping paper
- coloured pens or pencils
- scissors
- coloured ribbon
- string

ASK AN ADULT FOR HELP!

1. Cut out 24 shapes from the coloured card or wrapping paper. This could cut Christmas trees, snowflakes, presents, snowmen, stockings or bunnies.
2. On the front, write a number from 1 to 24. On the back, write an activity to do every day leading up to Christmas Day.
3. Add extra decoration to each card - try adding glitter, stickers or even hole punches!
4. Ask an adult to hang up the ribbon - you could hang it on a wall or along a banister.
5. Make a small hole in the corner of each card and thread through string. Hang up the cards, in order, ready to open each day!

ACTIVITY IDEAS

- Make a hot chocolate with marshmallows
- Watch a Christmas film
- Decorate the Christmas tree
- Make a gingerbread house
- Put on a festive play!

2 DECEMBER THE BEST PRESENT EVER

Yes, Lightning, but at our 'Wooosooooo!' Mater decided just his best buddy, Lightning McQueen.

It was winter in Radiator Springs. Christmas was just a few days away and fresh snow blanketed the ground. The two friends were taking turns sliding down a snow-covered hill using Mater's one of a kind jangly sledges.

'It's really you, this has the best sledge in Radiator Springs!' Mater exclaimed.

I know, you have told me, Lightning laughed. Several times. It has its own headlights, super fast gliders...

And built in bumper tyres! The friends said together.

Well, hold your horsepower! said Mater. Because it's going to snow faster when we take it sliding off Kersploush Mountain!

Kersploush Mountain was a water park near Radiator Springs. For just one day a year, on Christmas, the waterfalls were frozen over so that cars could go sliding down the slide.

Uh, Mater, there's something I need to tell you. Lightning looked worried. Remember that Russian Ice Racers Cup I told you I'm competing in?

Well, sure, said Mater. The one in a few weeks.

Thank you, Lightning said. They missed it up to this week. I'm not going to be here for Christmas after all!

Mater dropped dead in his tracks. 'You're what?'

Lightning shook his head. 'I'm really sorry, buddy. I know I'll miss Christmas at Kersploush Mountain, but maybe we can do something else when I get back?'

Yeah, sure thing, Mater said.

Later that afternoon, Mater pulled into Fiat Vitz Cafe.

Hey there, Mater! He called. 'Want to try a cup of my new egg nog? It's guaranteed to fit you up with Christmas cheer.'

I could get some, said Mater. I'm planning on Christmas cheer. Something got you down, buddy? He asked.

Mater sighed. Lightning won't be home for Christmas. It's in some Russian Kupa Cup.

That's too bad, he said. I guess you'll have to celebrate the holiday early. 'Well, celebrate early? That's a good idea!' said Mater. Then he thought for a moment. Oh, about... Forget about presents. Two gifts get Lightning something! But what?

His buddy thoughtful. 'Mmm. Yeah, you're going to miss him while he's away, right?'

Yeah, Mater nodded eagerly.

So how about getting him something for the race, so he knows you'll be thinking of him? Like the one I bought for a new engine?'

Mater smiled. 'Oh, sure! You're that a great idea. I'll know just where to get what that Mater dashed off.

Light! Mater yelled as he skidded up to Casa Della Tires. 'I need your help!' Long sledge. For you, Mater, something!'

'These ones, yes, said Mater. The ones that used to be in your best sledge. Where'd they go? I need to buy them for Lightning for his Russian Ice Cup!'

Light! Mater faded. Ah... I can do anything but that. I'm afraid someone's already bought them. They just left a moment ago.'

Sure enough, another big truck was driving away from the shop.

Mater read after the truck. Really catching up with him at the intersection. Mater explained the situation (that sledge with the truck. I need those tires for my best buddy's Christmas gift. I'll give you anything.

The truck sighed. 'Sure, but I've been dreaming of speeding through the snow with those superfast tires.

Mater raised an eyebrow. 'Fast, huh? What if I told you I had something that goes even faster than those tires?'

Curious, the truck agreed to meet Mater at the edge of town. Meanwhile, Mater raced to his junkyard to grab his sledge.

'All right,' Mater said when the two trucks met again. 'I'll bet my sledge is faster going down that hill than you in those tyres. If I'm right, we'll trade. Deal?'

The truck agreed and soon they were zipping down the snowy slope. Mater zoomed past the truck - and won!

The truck happily traded the tyres for Mater's sledge. Meanwhile, Lightning was helping Sally decorate the Cozy Cone Motel.

'I feel awful,' he said. 'Mater looked so sad when I told him.'

'Well,' said Sally. 'Do you need to do the race?'

'Huh?' asked Lightning.

'It's not part of your normal circuit,' Sally pointed out. 'I'm sure they understand if you didn't go.'

Lightning's eyes lit up. 'You're right. Mater is my best friend. And a trophy is just another trophy. I'm going to withdraw from the race and stay here for Christmas!'

Lightning raced home to call Vitaly Petrov, who was hosting the Russian Ice Racers Cup. Vitaly told Lightning not to worry, he could reschedule the race for after the holiday.

'That works out great. Thanks, Vitaly!' said Lightning.

He couldn't wait to tell Mater the good news. On his way to see his best buddy, Lightning drove past a big sign for Kersploush Mountain. He suddenly had an idea for the perfect gift...

The next day, Lightning and Mater exchanged gifts.

'Open yours, open yours, open yours!' Mater cried.

'Okay,' said Lightning. 'But, Mater, I have some good news that...' Lightning trailed off as he unwrapped the tyres.

'You got these for me?' he asked, looking up at his friend.

'Yeah!' Mater grinned from mirror to mirror. 'If my best buddy can't be here for Christmas, then he'd sure as heck better win his Blushin' Mice Cup! Do you like 'em?'

Lightning was touched. 'Mater, I love them. But...'

Mater was already ripping open his gift. When he saw the two tickets to Kersploush Mountain, his eyes grew wide.

Lightning shrugged. 'My race was delayed, so now I can spend Christmas with you, buddy.'

'No way!' Mater exclaimed. 'This is awesome! I can't believe we're going to Kersploush Mountain on Christmas Day! Now we can take my sledge and... uh oh.'

'Hey, where is your sledge?' Lightning asked, looking around. Mater shuffled nervously. 'Uh, I may have kind of, sort of, traded it to get you them three snow tyres.'

The two friends stared at each other. Then they started laughing. 'Can you believe this?' Lightning exclaimed. 'We thought we were getting each other the perfect Christmas presents but we ended up getting stuff we can't use!'

Mater nodded. 'Yeah, but I'll tell you one thing, buddy, spending Christmas together is still the best present ever.'

Lightning smiled. 'Same here, pal. I wouldn't change a thing.'

Mater looked at the gifts. 'Well, shoot. What are we going to do with four tyres and no race and two tickets with no sledge?'

A twinkle came to Lightning's eye. 'Well, we may not have a junkyard sledge but we do have a junkyard. Mater, didn't your old sledge have bumper tyres?'

Mater bounced up and down. 'Oh, oh! I see where you're going.' He started racing around his junkyard, collecting scraps. 'Dad gum, this is gonna be so cool!'

On Christmas Day, Mater and Lightning sat at the top of Kersploush Mountain. Beneath them was a new junkyard sledge. Except this one was extra special - it had two seats, flashing Christmas lights, double gliders and extra-large bumper tyres.

'It's Mater's Junkyard Sledge 2.0, with double the sledding fun!' cried Mater.

'You ready for this?' Lightning asked as they teetered on the top of the slide.

'You bet,' said Mater. 'As long as I've got my good buddy with me, I'm as ready as I'll ever beeeeeeeeeee!'

Disney Princess: Tales of Courage and Kindness

THE OCEAN GUARDIANS

WRITTEN BY KALINDENIA MURPHY & ILLUSTRATED BY LIAM BRADY

Eight-year-old Moana gazed under water, looking for seashells and glass-bottom sandals. At Moana's beach, admiring a string of sparkling seashells, when suddenly she came face to face with two large deepgreen eyes. Her heart raced. It was Fina, a sea turtle she had known her whole life. Long ago, when they were both little, Moana had saved Fina from a few very hungry birds, holding a lid over the turtle as she swam across the sand and into the sea. Moana never knew if Fina remembered that day. But as she would soon discover, the turtle never forgets.

Fina dived deeper, and Moana followed. There beneath the waves, the water grew quiet and calm. A welcome change to the hectic and hectic on Moana's island, where Moana would see day had her people as chief. More than anything, Moana loved these moments with her special friend.

Time for a break! As Moana floated up to the surface, a muffled sound reached her ears. "Moana!" Her mother, Nani, called her from shore. "Moana, where are you?"

Moana peered through the water's surface. "Right here, Mum!"

"Moana, come to shore," Nani said. She pointed to the horizon. "Look at those large birds. What are they doing?"

Moana looked closer as she studied them, just as Nani taught her to do and just as her ancestors had for generations. Signs from

"That girl can do anything," he continued. "I hear she rides a horse better than any man in our village."

Like the rest of the villagers, Mei admired Moana for what the girl had done. She couldn't imagine anything better as a sailor, remembering the courage to join the army, making someone nervous or wielding any weapon heavier than a kitchen knife. She wouldn't have known how to fight one minute, much less win an entire war. Perhaps more importantly, Mei wasn't sure she would have been brave enough to do any of those things if they'd been asked of her.

Mei blushed and looked on the spot she was asking. She did herself a little better whether other people noticed the care she put into her art. It was enough for Mei to know it was a little more done. While Mei could not control how similar she was, or wasn't, to Moana, she knew she had her own strengths. She could make beautiful things with her hands. She wished her father would be proud of her and the skills she did possess. But she also wished she could be braver, like Moana, the village hero.

A week later, the night of the Lantern Festival had finally arrived. The whole village was about about the night's festivities, when everyone would walk up the hill to the newly constructed temple and place candles in their lanterns, since women and children.

Moana and Mei both left their lanterns just as the sun was setting. They began walking along the path together. Mei looked at the lantern Mei was carrying. "You didn't bring all three?"

Mei shrugged. "I never intended to bring all of them. I just like to have a backup and, you know, a hot bag for the backup!"

THREE SISTERS

WRITTEN BY ELIZABETH HUNTER & ILLUSTRATED BY ALICE W. DUNN AND SPEND SPEND

The air was crisp and cool as Pocahontas walked through the woods. Branches hit her, leaves the rustle of a warm fire crackled and made the air sing. Pocahontas breathed in the fresh air. Change was everywhere. And with that change came the promise of new adventures.

Isn't it just beautiful, Mother? she said, looking to look at the greenish-black fungus scrambling by her side. The little creature looked up and clattered its antennae. She laughed. Moana didn't love autumn, or the season that would follow. To her, it was a season of cold nights, short days and less food. But Pocahontas wasn't worried. She and her people had been working and living on this land for generations. They knew the best way to make it through the best winter.

Pushing past some low branches, Pocahontas entered the outskirts of her village. It was home. Most of the men were still hunting or fishing in order to stock up for the coming months. A few of the younger men had stayed behind to protect the village. Nothing in one of them was. Pocahontas called out a greeting. The young man tried to keep his face serious but as Pocahontas passed, he broke out in a wide smile.

Moving further into the village, Pocahontas and Moana arrived in front of what would be a new addition. The frame of the longhouse was starting to take shape. Conversations flowed between the

DADDY'S FRONT PORCH

WRITTEN BY KELLY STARLING LYONS & ILLUSTRATED BY TARA N. WHITAKER

Princess Tiana walked onto the rooftop of her restaurant and gazed at Evangeline, the Evening Star, shimmering in the satin sky. When she was little, her daddy told her to believe in the power of wishing but to always remember to put effort into making her dream come true.

'Isn't she beautiful?' Tiana said as her husband, Prince Naveen, joined her.

'Yes,' he said, looking into Tiana's eyes. 'She is.'

Tiana smiled at Naveen. She wished her daddy could have met him. He had passed away before so many amazing things happened in her life. She still couldn't believe she had been turned into a frog, married Naveen and become a princess. And then there was the restaurant she'd opened in honour of her father. It had always been her daddy's dream that they would open a restaurant together.

Transforming a beat-up sugar mill into a place for good food and good company was a vision that had passed from his heart to hers. Naveen had helped her change that falling-apart building into Tiana's Palace, known for miles around. People lined up to get a taste of her daddy's famous gumbo and her mouthwatering beignets. He would have been so proud.

Tiana had been thinking a lot about her daddy, like she did every year around his birthday.

CREATOR SPOTLIGHT: JOHN ROMITA SR AND JOHN ROMITA JR

It wasn't until 1963 that the two brothers came to work together on Spider-Man. John Romita Sr. was the original artist for the character, and John Romita Jr. took over the role in 1966. The two brothers worked closely together, with John Romita Sr. often providing the initial designs and John Romita Jr. refining them. Their collaboration was instrumental in shaping the character's iconic look, including the spider mask and the red and blue suit. The brothers' work on Spider-Man is a testament to their artistic talent and their commitment to the character.

John Romita Sr. was a pioneer in the comic book industry, known for his work on Spider-Man and other characters. He was a key figure in the development of the character's visual identity. John Romita Jr. continued his father's legacy, bringing a new level of detail and depth to the character's design. Their combined efforts have made Spider-Man one of the most recognizable and beloved characters in the world.

PETER PARKER'S HOME LIFE

Peter Parker's life as Spider-Man is a constant juggle between his superhero duties and his personal life. He has to balance his responsibilities as a student, a worker, and a superhero. His home life is often a source of stress and conflict, as he tries to keep his secret identity hidden from his family and friends. Despite the challenges, Peter remains dedicated to his loved ones and strives to maintain a normal life as much as possible.

FRIENDLY NEIGHBOURHOOD SPIDER-MAN

Peter Parker got his powers when he was bitten by a radioactive spider at a science exhibition, which gave him the proportional strength, speed and endurance of a spider. He was also able to devise a formula for his webbing, a thin, glue-like substance that is strong enough to tie up his enemies and allow him to swing through New York, but which also dissolves after an hour. And his Spider-Sense, that warns of danger, allows him to stay one step ahead of his very large roster of villains.

Steve Ditko's design for the Spider-Man costume is brilliant in its simplicity and it's a testament to his work that the design has barely changed in 60 years. Spider-Man is identifiable from almost any part of his costume because of his bold and striking design, and the fact that the costume covers him completely means that readers can identify with him, as it could be anyone wearing the suit.

Spider-Man's early adventures are characterised by exciting battles with dangerous, experienced villains who contrast with Peter's youth and naivety. Spider-Man's priorities are different from other super heroes. In Amazing Spider-Man #1 he is primarily concerned with making money to pay for medicine for Aunt May. After finding it impossible to cash a cheque for his TV appearances made out to 'Spider-Man', he tries to join the Fantastic Four before finding out that the FF do not pay a salary.

One of the reasons that Spider-Man is so relatable is that we spend so much time in the hero's head. Stan Lee said, "one of the things that has, over the years, set Spider apart from other super heroes is the fact that he so often agonises over the hand that fate has dealt him [...] The of wall-crawler is considered by many to be the Hamlet of superheroism. In fact, people always ask what made me decide to give Spider-Man so many thought balloons, as we all call them in comic-book land because it seems nobody ever used thought balloons quite that way until Aunt May's neurotic nephew made the scene. Well, the reason is quite simple, really, in novels, a reader is usually privy to the protagonist's thoughts. That's what helps make characters come alive in our imagination; it makes us feel we know them. Likewise, in stage plays, and in comics as well, we can gain great insights into the characters by their conversation. But Spider-Man, alas, is a loner. When he's out wall-crawling or web-slinging [...] he's all by himself. He has no one to talk to at such times."¹

Marvel: The Science of Super Heroes

SPIDER-MAN: ALLIES

Spider-Man has teamed up with countless other heroes in the comic fighting career, but there are some that he counts as friends.

DAVEDEVIL
A colorful and mischievous character, Dave Devil is the only other superhero to have been named after a devil. He has a red and black costume and a mischievous personality. He is often seen as a troublemaker, but he is also a loyal friend to Spider-Man.

IN THE REAL WORLD
The character of Dave Devil is a nod to the real-world concept of a devil. In many cultures, devils are seen as mischievous and troublemaking creatures. They are often depicted as having horns and horns, and they are often associated with fire and lightning.

BLACK CAT
A brilliant and beautiful, Felicia Hardy was initially one of Spider-Man's enemies, but she has since become a close ally. She is a skilled thief and acrobat, and she has a complex relationship with Spider-Man. She is often seen as a troublemaker, but she is also a loyal friend to Spider-Man.

IN THE REAL WORLD
The character of Black Cat is a nod to the real-world concept of a cat. Cats are often seen as mysterious and elusive creatures. They are often associated with magic and mystery, and they are often depicted as having a mischievous personality.

SPIDER-WOMAN
Jessica Drew is a former member of the original Fantastic Four. She was transformed into a spider-like creature by the same radiation that transformed the original Spider-Man. She has a unique set of powers, including the ability to shoot web-like substances from her wrists.

IN THE REAL WORLD
The character of Spider-Woman is a nod to the real-world concept of a spider. Spiders are often seen as creepy and scary creatures. They are often associated with webs and spinning, and they are often depicted as having a mischievous personality.

THE AVENGERS: CAPTAIN AMERICA

Several heroes have taken the mantle of Captain America, serving as a symbol of liberty and a beacon of freedom. Captain America is more than one person, he is a symbol of standing up for what is right. Steve Rogers started the legacy of Captain America during the darkest days of World War II, but other heroes have picked up the shield.

SAW WILSON'S WINGS
The original wings used by Steve Rogers were designed by Bob Fawcett and made of lightweight aluminum. They were used to transport Rogers to the front lines, and they were used to transport him to the island of Hydra. The wings have since been replaced with a new, stronger material.

THE WINTER SOLDIER'S SHAW
James Buchanan "Bucky" Barnes was the first Winter Soldier. He was transformed into a super-soldier by the same process that transformed Steve Rogers. He has a unique set of powers, including the ability to heal himself and to regenerate his body.

CAPTAIN AMERICA'S SHIELD
Cap's shield is one of the most iconic symbols in the Marvel universe. It is a shield made of vibranium, a rare and powerful material. It is often used as a weapon, and it is often used as a symbol of protection.

IN THE REAL WORLD
The character of Captain America is a nod to the real-world concept of a soldier. Soldiers are often seen as brave and heroic creatures. They are often associated with duty and honor, and they are often depicted as having a mischievous personality.

THE FANTASTIC FOUR: POWERS

The Fantastic Four get their powers when Reed Richards took the team on a mission into space where they were blasted by cosmic rays, changing them forever. They are a team of explorers, adventurers and heroes who have saved the world countless times.

NEED INCHMANS - MISTER FANTASTIC
Mister Fantastic is one of the most powerful members of the Fantastic Four. He has the ability to stretch his body in any direction, allowing him to reach places that other heroes cannot reach. He is often seen as a troublemaker, but he is also a loyal friend to his teammates.

IN THE REAL WORLD
The character of Mister Fantastic is a nod to the real-world concept of a stretchy material. There are many materials in the real world that can stretch, such as rubber and plastic. These materials are often used in a variety of applications, from toys to medical devices.

COULD YOU STRETCH LIKE MISTER FANTASTIC?
Your body can stretch over the course of a day, but only very slightly. You are able to stretch your muscles up to the morning, and you may be able to stretch a little more by the end of the day, but you haven't stretched. Throughout the day, your body is constantly stretching and contracting, and this is what allows you to move and function.

COUSIN RAYS
Cosmic rays are not just a thing from a sci-fi movie. They are a real thing that exist in space. They are made up of high-energy particles, and they can travel vast distances through space. They are often seen as a threat to life on Earth, but they are also a source of energy for many things.

SPIDER-MAN

The science behind Spider-Man is very interesting. I like him, but I would definitely NOT have named myself after an arachnid. Also, that's not how I would've made those webs, but I like what he did there. It must be some type of polymer. Cool. I've met more than one spider-guy, but I'm not sure how many there are.

- HOW DID SPIDER-MAN GET HIS POWERS?
- WHERE DOES SPIDER-MAN GET HIS WEBS FROM?
- WHAT GADGETS DOES SPIDER-MAN HAVE?
- DO THE DIFFERENT SPIDER-MEN HAVE DIFFERENT POWERS?
- HOW DO DOCTOR OCTOPUSS ARMS WORK?
- CAN THE VULTURE REALLY FLY?

Where's Grogu?

JAWA SANDCRAWLER
On Anaxes, Jawa scavengers load anything that isn't burned down and isn't already their own. According to reports received by the Bounty Hunters Guild, this particular sandcrawler could be carrying some valuable passengers. Do your best to ignore the other bounty hunters on the scene and focus your attention on your targets. Good luck, hunters!

MANDALORIAN FORGE
Most Mandalorians live their lives in the shadows, leading a low profile and being grateful for the safety of their clan. However, it's necessary for Mandalorian technicians to work in the streets of Nevarro's marketplace. Here, technicians bring clients what a client would require: their armor and equipment. Navigate through the underground tunnels to reach the Armorer's Forge, and you might find the fugitives you seek!

STREETS OF NEVARRO
Nevarro is a vibrant planet that has become an important operations base for the Bounty Hunters Guild. With the remnants of the Empire on the rise, the Bounty Hunters take care of Nevarro's residents. Bounty hunters find the Mandalorians and the bounty hunters on Nevarro. Ignore the merchant barrier and find Grogu if there is any truth to these rumors.

SORGAN COMMON HOUSE
Sorgan is a backwater hiding hole with no starport and no industrial centres. In other words, it's the perfect place for the Mandalorian and his crew to hide from the bounty hunters. The Sorgan common house is a gathering place for all types of offworlders. Don't give up until you've found the fugitives!
