Alice's Adventures in Wonderland

other question, it didn't matter which way she put it. She felt that she was doing off, and had just begun to dream that she was walking hand in hand with Dinah, and saying to her very calmly, 'Now, Dinah, tell me the result of your visit to a hat' when suddenly, though she thought she came upon a heap of sticks and dry leaves, and the fall was so moist, long, and soft, that she looked up to see a large, old, white rabbit, with eyes like blue glass, and she saw the white rabbit was off in a flash, leaving her behind. There was no time to be lost, for she was off in a flash, leaving her behind. There was no time to be lost, for she was off in a flash, leaving her behind.

happened fairly, that Alice had begun to think that very few things would ever really happen. This seemed to be no use in waiting for the little door, so she went back to the table, half hoping she might find another key on it, or at any rate a book of rules for showing people up like shopkeepers. This time she found a little bottle on it, which naturally was not her bottle. 'I'm sorry,' said Alice, and she took the neck of the bottle, and the words 'DRINK ME' were written on it.

the first door into that lovely garden. First, however, she waited for a few minutes to see if she was going to think any further, she felt a little nervous about this 'to be might not, you know,' said Alice to herself, 'in her going out altogether, like a candle. I wonder who I should be like this?' And she tried to fancy what the flame of a candle is like after the candle is blown out, for she could not remember ever having seen such a thing.

more than nine feet high, and she at once took up the little golden key and hurried off to the garden door.

Pool Alice! It was as much as she could do, lying down on one side, to look through into the garden with one eye; but to get through was more hopeless than ever: she sat down and began to cry again.

'You ought to be ashamed of yourself,' said Alice, 'a great girl like you, (she might well say this), to go on crying in this way! Stop this moment, I tell you!' But she went on all the same, shedding gallons of tears, until there was a large pool all round her, about four inches deep and reaching half down the hall.

After a time she heard a little pattering of feet in the distance, and she hastily dried her eyes to see what was coming. It was the White Rabbit returning, splendidly dressed, with a pair of white kid gloves in one hand and a large fan in the other: he came trotting along in a great hurry, muttering to himself as he came, 'Oh! the Duchess, the Duchess! Oh! won't she be savage if I've kept her waiting!' Alice felt so desperate that she was ready to ask help of any one; so, when the Rabbit came near her, she began, in a low, timid voice, 'If you please, sir—' The Rabbit started violently, dropped the white kid gloves and the fan, and skurried away into the darkness as hard as he could go.

Alice took up the fan and gloves, and, as the hall was very hot, she kept fanning herself all the time she went on talking: 'Dear, dear! How queer everything is to-day! And yesterday things went on just as usual. I wonder if I've been changed in the night? Let me think: was I the same when I got up this morning? I almost think I can remember feeling a little different. But if I'm not the same, the next question is, Who in the world am I? Ah, that's the great puzzle!' And she began thinking over all the children she knew that were of the same age as herself, to see if she could have changed for any of them.

'I'm sure I'm not Ada,' she said, 'for her hair goes in such long ringlets, and mine doesn't go in ringlets at all; and I'm sure I can't be Mabel, for I know all sorts of things, and she, oh! she knows such a very little! Besides, she's she, and I'm I, and—oh dear, how puzzling it all is! I'll try if I know all the things I used to know. Let me see: four times five is twelve, and four times six is thirteen, and

In the Swamp by the Light of the Moon

But all by himself his voice was so quiet so he croaked and he let out a sigh,
"Hopping alone is not much fun,
what a lonely wee froggy am I."

So he hopped and he jumped over lily-pod leaves and into the blue of the night, to find someone else to join his song to make it sound just right.

He found a friendly crocodile,
who was drumming and humming in time.
"My friend," he called, "will you sing with me?
Will you add your song to mine?"

So the crocodile hummed
and beat his drum,
while the little frog sang his tune.

But something was wrong
as they both sang along in the swamp
by the light of the moon.

Made for Each Other

Aldabra Giant Tortoises & Seychelles Magpie Robins

Founded in the tropical Indian Ocean, the Aldabra Giant Tortoises are a collection of 15 species that have survived on the remote island of Aldabra. They are the largest tortoises in the world, with some individuals reaching a weight of 250kg and a length of 1.5m. The Seychelles Magpie Robin is a small, black and white bird that is found only on the island of Aldabra. It is a member of the Cuckoo family and is known for its unique call, which is a series of three notes: 'chee, chee, chee'.

Marine Iguanas & Sally Lightfoot Crabs

Borned by volcanic activity, marine iguanas are the only lizards that live in the ocean. They are found on the island of Santa Cruz in the Galapagos. Sally Lightfoot Crabs are small, colorful crabs that are found on the rocky shores of the Galapagos. They are known for their ability to swim and are often seen on the rocks and in the water. The marine iguanas and Sally Lightfoot Crabs are both adapted to their unique environment and are found only in the Galapagos Islands.

Capuchin Monkeys & Balsa Tree Flowers

White-headed capuchin monkeys are a species of monkey found in the rainforests of Central and South America. They are known for their intelligence and are often seen in the trees and on the ground. Balsa tree flowers are a type of flower that is found in the rainforests of Central and South America. They are known for their bright colors and are often seen in the trees and on the ground. The capuchin monkeys and Balsa tree flowers are both adapted to their unique environment and are found only in the rainforests of Central and South America.

Ruby-throated Hummingbirds & Cardinal Flowers

A glimmer of ruby red streaks across the sky, gone in a flash. Reaching speeds of up to 64 kilometres per hour, the ruby-throated hummingbird (Archilochus colubris) moves so quickly it appears as little more than a blur of wings to the human eye. Although it is one of the smallest birds on Earth, it takes a huge amount of energy to keep the hummingbird moving at such pace – and this tiny creature needs to consume almost double its body weight in food each day.

The cardinal flower (Lobelia cardinalis) is a favourite source of nectar for the ruby-throated hummingbird. The flower's vibrant red colouring is not only attractive to this little bird, but their deep tubular shape is also perfectly suited for long, slightly curved beaks. Like two pieces of a jigsaw puzzle, the ruby-throated hummingbird and the cardinal flower are an exact fit. In fact, cardinal flowers are so well-adapted to suit the feeding habits of ruby-throated hummingbirds, they don't even offer a platform for animals to rest on whilst they feed. The hummingbirds don't need one – they can hover in the air. Their wings beat at unimaginable speeds of 40 to 80 times per second, producing their distinctive 'hum'. In return for food, the hummingbirds pollinate the cardinal flowers. Because of the symbiotic adaption of these flowers, the ruby-throated hummingbird and the cardinal flower have become almost entirely dependent on each other for survival.

SUMERIAN Votive FIGURES

Small clay figurines were made in Sumeria for religious purposes. They were often found in large numbers in the ruins of ancient cities. Some were made of a soft clay called 'terracotta' and some were made of a harder clay called 'stone'.

Most figures are of a female figure, but some are of a male figure.

PERSIAN frieze

The Ancient Persian Empire was ruled by the Achaemenid dynasty from 6th to 4th century BCE. At its height, the empire stretched as far as modern-day Egypt and the Balkans to the west, and the Indian Valley in the east. Persian art was strongly influenced by the Mesopotamian culture, as can be seen in the illustration below. The Persian King Darius I built an enormous palace in Susa, his favourite city. He decorated it with sophisticated mosaics made of glazed bricks in beautiful blues, greens and golds.

A World of Dinosaurs

Explore a world of dinosaurs in this fact-packed compendium, illustrated by Vicky Woodgate.

- Sample contents: NORTH AMERICA - Tyrannosaurus; Brachiosaurus; SOUTH AMERICA - Herrerasaurus; Gigantosaurus; AFRICA - Spinosaurus; Anglosaurus; ASIA - Velociraptor; Protoceratops; EUROPE - Iguanodon; Plesiosaurus; OCEANIA & ANTARCTICA - Minmi; Kronosaurus
- Features more than 60 species from across the world
- Informative and surprising text from palaeontologist and Dinosaurium consultant Jon Tennant
- Vibrantly illustrated by Urban Jungle and A World of Birds creator Vicky Woodgate

A World of Dinosaurs

The Age of Dinosaurs

The first dinosaurs appeared around 230 million years ago. They lived over three major periods in the history of Earth: the Triassic, Jurassic and Cretaceous periods. Together, these form the Mesozoic era, often referred to as the Age of Dinosaurs.

The Triassic
At the beginning of the Triassic, there was the super supercontinent 'Pangea'. Global temperatures were high and the sea levels were high. The dinosaurs were small and the world was very hot.

The Jurassic
The continents continued to move away from each other. Temperatures dropped and the sea levels became more stable and shallow. Dinosaurs grew bigger and bigger.

The Cretaceous
The continents began to look more like their current shape. By now, dinosaurs lived right across the globe - even at the north and south poles. They grew bigger and bigger.

What is a dinosaur?
Dinosaurs were not dinosaurs before them, and in their earliest days, a number of primitive mammals like all-weather like groups existed, as well as more advanced like apes.

Extinction
By the end of the Mesozoic, the dinosaurs had disappeared. The fossil record shows that dinosaurs were once abundant, but they were wiped out. Around three-quarters of all plants and animals went extinct.

Radiot or evolved?
While many of the dinosaurs went extinct, some survived the event. They were a group of dinosaurs - the birds. Able to adapt to the changing environments, they are still around today.

Dinosaur timeline

230 million years ago: Pangea
200 million years ago: Triassic
145 million years ago: Jurassic
65 million years ago: Cretaceous

Dinosaurs Today

Most dinosaurs that we have found disappeared from our planet long ago. However, some dinosaurs are still around today. They are birds. The birds that we see today are the only dinosaurs left. They are the only dinosaurs that we see today.

What is a fossil?
The process of fossilisation takes many thousands of years to complete. It is a gradual process where the parts of an organism are slowly replaced with hard minerals, which are harder than the original tissue. Dinosaurs that are fossilised are called palaeontologists.

Fossil hunters
Fossil hunters have also discovered fossilised tracks, but not many. Tracks are usually attached to rocks - and are called tracks. Palaeontologists use a range of methods to find tracks, including using a range of tools like a shovel and a brush.

Trace fossils
The only fossils are the preserved remains of a dead body. Sometimes, we can find and find evidence of what a dinosaur was doing while it was alive. These are called trace fossils, and are useful evidence of dinosaur behaviour. These fossils include egg, footprints and other things like tracks.

North America

Towards the end of the Cretaceous, the supercontinent Pangea began to break up, and the Atlantic Ocean separated North America from Africa and Europe. At this time, North America had a humid, temperate climate, with many different habitats. Later on, during the Cretaceous period, a shallow inland sea covered much of the middle of North America. The birds were the only type of dinosaur found on either side of the water.

Key

- Triceratops
- Stegosaurus
- Ankylosaurus
- Allosaurus
- Tyrannosaurus rex
- Dinosaurian footprint

Tyrannosaurus rex

Group: Theropod • Period: Cretaceous
Pronunciation: Tie-ran-oh-saw-rus-eks

Tyrannosaurus rex was perhaps the largest carnivore ever to walk the Earth. It had one of the most powerful bites of any animal, with teeth like steak knives for tearing through flesh and crushing bone. Its name, meaning 'tyrant lizard king', reflects its spot at the top of the food chain in the Cretaceous period.

A large olfactory bulb (the part of the brain that processes smell) suggests T.rex may have been a scavenger as well as a hunter.

Huge head

Eyes as big as grapefruits

Teeth as long and thick as bananas

T.rex could bite with a force of about 3,500kg - 6 times stronger than a crocodile's bite.

Tiny strong arms with two claws

Stiff tail to counterbalance heavy head

Powerful hind legs for sprinting

Up to 3.6m

Salwater crocodile

Allosaurus fragilis

Group: Theropod • Period: Jurassic
Pronunciation: Al-oh-saw-rus fra-jil-is Often termed the 'wolf of the Jurassic', Allosaurus was among the top predators of its time. Packs of these fearsome hunters would chase after their prey, slowly draining their target of energy before diving in for the kill. Discovered in 1877, Allosaurus was one of the first dinosaur fossils discovered in North America.

Allosaurus could probably open its jaws very wide, to around 70-90 degrees.

Allosaurus probably used its sharp teeth in a 'hooking and slashing' motion, to inflict dozens of smaller wounds on larger prey.

Crest may have made it look more intimidating

More than 70 sharp teeth

Fairly long arms, possibly for grabbing prey

Powerful legs for running

Up to 2.6m

Stegosaurus

Allosaurus

Allosaurus specialised in attacking mid-sized prey such as Stegosaurus.

Tell Me About: The Human Body

Brilliant Body

So many amazing things are happening in your body right now! Let's take a look at just a few of them...

As you breathe, spongy bags called lungs are sucking air in and putting it into your blood.

When you run, stretchy cords called muscles pull bones back and forward. Your bones connect together in a structure called a skeleton. And your skin wraps everything up.

Tiny electrical signals are making your heart beat - to-beat-to-beat - to pump blood around your body.

Your body is made from lots of different parts that work together to do important jobs. These parts are called organs.

If you look at the pictures in this book, you're using organs called eyes. And when you think about all of this, you use an organ called the brain.

When you think or laugh or wiggle your toes, you use energy. The energy comes from the food you eat. The food goes into your blood and all around your body.

The Skin

Let's begin our body tour with your skin. This stretchy waterproof layer wraps around your body keeping germs out and keeping your insides... inside!

Your skin is full of sensors that help you to touch and feel things. You can feel pain and warmth and the tiny footpads of an insect crawling on your arm.

Did you know...? The skin is the biggest organ in the body!

Touch sensors help you to feel how hard to press when you lift it and hold objects - so you don't drop or squash them.

The top layer of your skin is dead! Underneath it, new skin is being made. It pushes the old skin upwards until it flakes off as dust. Yes, your skin becomes dust!

Your hair and nails are made from the same stuff as skin. It's called keratin.

Your skin cools your body too. One way it does this is by making little drops of liquid called sweat.

When sweat drops are warmed by a hot body, they float off into the air taking heat away with them!

Skeleton

The thing that gives your body its wonderful shape and height is a skeleton. It is made from 206 bones that join together at hinges called joints.

Full your fingers! The bones are the hard parts, and the joints are where your fingers bend.

Strong bony bones called cartilage make up some parts of the skeleton including your ears, your nose and sections of your ribs.

The skeleton protects your insides too. Your ribs make a cage around your lungs and heart and your skull is like a helmet, protecting your brain.

Inside your biggest bones is a juice called marrow. New blood is being made in the marrow. That's right, your bones can make blood!

Bones are full of tiny holes that make them light. But the pattern of the holes makes them really strong too.

Short stretchy cords called ligaments stick the bones to each other. Longer, stretchy cords called muscles pull the bones around so you can move.

Muscles

Muscles are stretchy cords that pull body parts to make them move. If you wiggle your eyebrows and stick out your tongue, you did it using muscles!

Muscles can pull, but they can't push so they need to work in teams. One muscle pulls a body part one way, and another muscle pulls it back again.

1. Bend your arm. The set of muscles at the front of your arm, called triceps, pulled it up by getting shorter.

2. Now straighten your arm. Another set of muscles at the back of your arm, called biceps, pulled your arm down to straighten it.

The muscles that move your bones around are called skeletal muscles. But they're not the only muscles you have!

Cardiac muscles make your heart squash to pump blood.

Smooth muscles line the tubes in your body. They help push things through the tubes.

Did you know...? Muscles help you hold in pee until you're ready to let it go.

Tell Me About: Planet Earth

Earth is Home

You live on a brilliant ball of spinning rock called Earth. It's a planet, travelling through space on a gigantic loop around a star called the Sun.

There's another ball of rock about a quarter of the size of Earth and you can see it in the night sky. It's called the Moon.

It takes a month for the Moon to travel around Earth on an oval path.

It takes a whole year to travel all the way around the Sun. So if you are five years old, you have circled the Sun five times already!

Earth travels around the Sun on an oval path but it also spins on the spot. The spin is why it gets dark at night.

Your home turns away from the Sun at night and by morning it has turned back towards the Sun once again. It takes 24 hours for a complete spin to happen, and we call that a whole day.

Caves

Caves are big holes carved into cliffs by waves hitting the rock. But they can also form underground as rain trickles through cracks in the rock.

That's right, tiny little rain droplets can make massive caves because they dissolve the rock away a little bit at a time.

Underground rivers flow through caves. They wear the floor of the cave down to make them even bigger.

Inside the cave, some droplets of rainwater evaporate. As the liquid water drops turn into gas, they leave behind the tiny bits of rock they were carrying. The bits of rock stick to the roof.

In a thousand years, all the drops of water will have left enough rock behind to make a shape about as long as your finger. This is called a stalactite.

The same thing happens as the water drops onto the floor of the cave too. The cave floor grows upwards into a wider opening, which is called a stalagmite.

Digging and Drilling

When humans dig useful rocks and metals out of the ground, it is called mining. People also drill long holes deep down into the rock to find little pockets of gas and a liquid called oil.

The oil and gas found deep underground were once tiny sea creatures. They sank to the bottom of the sea and got squashed over millions of years. They turned into a dark liquid called oil and a gas called methane.

Coal is a black rock that gives off lots of heat when it burns. It is made from leaves that took in swamps millions of years ago.

We can burn oil, coal and methane gas to make electricity and to power vehicles.

Most metals are hidden underground with other rocks. A few metals are found just as they are at the surface, including gold, silver and copper.

Metals can make lots of useful things including bikes, phones, computers and cars.

Oceans

If you flew out into space and looked back at Earth it would look blue. That's because two thirds of our planet's surface is covered in liquid water. It's mostly found in the oceans and seas.

Waves

Waves are made on the surface of the water as the wind pushes the sea.

Tides

The sea comes in at high tide and goes out at low tide. This happens twice every day because of the way Earth is spinning beneath the Moon.

That's right, the Moon makes our tides! Gravity is a pull that happens between Earth, the Moon and the Sun. It pulls on you too. When you jump, gravity pulls you back down to Earth.

Low tide

High tide

The oceans on planet Earth slowly change shape because the rock beneath them is moving. This creates underwater valleys, caves and mountains.

Mountain

Valley

Did you know...? Seawater is salty because of salt from rocks!

WOMEN IN ART & DESIGN

Who knows who made the first painting? People always assume that was 'him' but just don't know, and most of those probably thought he was 'her'.

Although the age women have made art, even when they weren't supposed to, and sometimes when they were told not to. Take those ancient Greek goddesses. They painted about nature of people and their lives. In fact, in the prehistoric times, about 10,000 years ago, they were painting on cave walls. In fact, the prehistoric women who signed to stand out from the crowd, everyone can make an artistic argument to why one of art and design.

ARTEMISIA GENTILESCI

One of the most accomplished painters of her time, Artemisia was a student of her father's, the artist Ottavio. She was the first woman to be a member of the Accademia delle Arti del Disegno.

OBI KATSUSHIKA
Japan

Oki Katsushika was the daughter of a famous traditional print artist who helped her to become a successful print artist herself. She was the first woman to be a member of the Ukiyo-e school.

MARY COLTER
USA

She was one of the only few female architects in the early twentieth century. Inspired by Native American art, she designed a series of innovative buildings and interiors for the architect Paul Harvey. Her "Prairie School" style was a blend of different, and inspiring.

GUNNBORGA THE GOOD
Iceland

Gunnborga the Good was a famous Icelandic woman who was a poet and a writer. She was the first woman to be a member of the Icelandic Academy of Sciences.

YOKO ONO

FRIDA KAHLO

Frída celebrated her South American heritage by wearing traditional Tehuana dresses.

Frída celebrated her South American heritage by wearing traditional Tehuana dresses. She was the first woman to be a member of the Mexican Academy of Arts.

FRIDA KAHLO

Frída Kahlo is one of the most recognizable artists of the twentieth century, not least because of her 143 paintings, 55 are self-portraits. "I am so often alone", she once said, "and I am the subject I know best."

Frída was born in 1907 in Coyoacán, a suburb of Mexico City. In 1925 she was nearly killed in a horrific bus crash. She suffered multiple fractures to her spine, collarbone, ribs, pelvis, and shoulder. From that day on, Frída was in constant pain and would endure over thirty operations in her short life. While in the hospital, Frída's father gave her some paints. Her mother made her a special easel so she could work lying down and rigged up a mirror so she had a subject - herself. In art, Frída found her voice, a way of expressing her psychological and physical wounds. She used symbolism to describe her distress: perhaps scissors, surrounded by her own fallen hair, or a broken heart lying at her feet. In other work she depicts herself more than once, showing different aspects of her personality. Some were shocked at the frankness with which she bared her soul; most found it exhilarating.

Oddly, during her lifetime, Frída was often talked of as the wife of the famous mural artist Diego Rivera. Today, he is remembered as Frída's husband! Their relationship was stormy and passionate. They once even divorced but remarried a year later. Everything she felt and experienced was poured into her work. The torment of her broken body after the bus crash became a painting called The Broken Column, referring to her own spine. Frída partly wore her colourful, embroidered Tehuana dresses to disguise her limp, but traditional attire was also a way of exploring her place in the history of South America.

Her first solo exhibition, in New York, 1935, was a huge success, and the Louvre in Paris bought one of her paintings the year after. Frída was internationally famous. She became a professor at La Esmeralda school of art but by now she was so sick she had to hold classes at home. She attended the opening of her first and only solo exhibition in Mexico in her bed.

Against the advice of her doctors, Frída, who had always been politically active, attended a demonstration, weakening her beyond repair. She died in 1954, in the house in which she had been born.

"They thought I was a surrealist but I wasn't. I never painted dreams, I painted my own reality."
