Jane Foster's Baby's First Stories: 6-9 months

A series that grows with your baby

- Written in consultation with Early Years Expert, Lizzie Noble
- Fills a gap in the market: parents are told to read to their baby every day, but black and white books often have little text. Reading aloud soothes babies, promotes bonding, builds language skills, and increases the chance that parents will read to babies as they grow older. 6-9 months has black, white, red and blue art, as from 6 months, babies can see most colours. The story relates to routines, to reflect little ones starting to wean, and settling into more regular patterns.
- Perfect for parents who use the Wonder Weeks App, read Your Baby Week by Week, or use milestone cards to mark big moments

On The Streets of Paris

Café Life

Today I'm feeling extremely Parisian.
So I'd better show myself to the tourists.
I shall wear my chic things, and I shall take a book, and I shall wear my nonchalant look.
I shall sip a small coffee at a café nearby,
en terrasse, with the wind in my face, and I'll act like I'm part of the landscape.

Every detail must be right. The pigeons must coo.
The waiter must be rude, and my cheeks must be rouged, and I'll stare at the book, and I'll stare at the sky,
and sometimes I'll sigh,
and I won't notice you taking photos of me,
or talking about me,
or thinking about me,
and I'll live on forever in your stories of Paris,
spiky with upspoke:
"We saw this woman; she was like, so chic?
She had, like, a book?
and a nonchalant look?
and she was sipping coffee?
at a café nearby?
Ah! Those Parisians, un café, un livre, la joie de vivre."

It's thing. It's a job. It's a duty. It's a mission, that whole thing of being, sometimes, a Parisian.

The Incident at Camp UFO

Pawan glanced around at the dark forest, the glowing lake and the far off mountains. "Right, now that, what now?"

"Um..." said Dai, scanning his list. "How about ghost stories? Anybody know any?" Nobody did.

"Come on! We've tried. Something scary HAS to have happened here. A monster! Look! Robert's head is glowing! Is that? A tragic dog-related accident?"

Dai thought for a moment. "Well, there is ONE. But it's not that scary. It's just about a murderess vendetta against camp. And Robert's head is glowing. Is that? A tragic dog-related accident?"

Frankie, Val and Xinyi turned. Even Pawan looked momentarily less sulky. "So on..." gasped Frankie after a split second.

"Well, right to ready!" Dai admitted. "So that's your ghost story, is it?" said Val. "So all those tales in the wood, the camp and books around a light?"

"Well, yeah," Dai mumbled, defensively. "I mean, he is quite weird."

The gang froze as a deep, hacking cough echoed across the valley. On the lake, a rusty old boat quietly drifted into view with a headless man hunched over the wheel.

The Early Birds returned in silence as the boat disappeared out of view.

"I mean, it's not that scary," said Frankie. "Well," she agreed, rather apologetically. "He can't help being old and coughing." "Forget it," huffed Dai, going up at the presence of "imposing people" for the day.

"You going to bed. Put the fire out before you know and be careful of the... uh... water!" He waved vaguely towards the lake before walking off in the direction of the tent.

"I can be so scary!" said Xinyi. The others turned to her, surprised. This was the first thing they remembered Xinyi saying since they arrived. "It's a TERRIBLE camp, isn't it?" she asked.

Then suddenly, she screamed.

AAAAHHH!!!

Out of the dark woods, a hairy figure with teeth and claws lunged toward the gang.

Getting to know UFO!

Name: Poppy Age: Unknown. Appearance: Short, dark hair, freckles, a red shirt. Personality: A bit of a mess, but a good friend. What's in your pocket? A small, glowing object. If you were a villain, what would you do? I'd be a villain.

"It's a GHOST!" screamed Xinyi, lunging over to the Pawan creature before the others could even register the transformation of their quiet companion to a Buggy Fright. "What's a good boy like a ghost. Not that a girl like her sister is a Pawan!"

"Hellooo Poppy!" Poppy's tail thumped in reply. She LOVED when people knew her name.

"Where did she come from?" frowned Frankie.

"I don't know," Pawan shrugged. "Maybe she's the camp dog?"

And suddenly, Frankie's tail Pawan had dropped. "So you want your tail, Poppy? Oh, go fetch!" She launched the ball as fast as she could, to which Poppy sprang up in response, skillfully turning herself over and over to catch it.

SPOILER ALERT: THIS WAS NOT AS INTERESTING AS IT WAS GOING TO BE.

INCIDENT INCOMING

The Early Birds looked at each other in utter astonishment, then sprinted towards the lake. Poppy followed, barking madly. She didn't have a clue what was going on, but she loved running.

"Y-you realise what's happening now right?!" puffed Pawan, struggling to keep up with the others. "A SUPERHERO ORIGIN STORY! Space rock falls from the sky, local kids find space rock, space rock makes them FLY or TURN STRETCHY or give them the power to make people EXPLODE or something!"

"Was it definitely a space rock?" asked Val. "What's called? An asteroid. Maybe it was a satellite. Or a part of a PLANE! I heard once that an aeroplane's toilet chute opened and the stuff inside fell out of the sky, and because it's SO cold up there, it FROZE and hit a man and everyone knew that he'd been squashed by a massive frozen ball of POO!"

"Definitely not poo," said Frankie, who had made it to the shore first. The others arrived and stared out at the emanating water. "Poo doesn't glow."

"Woah" said Val, astutely. "I guess we should report this to, uh, whoever you report asteroids to?" Frankie posited. "Um, sorry, I think you mean meteorite," said Xinyi, apologetically. "Asteroids are when they're in space. When they fall they're a meteor, and when it lands it's a meteorite..." Xinyi frowned. WHY did I have to say that for? Now they'll think I'm a COMPLETE dweeb...

Frankie turned to her and smiled. "Thanks, Xinyi. It's probably best we know exactly what it is when we tell..." "Or," interrupted Val, "we DON'T tell anyone and fish it out ourselves!" The gang looked down at the glow once more. Pawan nodded slowly. "Yeah, I mean, do you KNOW how much meteorites go for online?" He said, biting his lip. "Like, mucho gold coins. Plus, still hoping for superpowers here..." "Yeah! Come on Frank-le-plank!" beamed Val. "I wanna make people explode!"

Frankie sighed. She saw what this was. Just because she was older – just because she wasn't suggesting stupid things like FISHING FOR (potentially) MAGIC SPACE ROCKS – they were making her be the mum. The sensible one. The leader. Frankie took a deep breath. Not today. Not this entire summer, actually. She had decided in the car that this summer, she wasn't going to be in charge of ANYTHING. Especially not Val.

"Yeah, okay. Let's get the meteorite out of the lake," the new, relaxed go-with-the-flow Frankie replied. "So... how are we going to do that?"

How COULD the gang fish the meteorite out the lake? When you think you've got it, turn to the next page - or check the answer at the back!

Hint: Try skipping back a few pages and see if there's any helpful lake-related gear!

WHAT ARE THE NORSE MYTHS?

Text 10K

THE CREATION STORY

A creation myth is a story about how the world began. Ancient cultures had all sorts of myths and wonderful ideas about how the world began, and this is the Norse creation story. Here are some of the details.

THE THEFT OF IDUN'S APPLES

One crisp, cold morning, Odin, Loki and their crossed the Bifrost bridge from their home in Asgard and went hiking in the world of humans.

After a long day, at last, Odin built a fire and grilled three or steaks over the flames. The steaks sizzled and sizzled, but somehow did not cook.

The eagle swooped another sparrow, causing the branch to stick to its body, and to Loki's hands.

Loki begged the bird for mercy, offering to do it a favour in return for his release.

IN AN ORCHARD FAR, FAR AWAY...

The steaks had been on the fire for hours, but they were still raw.

Perched in the oak tree above their heads was an enormous eagle. An enormous falcon eagle.

The magical eagle swooped down from the branches. It snatched up two steaks in its talons and another in its beak.

The goddess Idun was sitting in her sun-dappled orchard, tending her back. For apples were scarce in Asgard as they reached youth to achieve the Sun. Needless to say, she was very popular with everyone.

Loki crept into the orchard and called up to Idun.

The cunning sorcerer told Idun that he had found another golden eagle tree. It was in Midgard, just beyond the Bifrost bridge, and its apples looked exactly like Idun's apples.

Idun was worried about what this would mean for her brand. She picked up all the golden apples on her tree, then followed Loki out of the orchard and across the Bifrost bridge.

Loki was the quickest to react.

Ice Cream

"Dreaming from dessert"

14

On the hot day of August 18th, 1846, a young boy named John Henderson was walking through the streets of Glasgow, Scotland, when he noticed a group of people gathered around a man who was selling something. The man was holding a large, ornate metal container and was using a long, thin rod to stir the contents. Henderson was curious and went over to see what the man was doing. He saw that the man was stirring a thick, white substance that was being served in small, round cones. Henderson was fascinated and asked the man what it was. The man told him that it was 'ice cream' and that it was made from milk and sugar. Henderson was so impressed that he bought a cone and ate it. He was the first person in Scotland to eat ice cream.

Bicycle

"Freedom on two wheels"

15

Did you know that the first bicycle was called a 'boneshaker'? It was a simple machine made of wood and metal. It had two wheels of equal size and a seat. The rider sat on the seat and held the handlebars. The front wheel was steered by a handle that was connected to the front fork. The rear wheel was connected to the front wheel by a chain. The rider pedaled the rear wheel and the front wheel moved forward. The first bicycle was invented in 1817 by a German man named Baron von Drais. He called it a 'velocipede' because it was fast. It was a simple machine that anyone could use. It was the first step towards the modern bicycle.

Camera

"Tag along"

24

Although it may seem to be a simple thing, the camera is a complex machine. It is a device that captures a permanent image of a scene. The first camera was invented in 1816 by a French man named Nicéphore Niépce. He called it a 'chambre noire' because it was a dark room where light entered through a small hole. The light entered the room and hit a piece of paper. The paper was covered in a chemical that reacted to the light. The result was a permanent image of the scene. ## Wheel

"The revolutionary design that makes the world go round"

Can you imagine a world without wheels? Apart from sledges and ships, there would be no vehicles - no carts, cabs, bikes, buses, trucks, trains, cars or aeroplanes. The first wheeled vehicles were animal-drawn carts with solid wooden wheels. They were invented in Mesopotamia (modern-day Iraq) around 3500 BCE. 3500 years after the horizontal potter's wheel. These carts carried cargo to market and heavy loads, such as stone and timber for building projects. The horse-drawn chariot came next. In about 2500 BCE, chariot wheels were spoked rather than solid like a cartwheel, so they were faster and lighter. The wheel may be one of the simplest inventions, but without it our world would be completely different.

Potter's Wheel

The very first wheels were used to make pottery. The art of pottery began around 30,000 years ago. Originally, potters would shape clay into pots with their hands, but this took a long time. The Mesopotamians invented a better method in around 3500 BCE. The potter's wheel was a large stone disc balanced on a stick called an 'axle', which could be spun. By putting clay on the wheel and spinning it, the potter could shape the clay quickly into pots. We don't know for sure, but it seems likely that the potter's wheel led to the invention of the vehicle wheel.

Internet

"The world at your fingertips"

18

The invention of the Internet - a network of computers that 'speak' to each other - was a concentrated effort in the United States. The first computers were connected to each other in 1969, but scientists first began developing the Internet in the early 1950s during the Cold War (1947-1991), a time of heightened hostility between the USSR and the United States and when computers were the size of an entire room. The United States government wanted a communication system that couldn't be destroyed in a single attack, so they created ARPANET (Advanced Research Projects Agency Network): a series of linked computers across different locations, which allowed information to be relayed along telephone lines. The first message was sent in 1969. It was a single word: 'LOAN'. But only the 'L' and the 'O' got through before the network crashed. By the end of the same year four computers were connected on the ARPANET. It took years to create the 'network protocol' that allows computers to transfer data and 'speak' to each other. From the 1970s this network grew into the global Internet, which now links billions of devices. Today, whatever you want - books, food, holidays, cars - with the Internet you simply click a button and wait for it to arrive. Social media sites allow people all over the world to communicate instantly. We can consume films, television shows, music and video games, and even do our banking online.

World Wide Web

The World Wide Web (WWW) is a gateway to the Internet. It's made up of search engines like Google and Safari, the Internet addresses (also called URLs) we type in, and the websites that appear on our screens. It was invented by a British computer scientist called Tim Berners-Lee in 1989 while working at CERN, a science research laboratory in Switzerland. The WWW made the Internet accessible to everyone, not just scientists and academics.

Locomotion

THE FIRST RAILWAYS

It is strange to think that they have only been around as we know them for about two hundred years.

The first steam engines were used in British mines during the 17th century to pump water. It wasn't long before engineers tried using steam power to propel vehicles, and in 1802 the inventor Richard Trevithick built the very first working steam locomotive.

ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVES

The first electric train was tested as far back as 1837. Unlike steam trains, electric locomotives do not carry fuel on-board. Instead, they are powered by electricity which can be supplied from overhead lines, a third rail or in storage such as batteries. Because electric trains can be powered by renewable energy sources, they are considered less polluting than steam or diesel trains.

The first electric passenger train was presented by Werner von Siemens at an exhibition in Berlin in 1879. Consisting of a small locomotive and three cars, it reached a speed of just 13km/h.

The ETR 200 is a record-breaking electric passenger train. It is widely considered one of the first ever high-speed trains and was put into service in 1938. In 1939, it broke the speed record for trains by reaching just over 201km/h

The ICE (InterCity Express) is one of Germany's most successful electric trains. The third generation ICE 3, can reach speeds of 300km/h. Since 2018, it has run on entirely renewable energy sources.

THE GAUGE

STEAM LOCOMOTIVES

Once the possibility of steam-powered engines had been realized, a whole host of locomotives were tried and tested around the world. Some proved too heavy, others too unreliable and some were even dangerous, but the arrival of one revolutionary design changed the course of history. Rocket, designed by engineer Robert Stephenson (George Stephenson's son – see page 8) was to provide the principles of design for the vast majority of steam locomotives that followed.

DIESEL LOCOMOTIVES

In a diesel locomotive, the power comes from an engine that burns diesel oil. While a steam locomotive needed two people to crew it and hours to attain the right steam pressure, a diesel locomotive could simply be switched on and driven away, making them much easier and much cheaper to run. Rudolf Diesel patented his first diesel engine in 1898, but it wasn't until around 1912 that they were first used in a locomotive.

The famous DPG Class SVT 877 Hamburg Flyer, often referred to as the 'Flying Hamburger', was first put into service in 1933. Its smooth, rounded shape was influenced by Zeppelin airships allowing for minimal air resistance.

The Daibic, built in 1956, was considered the most powerful diesel locomotive in the world at that time.

The InterCity 125 is one of the most successful diesel trains of all time. So named because it was designed to cruise at 125 mph (about 201 km/h) when in service, it also holds the all-time speed record for diesel trains of 238 km/h, which it reached in 1987.

INTRODUCTION

Plumbers have dreamed about flying for thousands of years. It's not hard to imagine our primitive ancestors, who possessed the artistic skills to create beautiful cave paintings of the world around them – the landscapes, animals and each other – staring into the skies with both heads and wings outstretched and thinking to themselves: "There does it beat to fly? And what does the world look like from up there?" You're probably had a similar daydream yourself: visualizing your house from above, then looking towards the sun, feeling the wind flow over your wings, and soaring towards the horizon and the unknown world beyond.

The first true science capable of lifting people to relative safety and carrying them for descent distances were hot air balloons. The first was launched to great fortune in France in 1783. Suddenly it was possible for people to take to the skies, and it indicated a Priority of public interest in the notion of flight. Many more designs followed. Tailored balloons were immediately put to use by armies to spy on enemy movements from afar. Hot balloons are actively at the mercy of the wind, and pilots have to control over their direction of travel.

They changed one fairly big jet in W01, when the first powered flight of the new engine called the Flyer was made. It only lasted for 10 seconds, but it was enough to change the world. From that moment on, the development of the engine has never stopped. This constant advancement is aviation technology, funded with as much money, energy, materials and technical expertise, is carried out because airplanes are so useful. They transport people and cargo faster than any other vehicle. They are a vital part of military campaigns. They help us map, explore and learn about our world. They entertain us with amazing displays of speed and maneuverability. They connect us to all corners of the globe and to the rest of the world.

Don your aviation goggles and prepare for a breath-taking journey through the clouds!

- AMAZING AIRCRAFT -
WRIGHT FLYER

On December 17th, 1903, Wilbur and Orville Wright changed the world forever. For years, these mechanically-minded American brothers had shared a vision of creating a machine that could fly further and more reliably than a glider, and, unlike a hot air balloon, wasn't forced to fly in a particular direction by the wind. In short: the first flying vehicle that the pilot had complete control over. After years of planning and countless experiments, their vision became a history-making reality in the sandy dunes of Outer Banks, North Carolina, USA.

Charlie Wright lay on his stomach, gripping the Flyn's control stick. Two propellers whirled on either side of him. These were connected by bicycle chains to a lightweight petrol engine designed specially by the Wright brothers' mechanic friend Charlie Taylor: the engine had no throttle control, it was either 'on' or <sup>10</sup>W. Wilbur ran alongside as the Pigeon tumbled down a wooden launch rail, took off and flew close to the ground for 12 seconds. Three more flights occurred that day, the last being the longest at 39 seconds and 260m. Unfortunately, the Pigeon was damaged on landing and never flew again.

But this was only the beginning. News of the Wright brothers' incredible achievement spread, and soon other inventors were building on their ideas to create new ideas eventually patented airplanes. The first circumnavigation around the world was completed in four Douglas World Cruiser airplanes only 21 years later. By the 1930s, jet aircraft were roaring through the air. Today, we see aircraft in defined services: ferry cargo, carry out the saving-rescue operations, and explore and travel the world – miracles of flight all attributed to the Wright brothers.

WOOD, CANVAS AND STRING

The aircraft was only 10 years old and had hardly ever been used in combat when the First World War broke out in 1914. But over the course of the next five years, both sides realized just how useful these flying machines could be. Aircraft technology advanced rapidly as each side strove to gain air superiority.

Reconnaissance was first used for reconnaissance missions. Flying high over the battlefield, "spies" (or stencils) could look down and take photographs of enemy positions and trench systems, and help military hit their targets more accurately. The French Voisin of 1913 had a pilot and observer, and a rear-facing machine gun to fend off attackers.

Most aircraft were unarmed at the start of the war. Flies led to the first enemy planes with pistols, often in hand-held machine guns.

Most aircraft were unarmed at the start of the war. Pilots had to shoot at enemy planes with pistols, rifles or hand-held machine guns. By 1915, most aircraft had rear-firing machine guns for defence, but a fighter plane needs guns that fire forwards. Introduced in 1915, German pilotler J.H. Fokker had forward-firing guns designed around bullets between the propeller blades as they rotated.

As the war progressed, both sides developed aircraft that were more manoeuvrable, could fly and gun at altitude faster, and take more damage. As technology improved, combat aircraft could be put to more uses. As well as a fighter, the British Sigbee Camel was also used as a 'low-land' 'branch' similar to attacking targets on the ground with bombs and machine guns.

Aldabra Giant Tortoise

It was the tortoise from Aesop's famous fable The Hare and the Tortoise who gave us the phrase 'slow and steady wins the race' (it couldn't be true for this animal, especially when put into context). Tortoises have been gently plodding around the planet for 300 million years.

The genetic structure of the vine of the long-necked plantain, the Urtica dioica L., is a highly variable system, as has been shown by 100 microsatellite loci. This variability is due to the fact that the vine is a perennial plant, which can live for many years and produce many offspring. ### Pygmy Seahorse

As its name suggests, the pygmy warhorse is very tiny indeed, typically measuring just a centimetre or two in length.

The Barghini's puppy ambrosia has evolved to be so wonderfully well camouflaged that a woman's discovered and late 1900s. It was only spotted when a scientist who was studying a piece of coral found the tiny animal clinging to it to a branch. Today, there are now known species of puppy ambrosia, most of which live in the Coral Triangle of Southeast Asia. In 2008, the Myxosquilla japonica (also known as the "Japan pig") was discovered on the coast of Japan. More recently, in 2010, Myxosquilla nana, also known as the African puppy ambrosia, was discovered in South Africa.

Sperm Whale

The whale has been the stuff of myth and legend for as long as humans have ventured across the world's oceans. Looking at the sperm whale, it's easy to see why.

The sperm whale is, truly, awe-inspiring. It is one of the largest toothed predators in the world, measures around 35 meters in mass in height, and weighs around 40 tonnes now. There have been recorded as having much larger, but those great whales are very rare. The sperm whale has several unique adaptations that single it out from other whale species.

The articulation, which you may have referred to as noise, allows the whale to produce sounds, such as clicks and whistles, that travel through the water, unlike air, and are reflected back to the whale. It thus hears these reflected sounds and uses the information to locate the object the sound bounced off. Some animals use noise in the air rather than in water – bats, for example (see page 55). To produce its vocal sounds, the sperm whale has phonic lips in its nose. As air passes through the nasal passage and past the phonic lips, the narrowing forces vibrations, producing the loudest sounds of any animal.

The sperm whale's remarkable brain, which takes up about a third of its body, is almost entirely devoted to sound. Within it, there is a huge cortex containing an air-blast related movement. This, along with other complex brain fluid strawberries in the whale's body, works as both an amplifier and a reflector for the sounds the whale produces.

There are two fluid-filled structures beneath a whale's skin that produce sound waves that act as a reflector for the whale when it receives two objects or other animals. This strategy was formerly shown in the mid-19th century of the whaling ship Essex, which captured Humpback Whale, the second Moby-Dick.

In a long period of time, aquaculture, a highly beneficial substance, was used to feed larger. The harvesting of this fish led to the hunting of species which in large numbers, causing many populations to increase in real time when whole hunting was stopped in the late 1950s. Unfortunately, some reactions continue to engage in this position. What are the threatened by climate change and pollution, as well as becoming entangled in commercial fishing nets.

Bat-Eared Fox

The name explains it all: a fox with ears like a bat. But why has this extraordinary animal developed such unusual features?

Living in small, tightly knit social groups, these foxes make their home on the savannahs of eastern and southern Africa. This is a dry and hot landscape where food is limited and danger is ever-present. The fox's large ears are an adaptation shared by many other inhabitants of these kinds of environments, such as the fennec fox, showing how evolution works to find the most efficient 'solution' to the problem of survival (bearing in mind that nothing is ever 'finished' in evolution – it's a constant work in progress).

In the case of a fox, its specialized ears serve several purposes. Firstly, they give it an astonishing sense of hearing. Not only does this allow the fox to detect predators and keep itself safe, but it also helps it to be a predator itself. It consumes a wide range of prey, including metals, spiders and millipedes, and occasionally even small reptiles and mammals – all of which are elusive, fast and, more often than not, actually hidden, as in the fox or shelter underground. In such situations, the ability to hear your dinner before you see it makes it a lot easier to locate. Bat-eared foxes can often be seen walking slowly with their noses to the ground (their sense of smell is also extremely sensitive), their huge ears cocked forward, listening for the tiny scratch of an insect in its burrow. Once the fox has located its prey, it swiftly digs it up and seizes its target. Specialized teeth make it easy to crunch through the (often thick) armor of its insect lunch.

The ears also serve another vital function, one that's particularly important if you live in a hot environment and you're covered in fur: heat regulation. Like those of the elephant (see page 48), the fox's ears serve as radiators. Because of the fine capillary veins close to the surface of its ears, the fox can remain at a comfortable temperature by venting excess heat from its blood into the air.

Apart from its large ears, the bat-eared fox also has more teeth than other species of fox (between 46 and 50 teeth in total). In fact, these unique creatures have more teeth than most mammals. Bat-eared fox has three upper and four lower molars on each side of the mouth, while other members of the canid (or dog) family have two upper and three lower molars. These extra teeth mean that the fox is perfectly adapted to chewing creosote crawlies.

Although occasionally hunted, the bat-eared fox is one of the increasingly rare examples of an animal with a safe conservation status. It is helpful in keeping down the number of termites, which are considered pests. This means that the biggest commercial value for humans comes from keeping these foxes alive. Most threats to this fox come from the dangers its food sources might face, such as flooding from damming or the use of insecticides.

Street Style: Dr. Martens

The original pair of Dr. Martens' AirWair shoes were still a far cry from the instantly recognisable models the brand is known for today. The uppers were much more minimal in decoration and the soles were much wider with a very visible contrast thanks to a lighter coloured sole.

The first mass produced designs have more in common with a modern-day hybrid dress shoe than the sleek, utilitarian shapes of popular Dr. Martens styles, now set atop a semi-transparent lug sole. Perhaps the unintentionally fashion-forward aesthetic is one of the reasons why women gravitated towards them long before most conservatively-dressed men did. It's hard to imagine one trying to pull these off within the strict dress codes of the 1950s, when leather-soled, dark hard bottom footwear was still the norm for doing business. But looking back now, it set the perfect stage for what Dr. Martens would become: the ultimate anti-dress shoe.

The Birth of Bouncing Soles

Now that you've briefly had a glimpse at Dr. Martens' future, it's time to relive the past. How did a German town-based business so distinctively British? That story begins in 1901. A man named Benjamin Griggs and his business partner, Ephraim Jones began a company to manufacture boots in Wallaston, north Northamptonshire. By 1901, they had incorporated as R. Griggs & Co. Ltd., eventually becoming the R. Griggs Group.

In just a couple of decades, Wallaston had become one of England's shoemaking capitals. As early as 1881, one of its shoe factories was established as a workers' co-operative of local cobbler (incidentally 'The Cuffers'), and it was even today as the Northamptonshire Productive Society, still making shoes as 1920s, where it manufactures many well-known high-end footwear brands.

But the R. Griggs Group continued to flourish well into the 1950s under the leadership of Bill Griggs, who inherited the family business around that time. His fortune would grow even more when he decided to take a risk in 1959. Backing on the success of their fledgling footwear business, Dr. Klaus Martens and Dr. Robert Fark began soliciting advertisements for Dr. Martens' AirWair shoes in international magazines. Griggs saw the fit in this innovative air-cushioned sole by two German doctors and instantly recognised its potential. After all, having grown up in factories his whole life, he understood the need for sturdy, robust work boots, but also knew how uncomfortable they could be.

Ironically, the rest of his family disagreed with his foresight, seeing the air-cushioned sole as a gimmick, the kind of fluff in the past that would fade out over time while leather-soled boots would be around forever. But he treated his intuition and went ahead to meet with Dr. Martens and Dr. Fark, later developing a rapport with them and taking the exclusive licence for their AirWair-soled shoes in the United Kingdom.

ABOVE: The Griggs, longtime owner of the R. Griggs Group that went on to own all of Dr. Martens.

Mod Squad

One of the most prominent British music subcultures to arise in the 1960s and early 1960s was the Mod subculture – or 'Mod' for short. Musical taste was just one part of the complete lifestyle. Mods were dressed with clean-cut fashion pieces like polo shirts, suit jackets and military issue M-51 field jackets, especially ones embellished with the signature roundel of the Royal Air Force. It was a subculture focused on executing everything with intention – the hair you had, the clothes you wore, the music you listened to and the scooter you drove.

As avid fans of The Who, it's no surprise that Dr. Martens became an inimitable part of Mod's uniform. The sleek lines of the boots looked good with suits and usually complemented the minimalist style of the subculture and could also be worn on the Mod vehicle of choice: the Vespa scooter.

RIGHT: Two scooter-riding mods take a breather outside Haringey's Alexandra Road in 1965.

In contrast, the leather-soled subculture of Rockers who favoured leather motorcycle jackets, creepers, engineer boots and R&B as effeminate, and numerous physical altercations between the two groups led to a moral panic about the rise of sexually youth. Boys wore the Mods eventually won out as their way of dress slowly seeped into the British mainstream, leading to the swinging London phase of the 1960s. But as all trends go, as one fad falls out of fashion, another one is right behind it to take its place.

The Spring Behind Every Step

It's hard to believe that an orthopaedic shoe could be synonymous with rebellious style around the world. Yet that is what the Dr. Martens brand continues to represent to millions of its ardent fans.

It can be challenging to maintain one's cool factor over the decades, but by intentionally aligning itself with subcultural style, the nearly octogenarian footwear manufacturer hasn't lost a single step when it comes to cultivating an alternative type of timeless footwear. Considering the United Kingdom also has a rich history of fine Savile Row tailoring, Scottish wools and ruggedly elegant Harris Tweeds, fashion houses like Burberry and tastefully tough outerwear from brands like Barbour, Dr. Martens is singular in that canon of classic British style. Indeed, Dr. Martens is a staunch iconoclast, a bastion of anti-establishment ideals for people who prefer to dress against the grain.

But despite the modern connotation of what Dr. Martens has become, its roots are built on a comfortable foundation. Dr. Klaus Martens first conceived of the footwear's signature 'AirWair' sole while recuperating from a World War II foot injury.

Finding his standard-issue German Army boot severely uncomfortable for his ailing foot, he utilised soft leather for the upper and repurposed tyre rubbers to create an air-padded sole. The resulting shoe is equal parts built to last and equal parts built to live in. It's no wonder that punk rockers and hip-hop artists alike have graced thousands of stages in a pair of Dr. Martens over the years – it's a shoe made for those who live out loud. The story of how a purpose-driven product came to define one of today's most exciting lifestyle brands is one that spans a growing connection between clothing and culture. When you combine a timeless product with a chameleon-like ability to mean different things to different people, you get a shoe that is undeniably trend-proof.

Street Style: Nike

Visual history of the iconic street style brand.

- Illustrated with full colour photographs showcasing the brand's history.

- Written by sneaker connoisseur Gerald Flores. With over a decade of journalistic experience, Gerald is fascinated by the people, designers and stories behind sneakers. He has interviewed personalities including Kobe Bryant, Tinker Hatfield and Virgil Abloh.

Street Style: Nike

Nike's terms included $500,000 in cash for five years, an endorsement figure that was unprecedented in that era. The highest sneaker endorsement before 1984 was New Balance's deal with the Los Angeles Lakers' Larry Bird for $150,000 a year for eight years. Other perks offered to Jordan included stock options and a custom-built shoe for the basketball player.

There were some stipulations, however. Nike wrote a clause in the initial contract that required Jordan to accomplish one of three things - win NBA Rookie of the Year, to become an All-Star, or to average 20 points per game within his first three years. If Jordan didn't, Nike reserved the right to end the deal two years early.

By the time Jordan's first year in the NBA ended, he averaged 28 points per game after playing every game of the season. Not only did he win Rookie of the Year honors during the 1984-85 season, but the rising star became the darling of the League with his acrobatic style of play that made the name of his signature Nike shoe synonymous with Jordan.

Nike made over $500 million in revenue thanks to the sale of Air Jordans by the end of that first year - a new industry standard for how trends would market, design and storytelling through signature products was set.

Max Blackman's marketing campaign still made way for new icons to step in to advertise the Air Jordan 7. Bugs Bunny and the Looney Tunes. Among the number three Jordan, Bugs joined Jordan for a series of memorable commercials and print ads promoting the Air Jordan 7. One notable iteration of the shoe was a white-based colorway nicknamed 'Hare,' paying homage to Bugs' involvement.

The Air Jordan 7 gained even more mainstream exposure when Jordan showcased the 'Bugs Bunny' colorway in Michael Jackson's music video for 'Scream.' This collaboration between the two biggest cultural icons of their time further solidified the Air Jordan 7's place in sneaker and pop culture history.

Nike Air Max 180

The Nike Air Max 180 was a collaborative effort between two giants in the footwear design industry: Timberland and Bruce Kilgore. At the time of its creation in 1991, Timberland was renowned for his groundbreaking work on previous Air Max models, pushing the boundaries of sneaker design and technology. Meanwhile, Kilgore had achieved legendary status for his iconic creation, the Air Force 1. Together, they set out to make Air Max bigger and better than it had ever been.

The duo's goal for the shoe was to once again make Nike's patented Air technology larger and more visible than it had ever been. To achieve this, they based it on a horseshoe concept for the Air unit, which allowed for increased visibility along the sides and underfoot of the shoe. They utilized a time molding process to create a version of the bag that provided maximum visibility and impact absorption. Moreover, the Air 180 was the first shoe to feature a swoosh on the outside midsole.

directly to the Air unit, further enhancing its visibility and performance capabilities. The heightened visibility of the Air technology directly inspired the name Air 180.

During a period when Michael Jordan's endorsement could significantly impact any product, he was photographed wearing a pair of Nike Air 180s in the 'Concept' colorway for a photo shoot preceding the 1992 Olympics. This high-profile shoot provided the Air 180 model with exposure to a wider audience and bolstered its mainstream appeal.

While the Nike Air 180 didn't initially receive the same level of fanfare as its contemporaries, its significance and appreciation have grown considerably over the years. As time has passed, the Air 180 has emerged as a standout and essential release within the Nike Air Max series.

'Well, I don't love it,' Knight was heard saying upon the first review. 'But it will grow on me.'

The Swoosh definitely grew on Knight as the shape also bore a resemblance to the wings on the Greek goddess that Nike was named after. It would go on to become one of the most well-known logos in the world.

While Davidson was initially paid just $35 for her design, Knight saw her as one of the original minds behind the brand and wanted to acknowledge this. In 1983, the founder rewarded Davidson with 500 shares of Nike, as well as a golden ring.

with a Swoosh-shaped diamond, which is possibly the biggest remuneration for any logo design in history.

The marking is such a part of Nike culture that every new athlete that signs with the brand is tasked to draw their own version of the Swoosh. There have been different evolutions of the Swoosh and you can see the various iterations if you look through Nike's back-catalogue of products. Designer and Nike collaborator Virgil Abloh nodded to Davidson's original Swoosh design on the cover of his book Something's Off and the marking has been reversed on signature product for eccentric players, like Dennis Rodman's Air Darwin sneaker. But the essence of the Swoosh remains in its simplicity, its elegance and the way it represents movement.

Bulgari: The Story Behind the Style

Elizabeth Taylor

One of Bulgari's most famous clients in its La Dolce Vita era – and long afterwards – was Elizabeth Taylor. The American actress first discovered Bulgari when she was filming Cleopatra in 1962. Some of the film was shot on location in Italy, and it is said that when she had time between takes, or wished to escape the paparazzi, she would head to Via Condotti to try on Bulgari's masterpieces. When she did, she was allowed to enter through a secret side door that provided her with a private courtyard in which to park.

Taylor was a famous jewellery collector, and often negotiated pieces of jewellery as part of her film contracts. She even published a book about her obsession in 2002 titled Elizabeth Taylor: My Love Affair with Jewellery. Therefore, it was little wonder that downtime in Rome led her to Bulgari.

Taylor's portrayal of Cleopatra also helped to make a Bulgari icon truly iconic: the Serpenti watch. Although she didn't wear her watch during filming, she was photographed wearing it on set for a publicity still, and the snake-like design chimed perfectly with the Egyptian theme of the film. Her endorsement of the Serpenti watch transformed a quirky accessory created by a local Roman jeweller into a global icon.

Bulgari wasn't the only burgeoning love affair in Taylor's life at that time. She was also starting a romance with her Cleopatra co-star Richard Burton, who would become her movement made it another record breaker. The ultra-thin minute repeater movement – housed in a titanium case to amplify the sound of the chiming mechanism that is the hallmark of this complication – was 3.12mm thick.

The following year, Bulgari presented another ultra-thin watch. The Octo Finissimo Automatic was not complex in terms of watchmaking, but it set a new record for size as the thinnest automatic watch on the market at 5.15mm, with a movement just 2.23mm tall.

Bulgari's next attempt would break two records. In 2018, it presented the Octo Finissimo Tourbillon Automatic. It was the thinnest automatic watch at 3.95mm, and also the thinnest tourbillon in the world.

The obsession with record-breaking ultra-thin watchmaking rolled on. In 2019, the Octo Finissimo Chronograph GMT became the thinnest mechanical chronograph movement at 3.3mm, set in a 6.7mm titanium case. In 2020, the Octo Finissimo Tourbillon Chronograph Skeleton Automatic was named the thinnest tourbillon chronograph with a case depth of 3.3mm. And in 2021, the Octo Finissimo Perpetual Calendar became the thinnest perpetual calendar watch at 5mm thick.

In 2022, to mark the 10-year anniversary of the relaunch of the Octo line, Bulgari presented another impressive watch that smashed the others out of the park. The Octo Finissimo Ultra became the thinnest mechanical watch on the planet, with a case size of just 1.8mm.

New York

New York was the location of the brand's first international store since Serpenti's early expansion ended. The brand's products were already being sold in the US through an agent, but in 1972 it opened a boutique within the Pierre Hotel on the edge of Central Park.

In America, Bulgari positioned itself as luxury jewellery for women who wanted to have fun. It was tapping into the easy-going, carefree zeitgeist. In a campaign starring the American singer Cher, Bulgari described its jewels as "real, but not too serious". In that campaign, Cher was wearing a collection called Stars and Stripes that Bulgari had created to celebrate the Pierre boutique opening. The collection used coral, lapis lazuli, enamel and diamonds to create stars and stripes motifs in reference to the American flag.

Bulgari added pieces to the Stars and Stripes collection throughout the 1970s and into the early 1980s, but today it is a rare find on the secondary market, making it the holy grail for Bulgari collectors.

A special Stars and Stripes ring was made for former First Lady Nancy Reagan to wear at the anniversary celebration of the Statue of Liberty. The ring on the gold ring was encrusted with rubies, blue sapphires and diamonds. The ring came up for sale at Sotheby's in 2016 and fetched $119,000.

By the late 1980s, Bulgari had expanded in Pierre Hotel boutique and moved to a larger location at 730 Fifth

Bulgari's First Signature Design

Every great jewellery house needs a signature design, and for Bulgari its first was the Trombino ring, which was created in 1932. The design was a labour of love for Giorgio

Bulgari, quite literally: it started out as a sketch for a ring with which he hoped to propose to Leonilde Gulienetti. For someone as passionate about jewels as Giorgio, the ring had to be perfect.

His design was for a ring that would elevate the central stone above the band, creating a sense of volume. This prominent setting is what inspired the name Trombino, which translates from Italian as "little trumpet", as the profile does indeed look trumpet-like.

He worked purely in white diamonds, as was the fashion at the time. As well as a central stone, diamonds crowded the band, but rather than simply creating a blanket of stones in a pavé setting, Giorgio sought to add a little flair.

In addition to pavé diamonds, he added graduated baguette-cut diamonds that led away from the central stone, almost like a ladder. This placement of baguettes created an even more prominent stage for that elevated central diamond, drawing the eye to it.

Giorgio was delighted with his final design, and steered his nerves for the proposal. Leonilde must also have been pleased with it, as she agreed to marry him.

So striking was the ring that it soon caught the attention of Rome society, and Giorgio realised that what had started as a personal project had huge potential for his company. And so, he began to produce the Trombino for his clients, and the 1930s design remains popular to this day.

Tiffany & Co.: The Story Behind the Style

The King of Diamonds: Charles Lewis Tiffany

Charles Lewis Tiffany, the man who would go on to win the moniker of New York's 'King of Diamonds', did not lead from a long line of jewellers. His start in life was more modest, making his name in high society all the more glittering.

Tiffany was born in 1812 in Canton and Ohio. Tiffany, and grew up in the small town of Killbuck, Connecticut. The major business of the town was the production of cotton goods, and the family owned a manufacturing company. Tiffany was educated at local schools in the area before joining his father in the family cotton business.

By 1837, Tiffany felt restless. No longer satisfied by working at home with his family, he began to envision how he could make his own mark in business. He turned up with a school friend, J. R. Young, and the duo set in motion a plan to open a stationary store in New York City. With a $1,000 loan from Charles' father, the ambitious 25-year-old made the 150-mile journey north. The store, named Tiffany & Young, opened its doors at 259 Broadway that same year, and on its first day, $4.98 rang through the till.

Tiffany & Young soon began to expand its remit, stocking glassware, cutlery, porcelain, clocks and jewellery, and began to develop a

In 1853, Young and Tiffany decided to retire from the business, but Charles Lewis Tiffany was far from finished. He found new partners to work with, and the business was, at this point, renamed Tiffany & Company. Tiffany would go on to build his empire, grabbing headlines along the way. By the 1860s, the business was well established as an expert in choice for the rich and the famous, both for its jewellery and its top-quality silver. In 1862, President Abraham Lincoln purchased a set of pearl necklaces and earrings from Tiffany & Co. for his wife Mary Todd Lincoln, who wore them to her husband's inauguration ball.

In 1870, Tiffany & Co. moved into a large new store in New York's Union Square, marking the beginning of a major decade for the jeweller one in which Charles Lewis Tiffany would earn the title the King of Diamonds. It was a single purchase that would truly justify Tiffany's rise to high-jewellery stardom – a 237.42-carat rough fancy yellow diamond. When cut and polished, what emerged was a diamond of staggering enormous proportions for a rare yellow diamond of that quality. It weighed 128.54 carats and was named the Tiffany Diamond.

If the purchase of this new world famous stone, which is on permanent display at Tiffany & Co.'s Fifth Avenue store in New York, signalled Tiffany's intention to dominate the diamond market, his groundbreaking creation eight years later sealed the deal. Seeking to celebrate the beauty of diamonds, Tiffany designed an engagement ring in 1886 that remains a sought-after classic to this day. The Tiffany Setting engagement ring kicked back against the over-fussy designs of the time with a clean, minimalist band and a six-prong setting that lifted the diamond above the ring. The purpose for this innovative setting was to allow light to flow through the stone, and therefore maximise the sparkle. It was a huge hit, and the iconic design has become synonymous with engagement rings.

Just 15 years before his death, Tiffany pulled off a final coup. The aftermath of the French Revolution that had gifted Tiffany an abundance of important gems in 1848 and its early credibility in high-jewellery circles rumbled on. In 1887, the French government was masterminding a plan to sell the crown jewels of its fallen monarchy. Outwardly, it claimed that a democracy such as France had no need for "objects of luxury, devoid of usefulness and moral worth". The rumour mill suggested that it was in fact afraid of a power grab by Bourbons, Orleanists or Bonapartists, who might use ownership of the jewels to claim a right to rule. Tiffany cared little for this political posturing, but he did see an opportunity in it. He travelled to Paris to attend the auction of the French crown jewels at the Louvre. He sat in the audience, ready to make his bids, along with fellow jewellers, including a young Frédéric Boucheron, and Orleanists, members of the French royal family, whose pockets proved too shallow on the day to win back their family heirlooms.

When the final strike of the gavel fell, Charles Lewis Tiffany had in his possession close to a third of the historic crown jewels. He placed them in specially crafted red-leather boxes, embossed in gold with the words Diamants de la Couronne, translating from French as Crown Diamonds. Inside, impressed on the silk lining in the lid, was Tiffany & Co. New York and Paris, thus securing Tiffany & Co.'s place in the history books as a purveyor of royal jewels and his own coronation as the King of Diamonds.

Rolex: The Story Behind the Style

The World's Most Famous Watch Brand

Rolex has become shorthand for luxury. There is no watch you can strap on to your wrist that will be recognised for the status symbol it is quicker than a Rolex. And for many, this is the appeal.

Yet there was a time when the name Rolex – a word completely made up by the brand's founder Hans Wilsdorf – was not famous. It would take hard work, boundary pushing and a lot of self-belief on the part of Wilsdorf, a German orphan, to jettison the name into the upper echelons of horology; starting with convincing the pocket watch-wearing gentleman of the early 20th century that they wanted to wear the time on their wrist at all.

As you will discover, Rolex won its place in history by constantly questioning what was possible and innovating at all costs. It pioneered so many elements of watchmaking and design that are standard today, such as waterproof watches, placing a date window on the dial, and even removing the need to wind our watches.

It also found its way into some of the most exciting moments in history by placing Rolex watches on the wrists of adventurers and explorers. Its watches have travelled to the world's highest peaks and to the depths of the ocean; they have survived extremes of temperature, speed and pressure.

The story of Rolex is so much more than that of its watches. It is one of epic ambition and vision. What started out as a one-man band in London's Hatton Garden would become the epicentre of the Swiss watchmaking industry, and one of the most recognisable and coveted brands in the world.

Cartier: The Story Behind the Style

The Beginnings of Cartier

The house of Cartier started with one man, Louis-François Cartier, but it would take a family to make it one of the most recognised and respected jewellers in history.

It was, in fact, Louis-François' father, Pierre Cartier, who set the dynasty in motion, although he could never have imagined the consequences of his actions at the time. Pierre had fought in the Napoleonic wars and spent time locked in the prison ships docked off the harbour at Portsmouth in Britain. When the war ended in 1815, Pierre returned to Paris, destitute and aimless. He would go on to find employment as a watchmaker and have five children with his wife Elisabeth, a watchmaker.

The eldest of the children born into this working-class Parisian family was Louis-François, and when he was barely out of school, his father sent him to work as an apprentice in a jewellery workshop owned by Adolphe Picard on Rue Montorgueil in Paris. It was a tough education – days were long and grueling and order was maintained with a whip – but he stayed and in 1847, at the age of 27, Louis-François bought the business from Picard, renaming it Cartier.

OPPOSITE: Cartier founder, Louis-François Cartier.

His makers mark – a symbol hallmarked into every piece of Cartier jewellery to authenticate it – was his initials, L. C., separated with an arc of letters playing cool, perhaps to a nod to the financial gamble he was taking. Luckily, the risk paid off and the Cartier business thrived and expanded. In 1866, Princess Mathilde, a cousin of Emperor Napoleon III, purchased one of its jewels, and the Cartier name was suddenly whispered among Parisian high society, even reaching the international elite. Three years later, Louis-François bought Gillon, a Parisian jeweller better known than his own, and renamed his business Cartier Gillon.

Louis-François' son Alfred Cartier took over the family business in 1874, but it was the arrival of his own three sons – the highly ambitious Louis, Pierre and Jacques – that would really shake up the jeweller and initiate its ascendancy to the global brand we know today. The brotherly revolution started with Louis, who joined the maison in 1898. A year later he spearheaded the remaining of the business, stripping away Gillon to once again be known simply as Cartier. At the same time, the business opened a boutique at 13 rue de la Paix, just a stone's throw from Place Vendôme, the heartland of luxury jewellery in Paris. This venture was funded by an enormous dowry levied through a strategic arranged marriage to Antoinette Caroline Warth, granddaughter of world-famous composer Charles Frederick Worth.

Cartier garnered a reputation for innovation, and the title of jeweller would later live by a motto, 'Never copy, only create.' One of Louis' most successful experiments at the close of the 19th century was to use platinum in place of gold. This precious metal is now widely used by jewellers across the world, but at the time it was purely an industrial metal and thus revolutionary in the jewellery market. The white metal, which, unlike silver, does not tarnish, is highly malleable and allowed Cartier to create delicate, diamond-set jewels inspired by those owned by 18th-century French aristocrats, a stark contrast to the heavier, colorful, Romantic Art Nouveau jewels popular at the time. A signature Cartier Garsfield style emerged, swirling across platinum tiaras, necklaces and earrings, that won over well-heeled women, including royals, in Europe and the United States.

Pierre Cartier, the second eldest of the brothers, would be an agitator in his own right, championing the global expansion of the brand's retail empire. He started by opening a Cartier boutique on New Burlington Street in London in 1902, where the brand showcased a new style of geometric, abstract jewels with unusual colour combinations that would lay the foundations for the Art Deco jewellery movement.

The first decade of the 20th century was an important time for Cartier. In 1904, the jeweller received its first royal certificate from King Edward VII of Britain, and soon started to supply many other royal courts including those of Russia, Spain and Siam (now Thailand). In the same year, Louis Cartier created what he believed to be the first ever men's wristwatch for aviator Alberto Santos-Dumont.

Pierre, meanwhile, embarked on a journey to Russia; one that would prove profitable in commissions from its high society, but also as a source of inspiration that would shape Cartier's jewellery designs for years to come.

In 1909, Pierre would focus his wanderlust on America, opening a Cartier boutique on New York's Fifth Avenue; the precursor to its famous flagship store further up the street, the purchase of which he would famously broker a decade later in exchange for a string of pearls. Back in London, his younger brother Jacques stepped in to take over its British branch. That same year, Cartier moved uptown to a prestigious Bond Street address, where it remains to this day.

As Cartier's man in Britain, and, as such, jeweller to King George V, Jacques joined members of the aristocracy on a trip to India for the Delhi Durbar in 1911. It was an event to commemorate the coronation of the King, with two weeks of festivities, during which King George V and Queen Mary would be proclaimed Emperor and Empress of India. This adventure to a new land would also prove to be a seminal trip for the house of Cartier. Jacques' sociable nature and love of travel would win ground-breaking commissions from India's rich, jewel-loving maharajas and inspire a whole new category of jewellery, pioneered by Cartier and much copied by other companies.

Vivienne Westwood: The Story Behind the Style

Derbyshire Days

Vivienne Isabel Swire was born on April 8 1941 to Gordon and Dora Swire at the Partington Maternity Home, Glossop. The future fashion revolutionary had one sister, Olga Swire, born 1945, and one brother, Gordon Swire, born 1946. She grew up in the parish of Tintwistle, Derbyshire (which was formerly part of Cheshire until 1974), both during and after World War II, enjoying what has been recounted as a fairly idyllic childhood, living at the semi-constructed Millbrook Cottage and playing outside until late.

The young Swire clan were encouraged to be creative and make things more than they were encouraged to read. Vivienne knew from a young age that she was good at making things, notably models at school, and she especially enjoyed sewing classes. Her mother would often make them clothes, and worked as a weaver in a local cotton factory.

The young Vivienne – who remembers having a passion for sport from an early age – attended Hollingworth and Tintwistle Primary Schools from 1946 to 1952, at which point she passed the scholarship exam for Glossop Grammar School. She continued to be good at art during her time at Glossop Grammar, and considered attending art school.

Among Westwood's most formative fashion memories are the make-do-and-mend philosophy that came to define Britain in austerity, as well as the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II in 1953, when Vivienne was 12 years old. The influence of these two events can be seen throughout every era of her designs, and the make-do-and-mend philosophy is evident in the motto "Buy Less. Choose Well. Make it Last", which the brand still promotes to this day. She expertly blended the elements of customisation, tradition and austerity together to create her own unique brand, which is now contrasted by her husband Andreas Konevskis.

Malcolm McLaren

Westwood met Malcolm McLaren in 1965. An art student and a friend of her younger brother, Gordon, he would go on to become her creative collaborator for almost the next 20 years. Malcolm is an enigma with the punk movement as Vivienne, and their partnership is legendary. He was something of a maverick of marketing stunts and disruption, before such things became commonplace in contemporary fashion. The pair were in a relationship for a time but never seem to have married.

Malcolm was interested in politics and was fascinated by the French Situationists, a creative culture of writers and artists who wished to eradicate capitalism through acts of everyday life. He was a driving force in bringing politics, provocations, society and culture into Westwood's world. She found him to be charismatic and knowledgeable, but also full of contradictions.

In 1967, they had a son, Joseph Ferdinand Gervais, who would go on to follow in his parents' footsteps and enter the world of fashion. He founded the very successful lingerie company, Agent Provocateur.

It was in the early 1970s that McLaren and Westwood began to build their empire. Malcolm, by this point, had left art school and Vivienne was about to quit teaching. The plan had been to sell vintage records together, and there was talk of setting up a stall. But a retail opportunity – via a new friend – on King's Road was about to arise.

Tommy Roberts, of the legendary Mr Freedom fashion business, took over the lease of 438 King's Road in 1969. He and his business partner, the fashion entrepreneur Trevor Miller, were well-known for their eclectic and daring fashion eye which appealed to the glitzier of the 1960s. It was under Miller's control the shop was renamed Paradise Garage, the spot was already well-known for fashion.

Vivienne and Malcolm, who were regulars on King's Road, ended up leasing the back of 438 King's Road, before taking the whole thing over and rebranding it. It would be known over the coming years as Let It Be Rock, Too Fast To Live, Too Young To Die and Sex and Sublimation, all of which would encompass the raucous, confrontational and non-conformist nature of McLaren and Westwood. Eventually the shop would come to define the varied-but-defined style we know as punk today.

A Revolutionary is Born

There are few British designers, or brands, that have made quite as much of an impact on the fashion landscape as Vivienne Westwood. A fashion designer of both cult and commercial success (which is a rare combination), she was a punk and a pioneer, a rebel and a provocateur, an activist and a change-maker.

Over the course of a career that spanned half a century, Dame Vivienne Westwood would become synonymous with the British punk scene. Punk is what immediately springs to mind for most when her name is mentioned, along with the King's Road, corsets, platforms, tarran, crinolines, pirate boots, sustainability and climate change awareness. The list goes on. Her shows and interviews have become legendary – she is famous for using fashion as a platform to speak out on the issues she cared most about.

There is no doubt that Westwood's affinity for fashion history has helped her designs stand out. They are often historically informed, yet never to the point that they look odd. Where something shouldn't work, it always did, thanks to Vivienne's ability to balance the old with the modern – she was a genius when it came to style mashups. And the original Vivienne Westwood aesthetic rooted in a DIY approach never fully went away. Her designs feel intrinsically British and perfectly eccentric.

Westwood was the original multi-hyphenate and, in many ways, light years ahead of her time. She has inspired generations of designers that came after her, whether established and successful or aspiring and eager. Fashion critics even noted whiffs of her spirit at the London Fashion Week collections of autumn/winter 2023, which took place in February 2023, after her death. It's no wonder that her name is up there with the likes of Yves Saint Laurent, Christian Lacroix and the late great Karl Lagerfeld.

BUILDING BONDS

Transcendent hope: When hope is part of your daily being and personality. It's a general feeling of optimism and hopefulness about the future. For example, living by the following mantras: 'This too shall pass' and 'One day at a time'.

If you do not identify with any of these definitions of hope, ask yourself the following:

- Is there anyone in your life who you view as hopeful?
- What do you like about the way they express hope about things?
- Can you imagine yourself borrowing a bit of their hope for a while?

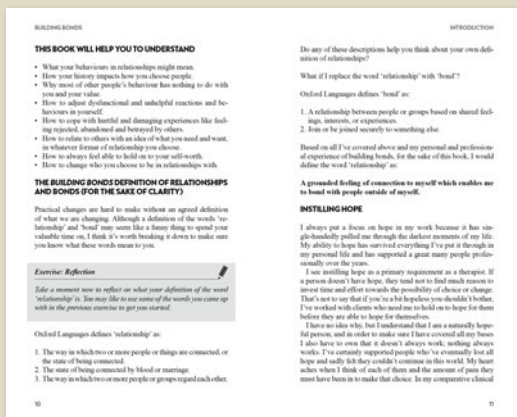

If life feels hopeless a lot of the time, it is a good idea to speak to a therapist or mental health professional. You will find ways of contacting mental health professionals on pages 225-226.

HOW TO USE THIS BOOK

This book is split into six chapters. Chapter One ('Self') looks at your relationship with yourself. Chapter Two is a short chapter which provides essential information about boundaries, wants and needs and attachment styles. Chapter Three focuses on Family Relationships, Chapter Four covers Friendships, Chapter Five looks at Romantic Relationships and dating, Chapter Six is all about Workplace Relationships and Chapter Seven explores On-line and Digital Relationships.

Each main chapter starts with a reflective statement for you to ponder, before providing an in-depth exploration of each type of relationship and several practical exercises. I've structured the information offered to reflect the developmental process of each relationship and the different choices that can be made along the way, and why.

For example: how it begins, what the journey of that relationship generally looks like throughout your lifespan, and the effect that your choices can have on you, both positive and negative. We will also focus on how to work with difficulties and differences which will include resolving conflict and how to communicate more effectively, as well as support to help you move on from relationships that no longer serve you, should you choose to.

The chapters and indeed the subtitled sections, stand alone in their own right so you can read them in any order and refer to them at any time. I do urge you to read the information in the order I have written it as the book builds on itself. However, if you do choose to read things out of order, I have cross-referenced as much as possible so you can read the connecting information.

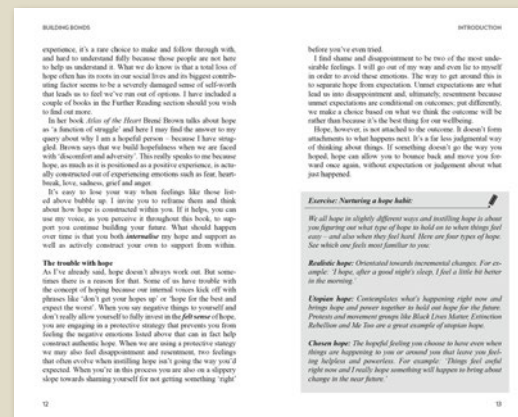

We are going to cover a lot of ground and it's likely that not everything will apply to you right now... At the very end of each chapter is a summary which includes the main messages we've covered. Reading this will help you condense the information so you can come back to it when you feel it is more relevant to you and your life.

It's to be expected, when you are reading about relationships, that you start to think of the people in your life who 'should' know, read, understand or reflect on the same messages. In my experience, it is impossible to get someone to read a book if they don't want to. BUT you might just be able to get them to take 60 seconds to read the summary and then, maybe you can share what you learned with them verbally. If they will not even read the summary in their own time, read it to them and see if it sparks any interest. If that's not realistic, do yourself a favour and let it go – focus on yourself.

At the back of the book, you'll find further reading lists and web links for each chapter, as well as guidance on contacting mental health professionals and support teams. On pages 228-232 you will also find a glossary of terms. If I have not defined a term within the main text of the book, the first use of each defined term will appear as bold italic text and be defined in the glossary. If you don't know what something means, please read the definition as it'll support your understanding of the content.

Before we get started I need you to know that...

In relationships, and pretty much all of life, there are two types

INTRODUCTION

Do any of these descriptions help you think about your own definition of relationships?

What if I replace the word 'relationship' with 'bond'?

Oxford Languages defines 'bond' as:

1. A relationship between people or groups based on shared faith, interests, or experiences.

2. Bond or be joined securely to something else.

Based on all I've covered above and my personal and professional experience of building bonds, for the sake of this book, I would define the word 'relationship' as:

A gradual feeling of connection to myself which enables me to bond with people outside of myself.

INSTILLING HOPE

I always put a focus on hope in my work because it has single-handedly pulled me through the darkest moments of my life. My ability to hope has sustained everything I've put it through in my personal life and has supported a great many people professionally over the years.

I see instilling hope as a primary requirement as a therapist. If a person doesn't have hope, they tend not to find much reason to move time and effort towards the possibility of change or change. That's not to say that if you're a bit hopeless you shouldn't bother. I've worked with clients who used me to hold on to hope for them before they are able to hope for themselves.

I have no idea who that I understand that I am a naturally hopeful person, and in order to make sure I have covered all my bases I also have to own that it doesn't always work, nothing always works. I've certainly supported people who've eventually lost all hope and sadly felt they couldn't continue in this world. My heart aches when I think of each of them and the amount of pain they must have been in to make that choice. In my comparative clinical experience, it's a rare choice to make and follow through with, and hard to understand fully because those people are not here to help us understand it. What we do know is that a total loss of hope often has its roots in our social lives and its biggest contributing factor seems to be a severely damaged sense of self-worth that leads us to feel we've run out of options. I have included a couple of books in the Further Reading section should you wish to find out more.

In her book Gifts of the Heart Brené Brown talks about hope as 'a function of struggle' and here I must find the answer to my query about why I am a hopeful person – because I have struggled. Brené says that we build resilience when we are faced with 'discomfort and adversity'. This really speaks to me because hope, as much as it is positioned as a positive experience, is actually connected out of experiencing emotions such as fear, heartbreak, loss, sadness, grief and anger.

It's easy to lose your way when feelings like these kind of above bubble up. I write you to reassure them and think about how hope is connected within you. If it helps, you can use my voice, as you peruse it throughout this book, to inspire you continue building your future. What should happen over time is that you both internalise my hope and support as well as actively connect your own to support from me.

The trouble with hope

As I've already said, hope doesn't always work out. But sometimes there is a reason for that. Some of us have trouble with the concept of hoping because our internal voices kick off with phrases like 'don't get your hopes up' or 'hope for the best and expect the worst'. When you see negative things in yourself and don't really allow yourself to fully invest in the felt sense of hope, you are engaging in a protective strategy that prevents you from feeling the negative emotions based above that can in fact help construct authentic hope. When we are using a protective strategy we may also feel disappointment and resentment, two feelings that often evolve when instilling hope isn't going the way you'd expected. When you're in this process you are also on a slippery slope towards shaming yourself for not getting something 'right' before you've even tried.

I find shame and disappointment to be two of the most undesirable feelings. I will go out of my way and even be to myself in order to avoid these emotions. The way to get around this is to separate hope from expectation. Unmet expectations are what lead us into disappointment and, ultimately, resentment because unmet expectations are conditional on outcomes, put differently, we make a choice based on what we think the outcome will be rather than because it's the best thing for our wellbeing.

Hope, however, is not attached to the outcome. It doesn't form attachments to what happens next. It's a far less judgemental way of thinking about things. If something doesn't go the way you hoped, hope can allow you to bounce back and move you forward once again, without expectation or judgement about what just happened.

Exercise: Narrowing a hope habit

We all hope in slightly different ways and instilling hope is about you figuring out what type of hope to hold on to when things feel away – and also when they feel hard. Here are four types of hope. See which one feels most familiar to you.

Realistic hope: Oriented towards incremental changes. For example: 'I hope, after a good night's sleep, I feel a little bit better in the morning.'

Uplifting hope: Contemplates what's happening right now and brings hope and power together to hold on hope for the future. Positive and movement groups like Black Lives Matter, Extinction Rebellion and Me Too are a great example of uplifting hope.

Chosen hope: The hopeful feeling you choose to have even when things are happening to you or around you that leave you feeling helpless and powerless. For example: 'Things felt awful right now and I really hope something will happen to bring about change in the near future.'

ETERNITY ISLE BIOMES

Eternity Isle is a truly fascinating place, full of ancient wonders. It's home to three additional biomes, with twelve distinct regions, but these require Mist to unlock, rather than Dreamlight. Here's what you can expect to find in each region.

ANCIENTS' LANDING

Upon arrival at Eternity Isle, you'll find yourself in Ancient's Landing – a mysterious set of ruins that appear to be very old indeed. The Docks show evidence of market activity, and are a great spot for fishing. The Marketplace is a small, enclosed area with a narrow passage to a tiny beach complete with Treadwater Table. The Overlook boasts fantastic views of the ocean, with some ancient ruins of its in the distance – perhaps the area was once used as a lookout post. The Ruins are all that remains of an ancient castle. Largely unused by nature, there's a small courtyard and a staircase leading to a balcony with a magnificent view of the surrounding landscape.

GLITTERING DUNES

The vast Glittering Dunes are a vast area of desert with little in the way of plant life and evidence of ancient civilisation. The Ruins is a wide expanse of flat ground with the remains of some ancient sandstone archways and steps. The Bunkers are at the end of a hill leading up to the Palace, and are left across two levels. The Villages show signs of previous habitation – there's a dispensary partially buried in the sand, and it's home to the Chief of Villagers, too. The Oasis is a rare, lush area within the desert landscape – it's covered in grass and flowers.

WILD TANGLE

The Wild Tangle is the most remote of the Glittering Dunes. Within the Dunes are barren and arid, the Wild Tangle is lush, verdant and teeming with all sorts of life. The Greenhouse is the area of the island, with a river running through the center. The Promenade is a small, enclosed area with a narrow passage to a tiny beach complete with Treadwater Table. The Overlook boasts fantastic views of the ocean, with some ancient ruins of its in the distance – perhaps the area was once used as a lookout post. The Ruins are all that remains of an ancient castle. Largely unused by nature, there's a small courtyard and a staircase leading to a balcony with a magnificent view of the surrounding landscape.

MERMAID BEACH

True to its name, Mermaid Beach is a beautiful stretch of beach that helps her to feel at home on land as she does in the ocean.

A princess like Ariel deserves a stretch of beach that helps her to feel at home on land as she does in the ocean.

Mulan inspired some of the plants, flowers and trees in this beautiful Mermaid Beach. You'll find plenty of places in the Little Mermaid biome, including the Enchanted Forest, the Sea Witch's Cauldron and the Enchanted Forest. Remember to check the Mermaid collection, too – it includes everything from Bubblymermaid Pearls, Coral, Shells and Bubble Puffs and more. You can build up the beach with grass and flowers, too – you'll be able to see how your beach works well. Finish off with a sprinkling of items, outfits, options and stat.

THE BASICS

Before you begin your adventure, it's a good idea to familiarise yourself with how Dreamlight Valley works – there are lots of ways to play, get creative and share the fun with friends.

HOW TO PLAY

You can play Dreamlight Valley on PC, Mac, Xbox, Nintendo Switch and PlayStation. You can also play the Arcade Edition on Apple Arcade.

Dreamlight Valley lets you choose what kind of adventure you want to have each day. You might want to focus on completing quests to level up your friendships, or you may prefer to get creative and focus on designing your Valley and decorating your house.

Friendship is important in Dreamlight Valley, so naturally there's a Multiplayer option. You'll be able to invite your friends to visit your valley – and visit theirs – once you've completed Vanellope von Schweetz's quest, Valley Visits.

And there's more – a paid expansion pack called A Rift in Time is available, opening up a whole new island of exotic biomes, rare plants and materials and even some new friends.

THE ARTS: LITERATURE

The first book that combined words and pictures, and was read by children, was Jack and the Beanstalk in the 15th century.

Samuel Pepys was an inhabitant of London in the 17th century who became famous for the diary he wrote between 1660 and 1669. His personal accounts of the Great Fire of London and the Plague helped historians understand the events of the period.

Beatrix Potter first wrote an illustrated story about 'Two Rabbits' to cheer up a friend's child while he was recovering from a bout of scarlet fever. She went from writing letters to him for many years until she published The Tale of Peter Rabbit.

The fastest-selling book in history is Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows, which was the last book in the series. It sold over 8.1 million copies on its first day and went on to sell more than 500 times that amount across the world, in over 60 languages.

Queen Blake, best known for being the illustrator on the books of Charlie and the Chocolate Factory, has been the artist on over 100 different books. More recently her illustrated books for David Walliams, such as Mr. Stink, have been a massive success.

THE ARTS: LITERATURE

The album of J.M. Barrie's Peter Pan wasn't even written by Captain Jack. It was meant to be Peter Pan himself! It started as a play before it was turned into a novel, but the stage crew needed more time to change sets, so a pirate scene was added in between scenes and that became the final act.

Aladdin is One Thousand and One Nights wasn't actually from the Middle East. The story began with the words 'Aladdin was a little Chinese boy, although the collection of stories does have lots of influences from the Middle East.

The story Harry Potter came from a piece of office equipment! J.K. Rowling was playing around with a hole punch and a stack of paper when she had the idea for the story about the wizard with a big appetite.

A.A. Milne, the author of Winnie the Pooh, was taught by another famous author named E.B. White, who wrote The Wind in the Willows. However, at that time White wasn't a published author and was having a really hard time.

The monster in Frankenstein has no name - the doctor who made the monster is called Frankenstein! However, there is a part where Mary Shelley has the monster refer to himself as 'Adam' when speaking to the doctor.

The only book printed in Latin to make the New York Times Best Seller list is Winnie the Pooh. The book was completely rewritten into the dead language and released as Winnie de Po.

HISTORY: THE PREHISTORIC AGE

Prehistoric, the prehistoric, isn't technically prehistoric - it's just the word for 'before history'. The Mesozoic Era, the time between the dinosaurs and the present, was the time when the dinosaurs lived. It was the time when the dinosaurs lived, but 'prehistoric' isn't a word.

The Parthenon was a heathen temple that had a big big roof on top of its head filled with statues. Scientists think that it was these statues that really had to be removed to create the Parthenon as it was.

The spiky plates on the back of a Stegosaurus are still a mystery to scientists today. They could measure up to 50 centimetres, but nobody is sure what they did - some think they were used to cool the Stegosaurus down, while others think they were used to scare away predators.

The biggest difference between the size of a dinosaur and the size of its brain is that the size of its brain is tiny. These dinosaurs were the size of a car, but their brains were the size of a pea.

The Euphrates is the earliest known river that we know of. It was found in the Tigris-Euphrates region, which was the birthplace of the first civilisation. It was the first river that we know of.

By the time 'prehistoric' was born as the 'pre-historic' - was the first time the word 'prehistoric' was used. It was the first time the word 'prehistoric' was used.

The oldest dinosaur discovered is the Archaeopteryx, which was found in the Tigris-Euphrates region. It was the first time the word 'prehistoric' was used.

The oldest dinosaur discovered is the Archaeopteryx, which was found in the Tigris-Euphrates region. It was the first time the word 'prehistoric' was used.

SCIENCE: SPACE

The lower gravity on the Moon has a surprising effect on astronauts. When they're on the surface, the lack of gravity makes them feel like they're floating. It's a bit like being in a zero-gravity environment.

The temperature of the first man on the Moon was still there today. There's no atmosphere on the Moon, so the temperature is still the same. It's a bit like being in a zero-gravity environment.

A mechanical phenomenon known as 'tidal locking' occurs in space when two objects orbit each other. It's a bit like being in a zero-gravity environment.

From Earth, we can see 11 different galaxies, as well as our own Milky Way. The closest one is Andromeda, but we can also see the Triangulum, Centaurus, and the Sagittarius Dwarf Spheroidal Galaxies, as well as both Magellanic Clouds.

You might be able to see a good spot in space in the night sky. It's a good spot in the night sky. It's a good spot in the night sky.

The largest object that humans have sent to space is the International Space Station. It's 109 metres long and weighs around 420 tonnes. It's a good spot in the night sky.

The estimated size of the Milky Way galaxy is 100,000 light years. It's a good spot in the night sky. It's a good spot in the night sky.

The same side of the Moon is always facing Earth. We never see the 'back' of the Moon because the Moon is tidally locked to Earth. It's a good spot in the night sky.

NATURE: ANIMALS

Most fish have some sort of skeleton, but a shark doesn't have any bones at all. Its whole skeleton is made of cartilage. This means sharks are very flexible and can twist themselves quickly to catch speedy prey.

Flying squirrels have flaps of skin that stretch from their front to rear paws. A flying squirrel can jump from a tall tree, then spread its legs wide to create air resistance as it falls. This force slows the squirrel down so that it glides instead of falling.

Some animals can walk on water! Lizards called basilisks can run for about 4.6 metres before sinking underwater. Birds called western grebes also run on water during take-off. A combination of speed, webbed feet, and surface tension makes this feat possible.

An animal called the pistol shrimp has a built-in blaster. This little critter has one huge claw that it can snap with incredible force. The snap makes a blast of sound and heat strong enough to stun other animals. Syndrome from The Incredibles would be proud!

There are very few native land mammals in the Pacific Islands. In Fiji, the only native land mammals are bats. But what about Pua and Heihei from Moana? Pigs and chickens were brought to the Pacific Islands thousands of years ago.

NATURE: ANIMALS

Some types of flea can jump up to 200 times the length of their body! They have a powerful springy protein that they squeeze when their legs fold, ready to jump. When they stop squeezing it, the protein creates explosive energy that makes the legs spring forward powerfully.

As well as reaching speeds of up to 96 km/h, the hummingbird is known for another fast feat. The tiniest species can flap their wings at a rate of 80 beats a second, or 4,800 times in one minute. And that's not all - their hearts can beat 1,200 times per minute too.

You might think that flamingos are pink, but those feathers are actually dyed. They eat a diet of blue-green algae and brine shrimp that contains a dye called carotenanthin, which gives their feathers their pink colour.

Many animals have natural armour. The pangolin, for instance, is covered with hard, overlapping scales, while crocodiles are covered with bony knobs. Crabs and many other creatures have exoskeletons - where they wear their skeletons on the outside to protect the soft organs inside.

Lots of animals live in the harsh tundras of Earth. These include owls, foxes, wolves and reindeer. Foxes and reindeer have thick fur that protects them from the cold. Arctic wolves have fur on their paws that give them a better grip on the icy ground. Some animals, like huskies, even help people get around! These dogs are very strong and can pull sleds for a long time.

What do you think the world's deadliest animal is? The surprising answer is the mosquito. This annoying insect kills over 700,000 people a year by spreading diseases, such as malaria and yellow fever, when they bite.
