YOGA POSE

Try these poses before bedtime or when you want to feel calm.

CHILD'S POSE

Bend your legs, fold your body on to your thighs and either rest your arms by your sides or extend them in front of you, whichever feels more comfortable.

SAY "I AM AT REST"

TREE POSE

Fast your feet on your ankles or above your knees and balance. Then change to your other leg.

SAY "I AM BALANCED"

BUTTERFLY POSE

Sit on the ground, press your feet together, and roll your shoulders back.

SAY "I AM SAFE"

CAT POSE

Breathe in and look up, lifting your back drop down. Breathe out and tuck in your chin, lifting your back in a high arch.

SAY "I AM AT EASE"

LADYBIRD POSE

Bend your knees, roll your shoulders back, and press your hands together.

SAY "I AM HAPPY"

SLEEP POSE

Lie on your back and take slow breaths. Close your eyes if you want. Try to empty yourself of thoughts. If your mind wanders away, notice where it goes, then bring your attention back to your breathing.

SAY "I AM AT HOME"

YOUR SAFE PLACE

Draw or stick a picture of somewhere you feel completely safe and happy.

Your safe place could be somewhere you've seen or been to, heard about, read about or dreamt about. A special, safe place where everything feels peaceful, relaxed and wonderful.

TAKE A BREATH!

Try this breathing exercise to help you relax:

STEP 1

Make sure you are sitting comfortably in a quiet and safe place. When you feel ready, close your eyes. Notice your breathing. Think about how it feels breathing in and breathing out. Try to breathe in through your nose and out through your mouth.

STEP 2

Place your hand on your tummy and focus on the feeling of your stomach rising and falling with each breath. When you breathe in, quietly say 'in' to yourself, and when you breathe out, quietly say 'out' to yourself.

STEP 3

Concentrate on nothing but your breathing and try to let go of any other thoughts you may have.

When you've had lots of practice at the breathing exercise, see if you can think about a happy memory at the same time. This way, your happy memory will take up all the space in your brain, and there won't be any room for the worries.

The Bird Book

An inspiring introduction to 50 wild birds for mindful post-Covid nature watchers.

- Sample contents: HOW TO SPOT BIRDS; GARDENS - Wren; Robin; PARKS AND URBAN OASES - Mute Swan; Magpie; TOWNS AND CITIES - Swift; Starling; FRESHWATER - Dipper; Mallard; AGRICULTURAL LAND - Kestrel; Buzzard; COASTS - Puffin; Gannet; WOODLANDS - Jay; Pheasant; MOORLANDS AND MOUNTAINS - Curlew; Raven
- Birding has become popular among urban twenty- and thirty-somethings that Conde Nast Traveller called it one of the biggest international trends of 2017.

The Bird Book

HOW TO HELP LOCAL BIRDS

AND WHY WE NEED TO

The wild has always been essential to us here. Open a window, step out of your door, look up into the sky and celebrate the birds you see there. Wildlife knows no national boundaries, and birds bring the wonder of the wider world up close. The help we can offer to the birds on our doorstep supports populations both at home and far away.

But the numbers of many species have declined in recent years. The IUCN (International Union for Conservation of Nature) that lists an international database that gives each species a conservation status, from Least Concern to Extinct. This book lists the IUCN status of each bird, as well as giving local conservation information.

CHAFFINCH

FRINGILLA COELEBS

The chaffinch is a frequent visitor to bird feeders all year round, preferring to pick up fallen seeds from the ground rather than feeding from the table itself. As the year progresses, these birds shift from a diet of insects in spring, to one of mainly seeds, and they forage both in trees and on the ground.

Listen out for their vast repertoire of powerful calls. Their song differs depending on their location – chaffinches are one of the few birds with regional accents! Their main call is a short, repetitive trill known as a 'rain call' in the UK, as it was believed to predict storms.

Chaffinches have had a difficult history with humans. Their beautiful song attracted attention, and wild chaffinches were caught and sold as caged songbirds. People would bet on the number of times each chaffinch would repeat its song. Though largely outlawed, the practice still continues with captive-bred birds in parts of Europe.

The male chaffinch is vibrantly coloured and unmistakable. He has a blue-grey cap, with pink or rust-red cheeks and garden to help emulate natural habitats and preserve the ecosystem.

If you have the space, build a bird feeding station. Bird favourite foods include seed, suet, and insects. You can also play our part in protecting the world we share with birds. Conservation organisations (see page 152) explain how we can help the planet and birds in more detail, including how to install nest boxes – out of reach of local cats – and how to maintain feeders.

Once your garden or local area is thriving, you can join with citizen science initiatives to count the birds that visit. As we deepen our understanding of the natural world, as the community of bird-lovers grows, and as we do what we can to help the birds in our local patch, there is hope that we can protect the dawn chorus for generations to come.

Another way of helping birds is to be mindful of what we consume and how we live. Making sure that our food – particularly fish – is sourced sustainably, reducing waste and limiting light pollution will all have an impact. We can each play our part in protecting the world we share with birds. Conservation organisations (see page 152) explain how we can help the planet and birds in more detail, including how to install nest boxes – out of reach of local cats – and how to maintain feeders.

Once your garden or local area is thriving, you can join with citizen science initiatives to count the birds that visit. As we deepen our understanding of the natural world, as the community of bird-lovers grows, and as we do what we can to help the birds in our local patch, there is hope that we can protect the dawn chorus for generations to come.

BLUE TIT

CYANISTES CAERULEUS

One of the cornerstones of your garden, if you spot a flash of blue, yellow, white and green, it is likely to be a blue tit. Seeing these birds helps support local and British birds with birds full of more is a new sign that spring is upon us.

To their credit they add their beaks, feathers and even spines! Unlike many other birds, blue tits are not just as happy to eat bird food. Blue tits usually have a single brood each year. Eggs hatch in May, and chicks emerge for the world to see about three weeks later.

Blue tits are said to be the most attractive garden bird, but they are more than just a pretty face. They perform song displays, including while on the hunt for their food, including their famous 'pump' song. It is these complexities that make their feathers a striking colour. They contain high levels of a pigment, known as carotenoids, which produces the bright yellow colour on the blue tit's cheeks.

These birds are not particularly busy, and will back into their nests, and

SPARROWHAWK

ACCIPITER NISUS

As you sit in your garden, watching birds dart to and from your feeder, a sparrowhawk appears from behind a hedge or a bush, and you notice it. It is a predator, and it is a bird of prey, taking the bird food you have put out.

As with most birds of prey, the female is larger – by up to twenty-five percent, which is one of the greatest size differences between sexes of any bird species. Their coloration is remarkably different too. Females have grey-brown upper parts compared to the male's bluish-grey appearance. Both sexes have much paler underparts. This 'counter-shading' blends up the bird's outline against the sky or light, so that prey is less likely to see them approach with their flag-like flight patterns. A perfectly crafted predator.

Sparrowhawks crashed during the agricultural revolution that followed

World War Two as more pesticides were used in farming. Once harmful chemicals were banned, populations recovered, and sparrowhawks are now one of the most common birds of prey species in Europe.

Once at home on the edge of woodlands, sparrowhawks are now just as likely to be spotted in the suburbs as they are in the countryside. You can see sparrowhawks at any time of the year, but the most exciting time to spot one is early spring, when males perform a territorial 'display' flight, diving high into the sky before diving back down again at stomach-churning speeds to ward off rivals and attract a mate.

We Are Palestinian

Geography

There are so many beautiful places in Palestine that it would be impossible to cover them all. So in this section, we're going to explore some of the most famous cities and find out what makes them so special. Some of these cities are new in Israel, but they still have big Palestinian populations, and our culture and rich history flourish in the landmarks and traditions.

Jerusalem

Jerusalem is one of the oldest cities on Earth, traces of civilization there go back 4,000 years. In that time, it has been destroyed, captured and renamed – but it has survived, and remains a very special place. One reason is that it is the holy city for the three major Abrahamic religions: Judaism, Christianity and Islam. The major landmarks for these religions – the Western Wall, the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the Garden Tomb and the Dome of the Rock and Al-Aqsa – are all in Jerusalem.

Did you know?
Jerusalem is the most visited city in the world. Over three million people go there each year!

Although Jerusalem is a big city today, it is one of the oldest cities in the world. It is the holy city for the three major Abrahamic religions: Judaism, Christianity and Islam. The major landmarks for these religions – the Western Wall, the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the Garden Tomb and the Dome of the Rock and Al-Aqsa – are all in Jerusalem.

Fun Fact
The wall surrounding the Old City is about 1,900 years old. It was built by King David.

The walls are made of stone and are very old. They are made of stone and are very old. They are made of stone and are very old. They are made of stone and are very old.

The streets are made of stone and are very old. They are made of stone and are very old. They are made of stone and are very old. They are made of stone and are very old.

Gaza

Gaza is a Palestinian territory that borders Egypt on one side and Israel on the other. It is made up of four main areas, the largest of which is Gaza City. It is also one of the most densely populated places on Earth. This means that there are many people living in a very small space.

Did you know?
There are about five million people living in Gaza. It is about the same size as the UK city of Belfast, which has a population of 25,000.

Most of the people in Gaza are refugees – people who fled their homes because of war. They came from other places in Palestine, like Haifa and Ramla, and even far north like the Galilee. They hoped they would be able to go back after the 1948 Arab-Israeli War, but have never been allowed to.

Gaza was once famous for its beautiful beaches on the Mediterranean Sea and its fishing industry. However, Israel's control of the waters restricts Gaza fishermen from going far out to sea to fish, which means it's increasingly difficult to make a living as a fisherman. Unfortunately, Gaza is also geographically isolated from the rest of the country, making it almost impossible for anyone to visit or leave it.

While these things are sad, the people of Gaza are strong and hopeful, and we can learn many lessons from them about how to live life in the face of hardship. Famous artists like Mahatma (p. 9) who paints beautiful pictures, and musicians like Mohammed Assaf (p. 10) are from Gaza. On a day-to-day basis, the people of Gaza do the same activities people across the world do, like going to school, working, meeting, even singing and dancing.

Supported and empowered by their families, their faith and by each other, the people of Gaza continue to live their lives.

Jericho

People believe that Jericho is the oldest city in the world. It is also the lowest city on earth, sitting 258 meters below sea level. To understand what that means, picture yourself walking away from the beach and hiking down a valley – you would have to go down about 80 flights of stairs to reach Jericho.

Did you know?

When archaeologists explored Jericho, they found remains of early settlements going back 11,000 years!

The name of the valley it sits in is Wadi Qelt, which itself sits in the larger Jordan Valley in the West Bank.

People have always lived in Jericho, from the age of hunter-gatherers to the present day. It's also one of the first places in the world to have agriculture and probably where irrigation, the process of supplying water to plants, was invented. It is the kind of city you call an oasis, or a fertile land in a desert environment. Ein es-Sultan (or The Sultan's Spring), which produces about 1,000 gallons of water per minute, is what waters the whole area.

Jericho can get hot in the summer, but its winters are quite mild, rarely dipping below 10°C. This pleasant weather makes it a very popular place to visit for both Palestinians and tourists. People from all over the world visit Jericho to see its rich history, and visit landmarks like Hisham's Palace, an ancient castle built over 1,200 years ago during the Umayyad Dynasty.

Fun Fact

More than 40,000 people visit Hisham's Palace each year.

Fix Your Fashion

CHAPTER 1

WHAT'S WRONG WITH FASHION?

WHAT IS FAST FASHION?

We all want to look our best without breaking the bank. But at the same time, we don't want to support an industry that doesn't respect our planet or its workforce.

'Fast fashion' is now the most common way people buy clothes. So most of us are already playing a part in supporting practices that we would rather not be encouraging. But we aren't here to play the blame game. The concept that evolved into today's fast fashion business model has been around for decades. It redefined the industry to such an extent that it is now difficult to avoid.

We can trace the roots of fast fashion back to the launch of a number of household brands, which introduced collections of limited availability to keep the production costs down. Shoppers were encouraged to snap up clothes as they came in-store and to pop back more frequently to check for new items. To keep up with this fast turnaround, brands often took control of the entire supply chain, from overseeing the sewing to running the shop floor. New designs were hitting the racks as often as every two weeks. Many brands started to offer the latest trends at lightning speed and, importantly, at purse-friendly prices. This quick-response style of making and selling clothes took off and soon became the norm.

Before this, clothing was made in a very different way and the entire process was much slower. It could take months to create a design, source the fabrics and produce the finished piece. The fast fashion business model sources cheap materials and uses low-cost labour to turn high-end style into inexpensive garments in record times.

With new collections being promoted more frequently, consumers were encouraged to shop for clothing more often, making purchases based solely on trends rather than our needs. We have been told to 'shop it we drop' from an ever-changing selection of affordable collections. And of course when you look great, you feel great, so it's no wonder that the phenomenon caught on and changed our shopping habits.

If it has crossed your mind that having affordable new clothes each month sounds too good to be true, then you are right. According to United Nations News, the fashion industry is the second most polluting industry in the world and is a supporter of unsafe working practices. Fashion consumption has changed rapidly in recent years but by making an effort to change our habits, we can make a positive impact on the fashion industry.

SPEEDY SERVICE

In December 2020, the Financial Times noted that Zara's super-fast supply chain could take products from design to sale in just four to six weeks, developing a whopping 24,000 products a year.

DID YOU KNOW?

It takes around 7500 litres of water to make a single pair of jeans. That equates to the average amount of water we drink over seven years.

PLANET PROBLEMS

Looking at your favourite pair of jeans, it can seem strange to think that the trousers that never fail to make you feel fabulous might be having a negative impact on the planet. Figures reported in 2018 showed that the fashion industry was responsible for emitting an estimated 1.2 billion tonnes of CO2 equivalent (CO2e) per year. This is more carbon than is produced by all international flights and maritime shipping combined. As reported by the UN Environment Programme, the fashion industry is responsible for a staggering 8 percent of global carbon emissions.

The key to solving the entire climate crisis may not be stuffed inside our closets, but one look at our bulging collections might act as a catalyst to bring about positive change. Glossy magazines and catwalk shows give us a sense of what to wear, showcasing perfectly crafted models and collections that inspire, excite and ignite our senses. So it's no wonder we are practically picking our jaws off the floor when told that this is one of the most polluting industries, with the fast fashion sector being a primary contributor.

So why are our clothes such big culprits when it comes to climate change? The production process impacts the environment at every stage. Most garments require vast quantities of water to produce and many fabrics use harmful chemicals in the production process. There are also huge amounts of energy and resources needed for garment production, transportation into stores and, ultimately, the disposal of clothing at the end of its short lifespan. It's true that almost everything we do has an environmental impact of some sort, but the big problem here is the rate at which the production process has been growing.

Activists have been challenging us to think in a new way with 'circular fashion' in mind. Circular fashion means designing and producing clothes in an ethical and sustainable way, using them for as long as possible, before disposing of them without harming the planet. Some fashion designers and brands are now following suit, thinking of innovative ways they can become more sustainable.

PEOPLE MATTER

As well as having an impact on the planet, fast fashion affects people, too. The fashion industry is one of the most labour-intensive sectors and the statistics are mind blowing. There are more than 40 million people working in garment factories worldwide. Some 85 percent of those workers are women and the lowest reported wages are just $3 a day. With eye-opening statistics coming to light in recent years, it's no wonder people are coming together to make a change.

No matter what your style is, you will be familiar with the term 'sweatshops', which refers to garment factories that are cramped to the point of overcrowding and pay workers a tiny wage. Fast-paced schedules and barebones budgets call for teams that can produce garments at speed, where safety is often of little concern. Those working in unsafe conditions are risking their lives to make our clothes. These workers are part of communities who often find themselves locked in a cycle of poverty, as they need to earn money but have very few options other than the 'opportunities' presented by global fashion labels.

Sweatshops are most common in South East Asia, China, India and parts of Central and South America, but they also exist in Europe and the UK.

In garment factories in the UK, there have been reports of workers earning hourly rates well under the National Minimum Wage, as well as non-COVID-19 safe environments. Allegations of this type show that we shouldn't confuse a label that says 'Made in the UK' with ethical production methods.

Now is the time to ask the question, 'Who made my clothes?'

Tragic Timeline

In the last decade alone, there have been several disasters that have rocked garment workers.

Cartier: The Story Behind the Style

The Beginnings of Cartier

The house of Cartier started with one man, Louis-François Cartier, but it would take a family to make it one of the most recognised and respected jewellers in history.

It was, in fact, Louis-François' father, Pierre Cartier, who set the dynasty in motion, although he could never have imagined the consequences of his actions at the time. Pierre had fought in the Napoleonic wars and spent time locked in the prison ships docked off the harbour at Portsmouth in Britain. When the war ended in 1815, Pierre returned to Paris, destitute and aimless. He would go on to find employment as a watchmaker and have five children with his wife Elisabeth, a washerwoman.

The eldest of the children born into this working-class Parisian family was Louis-François, and when he was barely out of school, his father sent him to work as an apprentice in a jewellery workshop owned by Adolphe Picard on Rue Montorgueil in Paris. It was a tough education – days were long and grueling and order was maintained with a whip – but he stayed and in 1847, at the age of 27, Louis-François bought the business from Picard, renaming it Cartier.

OPPOSITE: Cartier founder, Louis-François Cartier.

His makers mark – a symbol hallmarked into every piece of Cartier jewellery to authenticate it – was his initials, L. C., separated with an arc of letters playing cool, perhaps to a nod to the financial gamble he was taking. Luckily, the risk paid off and the Cartier business thrived and expanded. In 1866, Princess Mathilde, a cousin of Emperor Napoleon III, purchased one of its jewels, and the Cartier name was suddenly whispered among Parisian high society, even reaching the international elite. Three years later, Louis-François bought Gillon, a Parisian jeweller better known than his own, and renamed his business Cartier Gillon.

Louis-François' son Alfred Cartier took over the family business in 1874, but it was the arrival of his own three sons – the highly ambitious Louis, Pierre and Jacques – that would really shake up the jeweller and initiate its ascendancy to the global brand we know today. The brotherly revolution started with Louis, who joined the maison in 1898. A year later he spearheaded the remaining of the business, stripping away Gillon to once again be known simply as Cartier. At the same time, the business opened a boutique at 13 rue de la Paix, just a stone's throw from Place Vendôme, the heartland of luxury jewellery in Paris. This venture was funded by an enormous dowry levied through a strategic arranged marriage to Antoinette Caroline Warth, granddaughter of world famous composer Charles Frederick Worth.

Cartier garnered a reputation for innovation, and the title of jeweller would later live by a motto, 'Never copy, only create.' One of Louis' most successful experiments at the close of the 19th century was to use platinum in place of gold. This precious metal is now widely used by jewellers across the world, but at the time it was purely an industrial metal and thus revolutionary in the jewellery market. The white metal, which, unlike silver, does not tarnish, is highly malleable and allowed Cartier to create delicate, diamond-set jewels inspired by those owned by 18th-century French aristocrats, a stark contrast to the heavier, colourful, Romantic Art Nouveau jewels popular at the time. A signature Cartier Garsfield style emerged, swirling across platinum tiaras, necklaces and earrings, that won over well-heeled women, including royals, in Europe and the United States.

OPPOSITE RIGHT: Pierre Cartier playing golf in 1890.

Pierre Cartier, the second eldest of the brothers, would be an agitator in his own right, championing the global expansion of the brand's retail empire. He started by opening a Cartier boutique on New Burlington Street in London in 1902, where the brand showcased a new style of geometric, abstract jewels with unusual colour combinations that would lay the foundations for the Art Deco jewellery movement.

The first decade of the 20th century was an important time for Cartier. In 1904, the jeweller received its first royal certificate from King Edward VII of Britain, and soon started to supply many other royal courts including those of Russia, Spain and Siam (now Thailand). In the same year, Louis Cartier created what he believed to be the first ever men's wristwatch for aviator Alberto Santos-Dumont.

Pierre, meanwhile, embarked on a journey to Russia; one that would prove profitable in commissions from its high society, but also as a source of inspiration that would shape Cartier's jewellery designs for years to come.

In 1909, Pierre would focus his wanderlust on America, opening a Cartier boutique on New York's Fifth Avenue; the precursor to its famous flagship store further up the street, the purchase of which he would famously broker a decade later in exchange for a string of pearls. Back in London, his younger brother Jacques stepped in to take over its British branch. That same year, Cartier moved uptown to a prestigious Bond Street address, where it remains to this day.

As Cartier's man in Britain, and, as such, jeweller to King George V, Jacques joined members of the aristocracy on a trip to India for the Delhi Durbar in 1911. It was an event to commemorate the coronation of the King, with two weeks of festivities, during which King George V and Queen Mary would be proclaimed Emperor and Empress of India. This adventure to a new land would also prove to be a seminal trip for the house of Cartier. Jacques' sociable nature and love of travel would win ground-breaking commissions from India's rich, jewel-loving maharajas and inspire a whole new category of jewellery, pioneered by Cartier and much copied by other companies.

Tiffany & Co.: The Story Behind the Style

The King of Diamonds: Charles Lewis Tiffany

Charles Lewis Tiffany, the man who would go on to win the moniker of New York's 'King of Diamonds', did not lead from a long line of jewellers. His start in life was more modest, making his name in high society all the more glittering.

Tiffany was born in 1812 in Canton and Ohio. Tiffany, and grew up in the small town of Killbuck, Connecticut. The major business of the town was the production of cotton goods, and the family owned a manufacturing company. Tiffany was educated at local schools in the area before joining his father in the family cotton business.

By 1837, Tiffany felt restless. No longer satisfied by working at home with his family, he began to envision how he could make his own mark in business. He turned up with a school friend, J. R. Young, and the duo set in motion a plan to open a stationary store in New York City. With a $1,000 loan from Charles' father, the ambitious 25-year-old made the 150-mile journey north. The store, named Tiffany & Young, opened its doors at 259 Broadway that same year, and on its first day, $4.98 rang through the till.

Tiffany & Young soon began to expand its remit, stocking glassware, cutlery, porcelain, clocks and jewellery, and began to develop a reputation as a purveyor of fine goods of taste. In 1841, the business expanded with the addition of a third partner, J. L. Ellis, and was renamed Tiffany, Young & Ellis. The trio expanded the store, doubling its size by moving the adjacent unit, and continued to increase the quality of the goods they sold, with Young making buying trips to Europe to pick out English and Italian jewellery.

It was, in fact, political events in Europe that would be the making of this American luxury success story. In 1848, the states quo resulted in significant revolutions enough to topple European monarchies and strip aristocracies of their power and wealth. It was a societal upheaval known as the Springtime of Nations. More than 50 countries were inspired by this, but none more so than France, where the monarchy was overthrown and replaced with a republic. Such widespread panic and disruption had to impact on the price of diamonds, and Tiffany, Young & Ellis prospered. By now, the firm was manufacturing its own jewellery, and the opportunity to pick up diamonds at low prices put them at an advantage. The stocking of the storehouse also housed some important gems – the likes of which had never been seen in America before – and Tiffany secured a number of important business, including the collection of Hungary's Prince Esterházy.

In 1853, Young and Ellis decided to retire from the business, but Charles Lewis Tiffany was far from finished. He found new partners to work with, and the business was, at this point, renamed Tiffany & Company. Tiffany would go on to build his empire, grabbing headlines along the way. By the 1860s, the business was well established as an expert in choice for the rich and the famous, both for its jewellery and its top-quality silver. In 1862, President Abraham Lincoln purchased a set of pearl necklaces and earrings from Tiffany & Co. for his wife Mary Todd Lincoln, who wore them to her husband's inauguration ball.

In 1870, Tiffany & Co. moved into a large new store in New York's Union Square, marking the beginning of a major decade for the jeweller one in which Charles Lewis Tiffany would earn the title the King of Diamonds. It was a single purchase that would truly justify Tiffany into the high-jewellery atmosphere – a 237.42ct rough fancy yellow diamond. When cut and polished, what emerged was a diamond of staggering enormous proportions for a rare yellow diamond of that quality. It weighed 128.54ct and was named the Tiffany Diamond.

If the purchase of this new world famous stone, which is on permanent display at Tiffany & Co.'s Fifth Avenue store in New York, signalled Tiffany's intention to dominate the diamond market, his groundbreaking creation eight years later sealed the deal. Seeking to celebrate the beauty of diamonds, Tiffany designed an engagement ring in 1886 that remains a sought-after classic to this day. The Tiffany Setting engagement ring kicked back against the over-fussy designs of the time with a clean, minimalist band and a six-prong setting that lifted the diamond above the ring. The purpose for this innovative setting was to allow light to flow through the stone, and therefore maximise the sparkle. It was a huge hit, and the iconic design has become synonymous with engagement rings.

Just 15 years before his death, Tiffany pulled off a final coup. The aftermath of the French Revolution that had gifted Tiffany an abundance of important gems in 1848 and its early credibility in high-jewellery circles rumbled on. In 1887, the French government was masterminding a plan to sell the crown jewels of its fallen monarchy. Outwardly, it claimed that a democracy such as France had no need for "objects of luxury, devoid of usefulness and moral worth". The rumour mill suggested that it was in fact afraid of a power grab by Bourbons, Orléanists or Bonapartists, who might use ownership of the jewels to claim a right to rule. Tiffany cared little for this political posturing, but he did see an opportunity in it. He travelled to Paris to attend the auction of the French crown jewels at the Louvre. He sat in the audience, ready to make his bids, along with fellow jewellers, including a young Frédéric Boucheron, and Orléanists, members of the French royal family, whose pockets proved too shallow on the day to win back their family heirlooms.

When the final strike of the gavel fell, Charles Lewis Tiffany had in his possession close to a third of the historic crown jewels. He placed them in specially crafted red-leather boxes, embossed in gold with the words Diamants de la Couronne, translating from French as Crown Diamonds. Inside, impressed on the silk lining in the lid, was Tiffany & Co. New York and Paris, thus securing Tiffany & Co.'s place in the history books as a purveyor of royal jewels and his own coronation as the King of Diamonds.

Rolex: The Story Behind the Style

The World's Most Famous Watch Brand

Rolex has become shorthand for luxury. There is no watch you can strap on to your wrist that will be recognised for the status symbol it is quicker than a Rolex. And for many, this is the appeal.

Yet there was a time when the name Rolex – a word completely made up by the brand's founder Hans Wilsdorf – was not famous. It would take hard work, boundary pushing and a lot of self-belief on the part of Wilsdorf, a German orphan, to jettison the name into the upper echelons of horology; starting with convincing the pocket watch-wearing gentleman of the early 20th century that they wanted to wear the time on their wrist at all.

As you will discover, Rolex won its place in history by constantly questioning what was possible and innovating at all costs. It pioneered so many elements of watchmaking and design that are standard today, such as waterproof watches, placing a date window on the dial, and even removing the need to wind our watches.

It also found its way into some of the most exciting moments in history by placing Rolex watches on the wrists of adventurers and explorers. Its watches have travelled to the world's highest peaks and to the depths of the ocean; they have survived extremes of temperature, speed and pressure.

The story of Rolex is so much more than that of its watches. It is one of epic ambition and vision. What started out as a one-man band in London's Hatton Garden would become the epicentre of the Swiss watchmaking industry, and one of the most recognisable and coveted brands in the world.

Vivienne Westwood: The Story Behind the Style

Derbyshire Days

Vivienne Isabel Swire was born on April 8 1941 to Gordon and Dora Swire at the Partington Maternity Home, Glossop. The future fashion revolutionary had one sister, Olga Swire, born 1945, and one brother, Gordon Swire, born 1946. She grew up in the parish of Tintwistle, Derbyshire (which was formerly part of Cheshire until 1974), both during and after World War II, enjoying what has been recounted as a fairly idyllic childhood, living at the semi-constructed Millbrook Cottage and playing outside until late.

The young Swire clan were encouraged to be creative and make things more than they were encouraged to read. Vivienne knew from a young age that she was good at making things, notably models at school, and she especially enjoyed sewing classes. Her mother would often make them clothes, and worked as a weaver in a local cotton factory.

The young Vivienne – who remembers having a passion for sport from an early age – attended Hollingworth and Tintwistle Primary Schools from 1946 to 1952, at which point she passed the scholarship exam for Glossop Grammar School. She continued to be good at art during her time at Glossop Grammar, and considered attending art school.

Among Westwood's most formative fashion memories are the make-do-and-mend philosophy that came to define Britain in austerity, as well as the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II in 1953, when Vivienne was 12 years old. The influence of these two events can be seen throughout every era of her designs, and the make-do-and-mend philosophy is evident in the motto "Buy Less. Choose Well. Make it Last", which the brand still promotes to this day. She expertly blended the elements of customisation, tradition and austerity together to create her own unique brand, which is now contrasted by her husband Andreas Konevskis.

Malcolm McLaren

Westwood met Malcolm McLaren in 1965. An art student and a friend of her younger brother, Gordon, he would go on to become her creative collaborator for almost the next 20 years. Malcolm is an enigma with the punk movement as Vivienne, and their partnership is legendary. He was something of a maverick of marketing stunts and disruption, before such things became commonplace in contemporary fashion. The pair were in a relationship for a time but never seem to have married.

Malcolm was interested in politics and was fascinated by the French Situationists, a creative culture of writers and artists who wished to eradicate capitalism through acts of everyday life. He was a driving force in bringing politics, provocations, society and culture into Westwood's world. She found him to be charismatic and knowledgeable, but also full of contradictions.

In 1967, they had a son, Joseph Ferdinand Gervais, who would go on to follow in his parents' footsteps and enter the world of fashion. He founded the very successful lingerie company, Agent Provocateur.

It was in the early 1970s that McLaren and Westwood began to build their empire. Malcolm, by this point, had left art school and Vivienne was about to quit teaching. The plan had been to sell vintage records together, and there was talk of setting up a stall. But a retail opportunity – via a new friend – on King's Road was about to arise.

Tommy Roberts, of the legendary Mr Freedom fashion business, took over the lease of 438 King's Road in 1969. He and his business partner, the fashion entrepreneur Trevor Miller, were well-known for their eclectic and daring fashion eye which appealed to the glitzier of the 1960s. It was under Miller's control the shop was renamed Paradise Garage, the spot was already well-known for fashion.

Vivienne and Malcolm, who were regulars on King's Road, ended up moving the back of 438 King's Road, before taking the whole thing over and rebranding it. It would be known over the coming years as Let It Beak, Too Fast To Live, Too Young To Die and Sex and Sublimation, all of which would encompass the raucous, confrontational and non-conformist nature of McLaren and Westwood. Eventually the shop would come to define the varied-but-defined style we know as punk today.

A Revolutionary is Born

There are few British designers, or brands, that have made quite as much of an impact on the fashion landscape as Vivienne Westwood. A fashion designer of both cult and commercial success (which is a rare combination), she was a punk and a pioneer, a rebel and a provocateur, an activist and a change-maker.

Over the course of a career that spanned half a century, Dame Vivienne Westwood would become synonymous with the British punk scene. Punk is what immediately springs to mind for most when her name is mentioned, along with the King's Road, corsets, platforms, tartan, crinolines, pirate boots, sustainability and climate change awareness. The list goes on. Her shows and interviews have become legendary – she is famous for using fashion as a platform to speak out on the issues she cared most about.

There is no doubt that Westwood's affinity for fashion history has helped her designs stand out. They are often historically informed, yet never to the point that they look odd. Where something shouldn't work, it always did, thanks to Vivienne's ability to balance the old with the modern – she was a genius when it came to style mashups. And the original Vivienne Westwood aesthetic rooted in a DIY approach never fully went away. Her designs feel intrinsically British and perfectly eccentric.

Westwood was the original multi-hyphenate and, in many ways, light years ahead of her time. She has inspired generations of designers that came after her, whether established and successful or aspiring and eager. Fashion critics even noted whiffs of her spirit at the London Fashion Week collections of autumn/winter 2023, which took place in February 2023, after her death. It's no wonder that her name is up there with the likes of Yves Saint Laurent, Christian Lacroix and the late great Karl Lagerfeld.

Story Of My Home: The Art of Home

THE FRONT DOOR

Strong, bright colours are not to everyone's taste, however, so if you prefer something a little safer then darker tones are usually a great option. Earthy hues from a neutral palette are classic and timeless.

@homeathemout

The aspect of your door will have an effect on the way your chosen colour appears, so get a tester pot before jumping in headfirst. Apply it to a piece of paper and observe how different light levels change its appearance throughout the day. This will give you a good idea of how well your chosen colour will work in practice.

"I'm not an overly superstitious person, but since I bought my last house I've tried to encourage good fortune by painting my front door in a colour that Feng Shui experts suggest is beneficial. My current door faces west, which means I should choose earthy tones. It's currently painted in Farrow & Ball Lichen: a calm, muted green which works well with nature." Maz

If your door is made from a composite material or aluminium, there are many products available that allow you to alter the colour of your door easily. A quick online search or asking at your local DIY store will usually yield some good advice on which products to use.

"Any door worth its salt deserves to be furnished with a beautiful doorknob and knocker, and to be adorned with a bold number, house name or even your own blue plaque!" Joanne

In The Club

You Did It!

No matter how you gave birth, you should be so, SO proud of yourself and your body... You bloody did it!

Maybe you got the birth you wanted or maybe you didn't.

You might have feelings about the birth you'll need to work through later, but right now enjoy that soggy hospital toast and stewed cup of tea. You are a goddess (albeit a bloated, sweaty, exhausted one).

Some mums feel that overwhelming surge of love, some don't - and that's okay; it doesn't mean you won't.

All I remember thinking was 'Thank fuck that's over, can I go to sleep now please!'

In these first few days, everyone always asks about the baby. Remember to look after yourself too. You've just been through a monumental thing and your body probably won't feel like your own for a while, so be kind to it.

Until... Pop! The Bubble Bursts

The first few weeks (months) of being a new mum are relentless. You've been riding high on adrenaline and then you suddenly feel like you've been hit by a double-decker bus.

I remember sobbing on the phone to my mum in the first few weeks that I couldn't do it, that I felt so out of my depth and just physically and mentally exhausted.

You'll cry A LOT and worry about things you never knew you could. I was terrified that I would drop her, that she would get ill and I wouldn't know what to do, that the room was too hot, or too cold.

With all the stress and hormones, being a new mum is an emotional rollercoaster. Rest assured that every first-time mum feels overwhelmed. For most, it's the hardest thing they've ever done.

You probably won't believe it, but you're doing so well and every day will feel a tiny bit easier.

Brighter days are coming.

If Looks Could Kill

Somewhere, new mums have this built-in function that makes them wake up at the slightest noise from the baby. We can go from the deepest sleep to PING wide awake in an instant.

Some people could sleep through a tornado. That's all I'm saying.

Five Things You Won't Believe

We were up every hour last night, you!

1. How little sleep you actually need

2. That you'd do anything to make them happy

4. How much you love them

3. How many times you can try unsuccessfully to leave the house

5. How fast it goes... WTF how is she one already?!

Kindness (A User's Guide)

Love is like a bibliophile

She's been called everything from the Iron Butterfly to the Smoky Mountain Sargeant and the Backwoods Babe. But to millions of children around the world, she's known very simply as the Book Lady. An offshoot of her non-profit Dollywood Foundation, the Imagination Library was created in 1995 by Dolly Parton from a desire to help youngsters fall in love with reading - a luxury denied her dad, who was unable to read or write. And so the Queen of Nashville packed books off to kids up to the age of five, completely free of charge. As the Wall Street Journal wrote in 2020, "I just felt like that if kids can learn to read early on, they're not ahead of it."

Initially launched in Tennessee, the mission blew like an early morning breeze across the US, then Canada, the UK, Australia and the Republic of Ireland, to date, over 135 million books have been hurtling their way through the postal system. As for her latest nickname, she admits it. "That is one of the sweetest things ever my whole career," she told CBS. "When the kids get their little books, they always say it's from the Book Lady. So I take pride in that. I believe it takes me to get them to love the books and to learn to read. I'm all about that." In April 2020, during the pandemic's first lockdown, the Queen of Country began a 10-week bedtime reading slot called Goodnight with Dolly, to comfort kids during a period of great anxiety. First out of the station was a live stream of Wally Piker's 1930 classic The Little Engine that Could. "I think it's pretty clear that now is the time to share a story and to share some love," she said.

Any more examples of Parton's wonderwoman? How long have you got? To name a few: her Buddy Program aimed to reduce high school dropout rates during the early 90s through cash incentives. Dolly's We People Fund donated $1000 a month for six months to those who lost their homes in 2005's Great Smoky Mountains wildfires, while her annual Dolly Parton Scholarship awards $5,000 to high achievers in senior County, Tennessee, to help them through college.

Dolly's true (coat of many) colours have been apparent for a long time. As Sarah Senanayake Parton biography She Came to It relates in detail, she's made a habit of being the butt of sexism-based puns to universally beloved icon status, shunning her stuff as a spotlight where women of a certain vintage have typically been invisible. This is the ultra-hard-working, pistol-tendered who forlaid Elton to record 'I Will Always Love You' after his ruthless manager Colonel Tom Parker demanded 90% of the publishing royalties.

And then to top it all, in November 2020 it was reported that Dolly Parton had saved the entire planet. Parton, via her own Covid-19 research fund, had donated $1m to Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee, who had been working rather more than 9 to 5 in their efforts to find a cure for coronavirus. Dolly had volunteered the sum after her doctor friend Hal Abelson, who had once treated her after a car accident, told her all about 'some exciting advancements' they were making. The result was the nearly 95% effective Moderna vaccine. (Our instant chronicle all round of "vaccine, vaccine, vaccine, vaccine..." to the tune of 'Jolene'.)

Her benevolence is beyond compare, with peroxide locks of bright blonde hair. And if the world is to have any kind of real-life superhero, the lady who bounced round the stage like a jumping bean at Glastonbury while hunting Yabby Far on a rhinestone-studded telephone surely qualifies for that honour. What A Woman.

If you see someone without a smile today, give 'em yours.

True colours

In 2005, Spain became only the third country in the world to legalise same-sex marriage. Research in 2015 found a whopping 88% of the population said 'no' to their LGBT+ friends, making it one of the most unapologetic places on Earth.

So it'd be natural to assume that, when it came to Pride celebrations, the rainbow rainbow rainbow would be fluttering from every different flagpole. In your dreams, girlfriend: thanks to a Spanish Supreme Court ruling, only the official flag of Spain, its regions, or the EU flag may be flown from council buildings. And while larger cities and towns openly flouted the law without repercussions, that wasn't the case for little Vilanova de Aiguades on the Costa del Sol.

In June 2020, an eight-metre long rainbow flag proudly flew from the town hall, showing solidarity for the LGBT+ community - something it had done to mark Pride Month since 2016. But after just 48 hours, three residents demanded its removal, citing a ruling issued in response to the use of separatist flags - a ruling which was in no way intended to marginalise the LGBT+ community. Nevertheless, local officials had no choice but to enter the flag be taken down.

Antonio Carlos Acuña, a Torremolinos shopkeeper who had grown up in Vilanova de Aiguades, had a beautifully simple solution. "It bothered me that they had to pull down a flag that wasn't hurting or bothering anyone," he told the Guardian. Having pre-ordered hundreds of flags ahead of Pride (which was now cancelled due to Covid), he took to the town's Facebook page to offer them gratis to anyone willing to raise one. Responses poured in: "The whole village wanted to put up a flag." Quicker than you can say "There's no place like home", this torralva pueblo chico (white town) was transformed. Instead of 20-30 flags, into a riot of colour. As 500 flags followed brightly from balconies and bars. Meanwhile, the council says that even if they're not allowed to fly the flag, they will always stand for tolerance, equality, open-mindedness and respect.

Kindness is to stand in the shoes of the outsider, the unfavoured, the 'stranger', and having stood in those shoes change the world, so it is better for them as well as you. Like different colours in the rainbow flag we exist side by side, different but equally important to the whole. Long before the flag came along we stood together in protest and in celebration, all of us so different yet so alike because we wanted the world to be fairer, and just and decent. Now we stand with those same values and the flag announces us.
Vive la difference!

Lord Michael Cashman
(co-founder of Stonewall, activist, actor, author)

Kindness tip

Use your phone for its original intended purpose: speaking to people! Yep, actually pick up the phone and call a friend. Groundbreaking, right? And a bit scary. But feel the fear and do it anyway. Messages can be so impersonal, or they can get lost in translation or just ignored. All too often, a careless word or butt-up on social media between friends can also cause serious damage if left to fester - another reason to pick up the phone and talk things over properly. And if you're feeling particularly brave and fine of voice, sing a song down the phone. Encourage the recipient to do the same, making a whole chorus in the process. "Ring a friend/ sing a friend" has a certain ring to it.

It won't break the bank

Hurricane Katrina was one of the most ferocious hurricanes to ever hit the United States; the third deadliest, in fact, in US history. Reaching a windspeed of over 170 mph at its peak, followed by devastating floods, the 2005 Category 5 superstorm was responsible for over 1800 deaths, made millions more homeless in New Orleans, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama, and caused an estimated $100 bn of damage.

Infamously, it also exposed serious failings in the country's disaster response systems. While local, state and federal organisations were widely criticised for their handling of the tragedy, it ultimately led to the resignation of the director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency and did lasting damage to President George W Bush's reputation.

But one unlikely organisation did step up in the hour of need. Hancock Bank, a community bank founded in 1899, had itself been badly affected by the disaster. The head office in Gulfport, Mississippi was completely decimated, along with some 40 local branches. They had no electricity, no customer records, and most ATMs were out of service. Bank staff, too, had suffered their own personal tragedies and losses. But in the immediate aftermath, employees collected the literally filthy lucre from waterlogged banks, casinos and ATMs and quite literally laundered it. They washed and ironed banknotes, set up makeshift tables outside branches and did what they do best: they gave out money. To absolutely anybody who needed it. Whether they were an existing customer or not. With no computer records available, and many people not having access to ID or personal possessions, they operated a trust system, scribbling IOUs on scrap paper with just a name, address and social security number. In this way, the bank gave out around $42 m. As Hancock employee Gay Todd told CNN, "they looked after the community."

This act of faith was repaid in buckets. When almost all the money handed out was eventually returned, there was a shortfall of just $300,000. The bank's Chairman, George Schloegel, said, "Basically, people are honest and want to do the right thing. And they'll stand by you if you stand by them." George went on to become mayor of Gulfport in 2010 in a resounding victory, taking nearly 90% of the vote. There was another benefit, too: as communities started to rebuild, and life slowly returned to relative normality, grateful recipients put their money where their mouth was. By the following year deposits at the bank had increased by a whopping $1.5 bn. Kindness, it would seem, is good for business.

The greatness of a community is most accurately measured by the compassionate actions of its members... a heart of grace and a soul generated by love.

On the Money

management and planning. I'm going to tell you the truth and challenge some preconceptions.

I've been in this industry a very long time and have learned from the best. I'm not going to tell you to ask the universe for cash, invest in risky schemes or give you empty promises of becoming a millionaire.

I'm not one to sugarcoat things so let me be clear: the things I will ask you to do aren't always fun, and they aren't always (or ever) sexy but they are realistic and do-able, no matter where you are on your financial journey. You don't need a six-figure salary to have financial freedom but you do need to commit to making some changes.

If there's one thing I can promise, it's that if you do the things I suggest, you will be better with money and, therefore, you will have more of it. So buckle up!

MONEY MYTH BUSTING

Before we get stuck in, here are some common misconceptions about money that I want you to shake off:

- If you're rubbish with money, you'll always be rubbish with money.
- You can't gain control of your finances.
- A high income automatically makes you more wealthy.
- You can only save if you earn lots of money.
- It's too late to start saving.

14

- It's normal to have a lot of debt.
- Only rich people can invest.
- Other people are doing better financially than you.
- Pensions aren't safe or are a waste of time.
- You need to have a job you love.

ACTIVITY

After each chapter, I'm going to set an activity based on what you've learned to help you in a practical way.

Before you go any further, I want you to visualise what you want to achieve by reading this book. The more specific your goals are, the better. For example, 'I want to buy a house' is a very general goal so it will be hard to mark your progress and keep focused. Something like 'I want to save £20,000 towards a deposit in three years' is better – it's specific and has a time frame attached so you can easily measure your progress.

When things get hard, having a clear goal to anchor you is really important. Keeping your goal in mind helps you to stay motivated and reminds you why you're doing what you're doing.

Visualisation techniques are used by the most successful people to help them reach their goals. Your brain is constantly using visualisation in the process of simulating future experiences. This happens naturally and you probably aren't aware of it (unless you have anxiety like me and a brain that likes to imagine every potential

FOOTBALL JOKES

As someone once said, football's a funny old game, and here's your proof. These football funnies are the best gags we could think of. Do you know any great football-based jokes?

Which team members play best when the pitch is waterlogged?
The subs!

Which Brighton defender, called Lewis, can you dip in your tea?
Lewis Dunk!

Why was Coderella dropped from the England Lionses?
She kept running away from the ball!

What did the ref say when the striker was tackled by a chicken?
Fowl!

What do you call it when Robert Lewandowski wears a flat cap, a beanie and a beret, and then makes them disappear?
A hat-trick!

Why did the ref wear two watches to the Champions League final?
He was told that extra time may be needed!

Why is Old Trafford always so windy on match days?
Because it's filled with 76,000 fans!

Why does Lionel Messi wear a bib during games?
Because he's always dribbling!

And here's an old classic... why was Oracula replaced as goalkeeper for the Transylvanian national team?
He was scared of crosses!

BRAinteasers

Some of these crafty conundrums might not be what they seem, so try to be creative and think outside the box when you come up with the answers. And pay attention to how the questions are worded.

1. Neymar is so skilful that he can kick the ball fifty metres and make it come straight back and land on his foot. How does he do it?

2. Before the match kicked off, the brainy spectator said the score would be 0-0. And he was correct. How did he know this?

3. What runs around a football pitch but never replies?

4. At an under-11s game, the goalkeeper on the home team has let in four goals in the first thirty minutes.

5. "You have to take him off at half-time," the trainer says to the Coach. "I can't," says the Coach. "He's my son. He'll never talk to me again!" But the Coach wasn't the goalkeeper's father. What's going on?

6. Which players in a football team can jump higher than the crossbar?

7. A team played three matches and won one, drew one and lost one. They scored four times and let in four goals, and both teams scored in every game. The game they drew finished 1-1. What were the scores in the other games?
Win: []
Draw: 1-1
Loss: []

FOOTBALL TRIVIA

When it comes to football, there are lots of stats, facts and figures, but some are more important than others! How much useless stuff do you know about football? Let's find out - circle the correct answers.

1. At size 13½, which player today has the biggest feet in football?
A. Romelu Lukaku
B. Zlatan Ibrahimovic
C. Virgil van Dijk
D. Erling Haaland

(Fun fact: the biggest boots ever belonged to ex-Arsenal star Kean, whose feet were a size 15½)

2. Why did Man Utd change out of a grey kit and into a different colour at half-time during a game in 1996 against Southampton?
A. The players claimed they couldn't see each other properly on the pitch.
B. An FA official notified them that it was against the rules at that time to play in grey.
C. They were losing 3-0 and the players said the kit was bringing them bad luck.

3. What was unique about Darren Bent's goal for Sunderland against Liverpool in 2009?
A. The ball bounced off his head while he was knocked out in the penalty area.
B. He ran into the goal with the ball stuffed up his shirt.
C. The ball bounced off an inflatable beach ball a fan had thrown on the pitch.

4. Of all footballers, past and present, who is officially the cleverest?
A. Gerard Piqué
B. Frank Lampard
C. Mauro Balotelli

SPOT THE DIFFERENCE

The four footballers here look almost the same, but there are six differences between them. See if you can find them all.
